BIRGER GANGSTER HANGED AS SLAYER OF ASSOCIATE

Trap Sprung at Marion, Ill. on Rado Millich, Murderer of Ward (Casey) Jones at 'Shady Rest.'

CONDEMNED MAN FAINTS ON GALLOWS

Last Request, Granted, Was That Two Jail Mates Pass Night in Party in Death Cell.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Oct. 21.—Rado Millich, a Montenegrin, former member of the band of Southern Illinois gangsters headed by Charlie Birger, was hanged at 10:05 o'clock this morning for the murder of Ward (Casey) Jones, fellow gangster, at "Shady Rest," Birger's cabin, near here, on Oct. 26, 1926.

When taken on the scaffold Millich read a prepared statement, accusing an official of the county of being head of the Birger gang and of plotting the murder of Highway Patrolman Lory Price and his wife, crimes charged to the Birger gangsters. The official and Birger have called this charge ridiculous.

After reading this prepared statement, which admitted the killing of Jones, but pleaded self-defense, Millich made a few remarks concerning clergymen being on the jury that voted to hang him and afterward offering to give him religious counsel.

200 Witness Execution.

There was a large crowd, including many women, on the streets, but not more than 200 were admitted to the enclosure where the execution took place, and deputy sheriffs placed on the roofs of all adjoining buildings kept the curious from viewing the execution.

Just before Sheriff Coleman sprang the trap Millich fainted and had to be pushed back on the trap. He was pronounced dead at 10:15.

Millich admitted shooting Jones in the roadhouse, but pleaded he acted in self-defense. Efforts by his attorneys and the Jugo-Slavian Minister at Washington to obtain a reprieve were futile.

Charlie Birger, ex-cavalryman and leader of the gang which terrorized the coal fields here, is in the Franklin County jail, waiting for the Illinois Supreme Court to review his trial in which he was sentenced to hang for murdering Mayor Joe Adams of West City.

Make Merry Till 4 A. M.

Sheriff Coleman last nght had granted Rado's request that Herman Cox, 30-year-old confessed murderer, and Jack Crews, indicted for the Lory Price murder, be allowed to spend the night with him. These and four others kept up merriment until 4 a. m.

At 7 o'clock last night State's Attorney Boswell called to talk to Millich for the last time.

"Rado, I hear you don't like me," said Boswell.

"I like you much as you like me," replied Millich. "You frame up, you never give me a chance. You frame murder of Lory Price. You two times try to frame Sheriff Coleman to get him killed."

Then Phil Hanna, the executioner, took Millich by the hand, told him his mission and Rado thanked him for being there.

"I am always glad to meet good Christian gentlemen," said the Montenegrin calmly in parting.

Father Joseph A. Tragesser of West Frankfort visited Millich, in the death cell last night and gave the condemned man his first spiritual advice. Millich, while still declining to invite the priest to accompany him to the gallows, talked freely with Father Tragesser of his condition.

The body of Millich was taken to an undertaker's establishment across the street from the county jail, where more than 2000 persons filed by to view it. Burial was arranged for this afternoon in Maplewood Cemetery here.

Millich landed at Ellis Island about 15 years ago when he was 20 years old. He went to the coal fields of Pennsylvania and later to the Illinois coal fields as a miner.

INVENTION SAID TO CHECK DEADLY AIRPLANE SPINS

F. Handley-Page Announces Result of Test After Eight Years' Research.

By the Associated Press.

CRICKLEWOOD, England, Oct. 21.—After eight years of research, F. Handley-Page, airplane designer, has developed an automatic device which he says will prevent planes from going into uncontrolled spins, such as cause 90 per cent of airplane accidents.

The device, which was tried out at the airdrome here yesterday with complete success in the opinion of Handley-Page and his associates, consists of tiny curved surfaces, or wings, on the edge of the top planes. These wings, when not operating, lie along the front of the main wing. If the machine stalls, the air pressure on the wings causes these front extension surfaces to move out automatically on metal projections, giving the necessary grip on the air and enabling the pilot to retain control.

During the tryout, the equipped plane moved at high speed and then came almost to a halt in midair when the pilot stalled his engine. The tail of the machine dropped and the plane hung in the air under lateral control. It dropped its nose slightly, then regained flying speed without going into a spin.

AVIATOR, WHOSE AIRPLANE DECAPITATED SOLDIER, FREED

Lieut. E. P. Rose Acquitted by Courtmartial of Involuntary Manslaughter Charge.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 21.—Elmer P. Rose, army reserve aviator, was acquitted by a courtmartial here today on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the killing of a cavalry man who was struck by Rose's plane. The verdict was returned after five minutes' deliberation by members of the court.

Charges were preferred against Rose after his plane had decapitated Robert E. Griffin, a cavalryman who was galloping across a mesa in artillery maneuvers held near El Paso, Tex., July 26. Rose was a cadet at Kelly Field at the time, but since has been commissioned a Lieutenant.

The prosecution sought to show the accident occurred while Rose "showed off" by swooping low over a cavalry detachment. Witnesses for the deefndant testified Rose was a steady, dependable flyer; that he had not sought to "give the cavalry a thrill," and that he had been ordered to conduct his maneuvers so as to bring out the reaction of cavalry mounts to planes.

LOS ANGELES TOUR TO OTTAWA

The jaunt will be to Ottawa to pay a visit of state to the Governor-General. Sir Philip will be escorted by the three under-secretaries for air of the United States, Trubee Davison of the War Department, Edwin P. Warner of the Navy and William P. MacCracken of the Department of Commerce. The program calls for a start in the morning, luncheon with the Governor-General at Ottawa and return to Washington the same afternoon. The total distance is about 800 miles.

COL. FORBES SAYS HE IS BROKE

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 21. Col. Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, serving two years in Federal prison here for conspiracy to defraud the Government, told Warden T. B. White he has no money to pay his $10,000 fine, on which his release Thursday is contingent, the Warden said today.

Forbes, whose sentence, minus 144 days for good behavior, ends Thursday, has the alternative of paying the fine assessed by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter of Chicago on his conviction and obtaining immediate release, or giving a pauper's affidavit before a United State's Commissioner here and serving 30 days more.

LOSS BY TORNADO IS ESTIMATED TO BE $22,000,000

ASSESSORS FIGURED TOTAL $18,330,790

This Is Swelled Nearly $4,000,000 by Loss to Churches, Schools and Utilities' Equipment.

Property damage in the tornado of Sept. 29 totaled approximately $22,000,000, exclusive of damage to furniture, clothing, automobiles, window glass and trees, it appeared today at the conclusion of a survey of the devastated area by 14 district city assessors.

The city survey of the tornado area furnished the first estimate of damage to taxable property that was anything more than a mere guess. This loss the assessors placed at $12,831,550, on the regular assessment basis, which real estate men calculate, normally is about 70 per cent of the price that property would bring at a sale.

On that basis, the damage to taxable property for purposes other than tax assessment would be $18,330,790. This figure does not include damage to schools and churches, which are exempt from taxation, nor to equipment of public utility corporations.

Total $22,000,000.

After Assessor Gehner had made public the resume of his deputies' survey of the storm district the Post-Dispatch canvassed the public utilities for the amount of their damages, which they are now able accurately to estimate, and combining them with the losses sustained by schools and churches, as already published, arrived at the figure of approximately $22,000,000.

As tabulated, the damage was as follows:

Taxable property	$18,330,790
Schools	1,500,000
United Railways Co.	250,000
Laclede Gas Light Co.	75,000
Union Electric Light and Power Co.	450,000
Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.	225,000
Total	$21,730,790

In addition to the losses enumerated in the table, the Union Electric, United Railways and Bell Company estimate that they lost $50,000 each in revenue, directly traceable to damage done by the tornado.

4000 Buildings Damaged.

Three hundred and forty-nine square blocks were included in the Assessor's survey. The Assessor's deputies made no estimate of the number of buildings damaged by the storm, but Chief Building Inspector Hoffman, after his survey, estimated that 4000 structures were damaged, 2500 of them seriously, as a result of the tornado. Of these, Hoffman estimated, 1000 were so badly damaged that it would be more profitable to wreck than to rebuild them.

It was pointed out today in connection with the tabulation of losses, that the figure representing the damage to taxable property probably would not cover the amount necessary to rebuild. The same is true of the rebuilding work done by the public utilities, which figure in their estimate of loss only the amount of value they could have got from the destroyed property had it lasted a normal time.

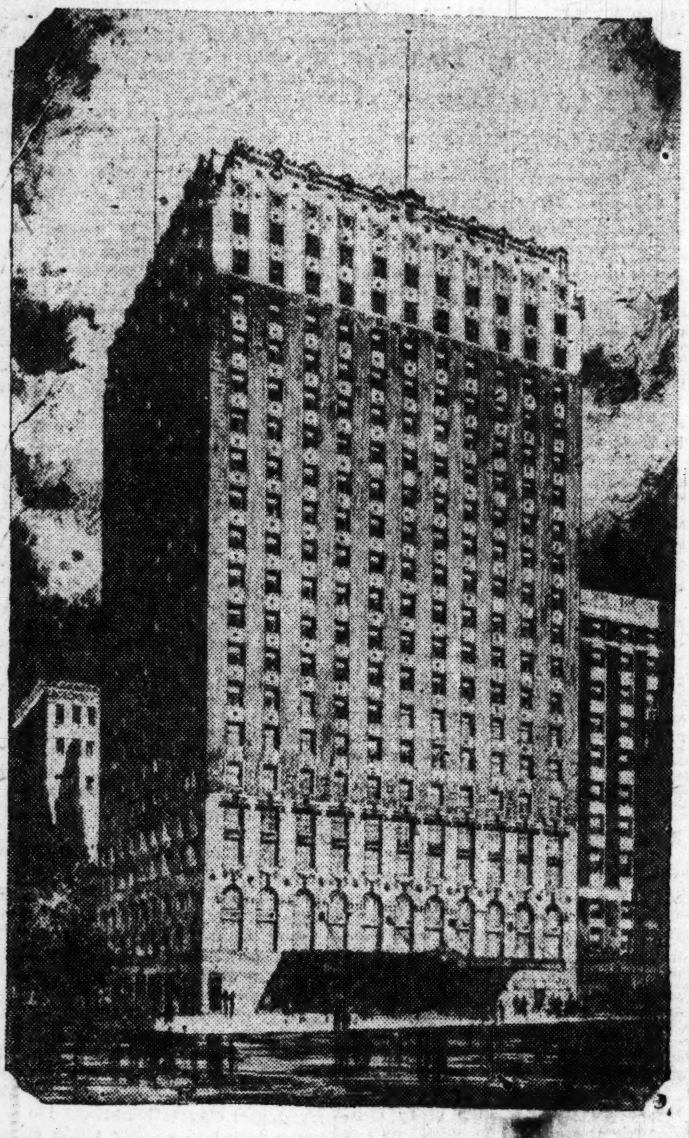
Proposed New 22-Story Downtown Hotel



IT will be known as the Savoy-Plaza, and is to be built at Twelfth and Pine streets at an estimated cost of $3,500,000.

$3,500,000 HOTEL PLAN FOR TWELFTH AND PINE

Preston J. Bradshaw Says It Will Have 22 Stories With 475 Rooms.

Plans for a 22-story, $3,500,000 hotel, the Savoy-Plaza, to be built at the northwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Pine street, were announced today by Preston J. Bradshaw. He was the architect of the Chase, Melbourne, Mayfair and Coronado hotels, was active in the promotion of the latter two, and he operates the Coronado.

The site faces Twelfth boulevard on one side and the new Memorial Plaza on the other. Bradshaw declared that it is intended to make the Savoy-Plaza for St. Louis what the Blackstone Hotel is to Chicago.

Financing and erection, Bradshaw said, are in the hands of a syndicate in which W. H. Bixby, Bradshaw, Walter J. Knight and Carl Lawton are interested. Negotiations for the site, two parcels of ground, have been closed with the Essex Investment Co., of which Bixby is president, and the Barnight Realty Co., headed by Knight. Knight's engineering firm is to supervise construction. The hotel is to be operated by the Coronado Hotel Co.

The new hotel is planned to have 475 rooms. The exterior will be terra cotta and full-range cream-colored matt brick, with a judicious degree of ornamentation. The main entrance will be on Twelfth, and will be brilliantly illuminated at night. Specialty shops will be on the first floor, as well as a coffee shop in the English style. The second floor will contain the main public space, lobby, lounge and dining room. Above this will be the kitchen and service floor.

Large rooms and corridors 7 feet wide will be a distinctive feature of the guest portion of the house. All rooms will have marble and tile bath, and large closet space.

Henry R. Weisels Co. Inc. and Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Co. represented all parties in the realty negotiations.

ST. LOUIS FIRM LOSES INCOME TAX APPEAL

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The Evens & Howard Fire Brick Co. of St. Louis has been ordered by the Federal Board of Tax Appeals to include in its income tax return for 1919, $5000 paid to J. V. Conrad, a salesman, for distribution among contractors with the intent to secure municipal contracts for which the St. Louis company would supply materials.

The board held that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue was correct in determining that the $5000 paid to Conrad was not a deductible expense or commission, and was not paid to Conrad for his personal use. The account was kept in a private ledger under the caption, "Sale promotion."

According to the board's opinion the money was spent in St. Cloud, Minn. No evidence was introduced to show to whom Conrad paid the money nor the services the recipients performed. The board held that the canceled check, unsupported by vouchers, was insufficient evidence to prove that the expenditure should be included in the general expenses of the business.

"By not furnishing sufficient evidence of the alleged expenditure, the taxpayer has failed in its proof of ordinary and necessary business expense," the opinion stated.

"Also, it is pointed out, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue" is unable to check up or compute the income of the unknown persons alleged to have received this money, as the taxpayer has failed to comply with section 256 of the revenue act of 1918."

STORY OF $600 FUND TO PROMOTE SERVICE CAR BILL UNDER INQUIRY

MAKES EXAMINATION OF DOCUMENT

Alderman Waldmans' Name Not Signed to It as Service Association Officer Said.

A document filed with the National City Bank by representatives of a service car drivers' organization and relating to the disbursement of a $600 fund to obtain passage of a regulative bill by the Board of Aldermen, was examined this afternoon in the Circuit Attorney's office.

The Circuit Attorney asked to see the document, because of the charge made by Andrew Utterdorfer, chairman of the Service Car Drivers' Association, that Alderman Herman C. Waldman of the Twenty-eighth Ward was one of the signers. This charge, and Waldman's denial, were made at a hearing before the Board of Aldermen Legislative Committee yesterday afternoon. Waldman's regulatory bill is pending in the committee.

Paul F. Plummer, counsel for the bank, took the paper to Circuit Attorney Sidener, who called in an assistant, Andrew C. Maroney, a veteran of the Folk boodle prosecutions, to examine it with him.

Nothing Illegal, Sidener Says.

After scrutinizing the paper and hearing Plummer's statement, the Circuit Attorney announced that he and Maroney were of the opinion that it showed nothing criminal or illegal. He said he was not at liberty to describe the document in detail, but that it related to the proposed legislation for regulation of service cars.

"Alderman Waldman's name was not there," Sidener said. "The name of his son-in-law, Mort Rosenblatt, was signed to the paper."

Plummer, in a statement to Waldman and reporters at the bank earlier in the day, had stated that Waldman's name was not signed to the paper, as Uttendorfer had said. Waldman, in a heated debate with Uttendorfer and Alderman John Neu, denied any knowledge of the matter. Rosenblatt, his son-in-law, is head of the St. Louis Discount Co., which handles automobile mortgages.

Waldman said, before this afternoon's meeting of the board, that he would ask for appointment of a committee of three, to investigate the matter.

Attempts to get a statement from Rosenblatt were unsuccessful, and the first concrete statement obtained as to the paper was from George Keller of 2825 Olive street, a service-car driver, who said he was one of the signers of the document. Keller is advocating passage of Waldman's bill, which is opposed by Uttendorfer and a majority of the drivers.

"I am one of the signers of that paper," Keller said. "Mort Rosenblatt's name is there, too, and the name of a lawyer, a Mr. Cohen. The paper, when it is made public, will show that the money raised was for my services and expenses, and those of the attorney, in getting a bill passed. Alderman Waldman's name was not on the document. I did not know hitherto that Rosenblatt was Waldman's son-in-law. The fund was to be $1200, but had been only one-half raised."

Provisions of the Bill.

Waldman's bill, which has been indorsed by the Automobile Club and the Safety Council, requires drivers to furnish $3000 bond to the city for protection of passengers and the public and to pay $25 a year license.

At yesterday afternoon's committee meeting, Alderman Neu spoke against Waldman's bill, and said it was in the interest of a certain group.

"You're a liar," said Waldman.

"Liar yourself," Neu retorted, "and you're trying to knock down business for your son-in-law."

When Uttendorfer spoke against Waldman's bill, Chairman Eilers asked him whether any fund had been raised to get the bill passed. Waldman, objecting to this question, was told by Eilers to "shut up," as he was not a member of the committee. Uttendorfer then made his charge that Waldman was a signer of the agreement, and Waldman's denial and demand for an inquiry followed. Neu said he had seen the agreement, and had advised the drivers to drop the plan and take their money out of the bank. They withdrew the money June 23.

101 DEAD, 900 WERE ILL IN INFANTILE PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC IN CALIFORNIA

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 21.

THE infantile paralysis epidemic in California has afflicted 900 persons and resulted in 101 deaths up to Sept. 1, the State Board of Health reported today.

The peak of the epidemic was reached in August. During this month 315 cases were reported against 256 in September and 40 during the week ending Oct. 8.

Northern California apparently was hardest hit by the epidemic. Schools at Eureka and Arcata, in that area, were closed. A similar situation existed in Southern Oregon, where many communities were virtually quarantined. The peak of the Oregon epidemic is reported to have passed.

JUDGE RULES FIGHT FILMS MAY BE SHOWN IN ALL STATES

Federal Jurist in New York Also Holds That Exhibitor Cannot Be Prosecuted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Federal Judge Goddard ruled yesterday that the Tunney-Dempsey fight films can be exhibited legally in any State. The opinion, however, does not stop the investigation by United States Attorney Tuttle, who has put the investigation before the grand jury.

Judge Goddard answered specifically three questions of the grand jurors—whether it is illegal to exhibit prize fight films from another State; whether it is illegal to receive films which have been been brought into this district by one "who is not an express company or other common carrier"; and whether the person receiving the film is guilty of being an accessory after the fact of violating the Interstate transportation law. In each case the court's answer was "No."

CHICAGO PLANS $10,000,000 23-MILE LAKE SHORE DRIVE

To Extend Through Chain of Parks from 8 Miles North of Loop South to Indiana Line.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Plans for one, possibly two, 100-foot drives extending from eight miles north of Chicago's Loop, 23 miles south to the Indiana State line, through an unbroken chain of parks along the shore of Lake Michigan, have been announced by the South Park Commissioners.

Parts of the boulevard are under construction, and the acquisition of property rights along the route will be started within 30 days, Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Park Board said.

The project will cost $10,000,000. In places along the shore it will be necessary to make a 600-foot fill in the lake for the road.

BREMEN, Germany, Oct. 21.—A German expedition under Dr. Edward Tinkler which left Bremen last April for exploration in Central Asia, is reported to have succeeded in taking motion pictures of a secret festival of Lamas at one of their largest temples, at Hemis near the Tibetan frontier. The expedition also is reported to have gotten pictures of the interior of the temple.

A Tibetan monastary at Hemis in Kashmir, said to be the richest in the region, has a population of about 300 Lamas, or Tibetan Holy men. Their festivals and rites are secret and they look with suspicion upon strangers.

NO DANGER OF OIL DRAINAGE, EXPERT SAYS HE TOLD FALL

ADVICE GIVEN WAS DISREGARDED

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COURT HOUSE, WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Shortly before Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall leased the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve to Harry F. Sinclair, on the pretense of protecting it from drainage, his own geologists reported to him that there was no danger of drainage and that no leases should be granted.

This was shown today in the trial of Fall and Sinclair for criminal conspiracy by the testimony of two distinguished geologists. One of them was Dr. George Otis Smith, chief of the United States Geological Survey, which is in the Interior Department; the other was Kenneth C. Heald, formerly a member of the Survey and since an instructor at Yale University and staff geologist of the Gulf Oil Co., Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's company.

Previous testimony had shown Secretary Fall informing the United States Senate and President Harding that the danger of drainage made the leasing of the reserve imperative. In the Supreme Court's opinion, annuling the lease, it was declared that Fall's plea of drainage was "made in bad faith."

Survey Ordered by Fall.

A few months after the Naval reserves were transferred from the Navy Department to the Interior Department, Dr. Smith said, Fall sent for him and directed that the Geological Survey make a survey of Teapot Dome to determine the extent of danger from drainage.

Dr. Smith assigned Heald, then a member of the Survey, to make the survey. It was completed and Heald returned to Washington, Nov. 26, 1921. He reported to Fall, first orally, in Dr. Smith's presence, and later in writing. He stated there probably would be slight drainage in the northern end of the reserve but that "it will be exceedingly slow." The part of the reserve to be affected by it, he said, was the "poorest part."

Up to that time, he said, only one large producing well had been drilled near the boundary of the reserve, and it probably would not affect the reserve for a distance of more than 400 feet. The area of the reserve is 9400 acres.

Report Opposed Leases.

Heald's report ended with the brief, blunt and direct statement that there was "no imminent danger of drainage," that such danger as existed could be entirely met by the drilling of offset wells inside the boundary of the reserve and that "no further leases should be granted."

"I transmitted the report to Secretary Fall," said Dr. Smith. "After that I was never consulted by him on anything connected with the reserve."

"Did he never consult you in connection with drainage or anything else?" asked Chief Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts. "He never mentioned the reserve to me again," was the reply.

It was recalled in this connection that Martin W. Littleton, in outlining the defense to the jury, emphasized that the main reason for transferring the reserves from the Navy to the Interior Department, was the fact that the Navy Department had no geological survey, no technical experts and no equipment for administering the reserves, such as the Interior Department possessed.

Yet, according to Dr. Smith, the services of the Geological Survey were not employed by Fall after it had reported that the reserve was not menaced by drainage and that no leases were required. The lease, secretly negotiated between Fall and Sinclair, was signed the following April 7.

Heald, following Dr. Smith on the stand, corroborated his testimony as to the report made to Fall.

Defense counsel, who had let Dr. Smith severely alone, launched

FALL EXPLAINS HIS DIRECT, STARTLING APPEAL TO COURT

Wished to Show That Expert Assistant Interpreted Law on Oil Reserve Leases as He Did.

ACTED "IN GOOD FAITH," HIS DEFENSE

"What Becomes of Our Case if We Cannot Show This?"—Personal Plea Surprises Counsel.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. — The anxiety of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall over the way things were going in the conspiracy trial of himself and Harry F. Sinclair got the better of him yesterday afternoon, and he took the defense into his own hands long enough to deliver a personal plea to the court on a point of evidence. His argument was no more successful than those of the lawyers had been, but it provided a dramatic interlude in the trial, for it was the first time that Fall has been heard, either as lawyer or witness, in any of the cases which arose out of his secret leasing of the naval oil reserves.

It occurred during the cross-examination of Edward C. Finney, who was Assistant Secretary of the Interior under Fall, and still holds that office. George P. Hoover, counsel for Sinclair, had been vainly endeavoring to have Finney testify to his interpretation of the law under which Fall secretly leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair. Justice Frederick L. Siddons had held that Finney's interpretation was not material; that the policy which actually was pursued was clearly laid down in an exchange of letters between Fall and Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby, and that the letters, being in evidence, spoke for themselves.

Fall Addresses the Court.

Without warning, Fall reared his tall, feeble figure from his chair, and addressed the court. "I ask the right to have the indulgence of the court for a minute, and I think that under the statute I may have that privilege," he said.

"Well, Mr. Fall," remarked the startled Justice, peering over his spectacles, "I would suggest that you are represented by very eminent and able counsel, although I do not like to deny you an opportunity of speaking for yourself if you so desire."

"Your honor, I have no desire to make a speech to the jury, or to testify at this time," said Fall, "but I wish to call your honor's attention to the fact that there are lawyers, and then again there are mining lawyers. Judge Finney has qualified himself as an expert here. He knows what this controversy is all about, and if given an opportunity would clear this matter up in two minutes.

"With great deference to eminent counsel here, for whose ability and judgment I have the utmost respect and confidence, I think there are some technical matters that Judge Finney does not understand from the questions they have propounded—or they do not understand him—which could easily be cleared up. Otherwise the Court might be led into a ruling which the Court would very much regret a little later.

Cites Finney's Qualifications.

"Government counsel contend that Judge Finney should not testify as to his interpretation of the rules and regulations of the Interior Department. Why, sir, the law puts him in his position for that very purpose. In the absence of the Secretary of the Interior, he acts for him. And the law makes it his duty to interpret the laws which he must administer. If he interprets the law incorrectly, the Supreme Court may reverse him. But until it does, his interpretation stands as the law of the land.

"Now that is the situation, Judge Finney knows that. And he knows his business. He is particularly and peculiarly in a position to understand these matters, and if given an opportunity I am sure he would clear them up.

"When Government counsel say that he cannot testify to what his interpretation was—then I say, sir, that it is absolutely vital to the defense, and I think if the Court understands Judge Finney's position, he will see the situation in a different light."

Feeling around uncertainly for his chair, the former Cabinet officer, smiling somewhat pathetically, concluded: "I beg the Court's pardon for interposing a statement, and I have hesitated for a long while, as the Court will understand, before addressing your honor."

Court's Response to Fall.

The response of Justice Siddons was deliberately and thoughtfully given. But it did not mince words. He said: "I understand the general rule of evidence to be that if the language of a document is plain, free from obscurity and ambiguity, the document must speak for itself. It is not for someone else, even though he takes an official action with reference to the letter, to read into the letter something which the letter does not state."

Apparently nobody in the courtroom was more surprised by Fall's unusual action than the lawyers for the defense. His own chief counsel, William Leahy, looked around in astonishment as Fall began to speak, and then listened with flushed and averted face as his client proceeded. Hoover gave him a startled glance, and Sinclair frowned in obvious disapproval. The fact, which is known to all who are acquainted with Fall, is that he prides himself upon his own ability as a lawyer, and especially upon his familiarity with the mining laws. Moreover, he has often displayed something of the Westerner's contempt for the "city lawyers" of the East. At various times he has persistently advised and corrected his own counsel. And on the whole, has been a considerable trial to them.

"Acted in Good Faith."

Still in some excitement, he explained to reporters after adjournment what had prompted him temporarily to undertake his own defense.

"The trouble was that neither counsel nor the court seemed to understand the point which I wanted made," he said. "As Secretary of the Interior I was charged with the duty of interpreting the law, and under my interpretation of it I granted these leases. My interpretation might be right, or it might be wrong—in fact, the Supreme Court has since held that it was wrong—but I contend that it was made in good faith, and I desired to show that Finney, who is an expert on the law, interpreted it exactly as I did.

"If we are not allowed to show that I construed the law as I understood it, in good faith, what becomes of our defense?"

Judge Examines a Witness.

Justice Siddons, in his ruling, continued the course he had pursued throughout a day of tiresome wrangling. His decisions were almost invariably on the side of the prosecution, and on one occasion he took up the examination of Finney long enough to elicit facts which appeared to benefit the Government's case. When Hoover obtained from Finney the statement that the "public had been given information" of Fall's intention to lease the Elk Hills reserve (which he afterward secretly leased to E. L. Doheny) Justice Siddons drew from him the admission that this "publicity" consisted of notifying three oil companies and two engineering firms.

"Ah, I see," commented the Justice, dryly.

RUSZNAK'S TRIAL FOR GRAFT BARES NEW 'FIXING' CASE

William Morgan Points Out Bondsman as Man He Paid $5 to Dispose of Police Court Charge.

William Morgan, prosecuting witness in the case of Louis Rusznak, professional bondsman, charged with embezzlement of $5 by bailee, which went to trial today before a jury in Judge Butler's division of the Court of Criminal Correction, surprised State and defense counsel by telling of a second "fix" for which he testified he paid Rusznak another $5.

Under direct examination he related that he paid Rusznak $5 to "fix up" in Police Court a charge of operating an automobile without a city license. It is on this alleged payment that the State based its present prosecution.

After Morgan, a soldier at Jefferson Barracks, had related the circumstances of the first alleged "fixing," he was put under cross-examination by Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican City Committee. Remmers, with Ernest Green, president of the Missouri State Bar Association, is defending Rusznak.

Tells of Second Payment.

In response to a question by Remmers, Morgan said:

"I paid Rusznak $5 more the Monday after I had given him $5 to fix the police court case. He said for the second $5 he would fix the state charge of operating an automobile without a state license."

At this point Judge Butler intervened with a question. "What became of that case?" he asked.

"I don't know," the witness replied. "I never heard anything more from it."

The Judge remarked that he was interested in Morgan's story concerning the second incident, as the State license case would have come up in his court. Associate Prosecuting Attorney Graves told the Judge that the State would explain what had happened to the second charge against Morgan, later.

Morgan was arrested last July on two charges for failure to have State and city auto licenses. The city case went by default before Police Judge Beck on Aug. 2, Morgan being fined $10 and costs. What happened to the other case is not clear except that no warrant was issued. Morgan's excuse for not answering the police court charge was that he had paid Rusznak $5 "to fix it up."

Points Out Rusznak in Court.

He pointed to Rusznak in the courtroom today as he told of the first alleged "fixing."

"That man accosted me in the corridor of the Municipal Courts building," he testified, "and asked me what my trouble was. I told him and he said, 'Well, I can fix that up. Give me $5 and don't worry about it.' He said I could go back to work."

In response to questioning, Morgan said his employer, John Hales, an iceman of 3969 Hartford street, was with him and heard the conversation between him and Rusznak.

"I asked Hales to let me have $5," the witness states. "Hales gave me a $5 bill and I handed it to Rusznak. He took it and gave me his card. He then told me to go back to work. Next pay day I repaid Hales' loan of the $5."

The card bearing Rusznak's name and address was introduced in evidence and identified by the witness as the one Rusznak had handed him.

Defense counsel, in cross-examination, stressed the point that Morgan had made no demand on Rusznak for restitution of the money, he says, he paid. Attorney Remmers declared in an argument over the admissibility of questioning along that line that a demand for restitution is essential to an embezzlement case.

Hales, the ice man, was arrested early today on an attachment and brought under guard to the Municipal Courts Building. He had twice failed to appear when called as a witness in the case.

Judge Beck on Stand.

Police Judge Beck was the first witness of the afternoon session. He told how Morgan had been brought to him by a Deputy Sheriff. He said Morgan described to him the deal he had made with Rusznak. The Judge recognized Rusznak from Morgan's description, he testified. On cross-examination Attorney Remmers sought to show that the Judge had paroled Morgan in recognition of his story against Rusznak. To this Judge Beck replied: "I wanted to investigate the operations of crooks around the courts."

Defense objected and were sustained. Later the Judge, in explaining why he had marked the card handed to Morgan by Rusznak, said: "I do this to all articles brought me in connection with fixers."

Deputy Sheriff Robert Thompson and Probation Officer George Nolte testified briefly as to the appearance of Morgan before Judge Beck and his making affidavit to his accusations against Rusznak. Officer Nolte said that Hales also had made affidavit and the State tried to enter this document. The defense objected on the ground that Hales was available in person if the State wished to use him as a witness. Judge Butler barred the affidavit.

COOLIDGE SAID TO DESIRE TO AID FARM MARKETING

White House Reports President Is Interested in Helping Move Crops.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Coolidge is desirous for the passage of some sort of legislation to assist the farmer in marketing his crops, it was said today at the White House, where it was indicated Mr. Coolidge has not altered his views in opposition to the equalization fee provision fee provision of the vetoed McNary-Haugen Farm Bill.

The position of the President on farm relief, it was said, as well as on the bill he vetoed last winter, has been set forth clearly in his various message sto Congress and in his veto message.

Until a measure is passed by Congress and submitted to him for his approval or disapproval, the President feels he is in no position to discuss the question, since, in his opinion, there are so many angles to the agricultural problem that view sin advance of reports from individuals who are studying it would be impracticable.

Mr. Coolidge understands the reports of a commission headed by former Assistant Secretary Nagel of the Commerce Department, approved by the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be submitted soon. This report is expected by the President to be exhaustive and to throw light on the controversy which has centered around farm relief several years.

No Oil Drainage Danger, Expert Says He Told Fall

into a rigorous cross-examination of Heald, with a view to showing that his survey was unsound and his report incorrect. Objections at once halted this line of cross-examination and joined an issue which is of extreme importance in this case.

The Government contends, and the Supreme Court has upheld it, that the material point is, not whether there actually was drainage, but whether Fall had reason to believe there was drainage or the threat of drainage when he leased the reserve.

The Supreme Court pointed out, and Roberts in his objection pointed out, that Fall's good faith was to be tested by what he had before him when he made the lease, not by what others may have known or by what may have been discovered later.

Judge Siddons took the same ground in sustaining Roberts' objections to the questions designed to impeach Heald's report. Rather acidly, he remarked that "Mr. Heald's report was made at Secretary Fall's request and in response to Secretary Fall's desire for information."

Opportunity to Explain.

Roberts added significantly that, if Fall desired to explain that he did not believe Heald's report he doubtless would have an opportunity and full freedom to do so. The prosecution does not yet believe that Fall intends to take the stand, although he has said so.

The defense asked Heald if he had not, in his survey, included, as part of the reserve, 640 acres which was not in the reserve. Roberts objected that it made no difference, and the Court agreed.

For the purpose of completing the record, Littleton then asked Heald a series of questions designed to impeach the report, which were rapidly and successively overruled by the Court, to each of which rulings the defense took exceptions. It was a rather amusing performance — question, objection, ruling and exception.

Littleton said he meant no offense to the Court by his repeated exceptions. "You may rest assured it is no offense to me," said Justice Siddons, with the patience of one who long ago learned the folly of being sensitive over what lawyers say.

Walsh-Hearing Testimony.

When he finally halted the unsuccessful attempt to heckle Heald, the latter was excused, and Roberts offered a copy of Sinclair's testimony before the Walsh Senate Committee investigating the oil leases in December, 1923.

In his opening speech to the jury, Littleton said it would be shown that Sinclair's only purpose in visiting Fall's ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., on New Year's, 1922, was to consult him about a lease on some Osage Indian land. In the testimony before the Walsh committee, which Roberts offered, Sinclair was asked by Senator Walsh why he visited Fall. "To see about leasing Teapot Dome," was the bold reply.

Littleton at once objected, citing the Federal statute which provides that testimony obtained from witnesses compelled to appear before committees of Congress cannot thereafter be used against them in criminal prosecutions. The same objection was raised in the trial of Fall and E. L. Doheny, when the prosecution offered the testimony which Doheny had given before the Welsh committee. Justice Hoehling overruled that objection, pointing out that Doheny had not been compelled to testify but had voluntarily appeared and asked the privilege of testifying. The jury was excluded while Roberts and Littleton argued the admissibility of Sinclair's testimony.

Littleton said the law was plain; that the Government offer was directly in the face of it. While it may have been true that Sinclair was not formally subpenaed, he was requested to appear, declared Littleton, and he added that, in the case in which Sinclair was convicted of contempt of the Senate for refusing to testify further before the committee, Justice Hitz held that a telegram was a sufficient summons.

Roberts, replying, denied that Sinclair's testimony had been given under compulsion. In virtually every case arising under this statute, he said, the courts have held that the witness is entitled to immunity only when he explicitly, and before proceeding with his testimony, claims it.

In other words, he said, in order to get the benefit of the statute, the witness, before going ahead with his testimony, must announce that he intends to claim immunity. Otherwise, said Roberts, guilty persons could make use of congressional committees to save themselves from criminal prosecution by voluntarily appearing before committees. Certainly that was not intended, he said.

As the argument proceeded, showing no signs of abating, Justice Siddons dismissed the jury for the day, remarking that, in view of the weight of the question, he felt the Court itself might profit by a period of meditation. Finally, after two hours of argument at the afternoon session, the Justice took the question under advisement until Monday.

Letters Are Introduced.

At the outset of the trial today, the defense placed before the jury correspondence between Fall and the late Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, concerning the naval reserves.

Fall's letter was dated April 12, 1922, three days after the lease was signed, and it gave the first information that Teapot Dome had passed from Government possession. He spoke of what he thought was the danger of drainage and added that "it is not the purpose to sell oil but simply to preserve oil above the ground if it cannot be preserved under the ground."

The then Secretary said also that military purposes were involved in the lease and that details could not be made public without the authority of the President, but he enclosed a memorandum giving the high spots in the lease signed by Sinclair.

It was after receipt of this letter that Senator La Follette set in motion machinery of the Senate, the operation of which resulted in the sensational investigation of 1923-24.

As the correspondence was read, Fall appeared calmer than he did on yesterday, when he startled attorneys and spectators by suddenly rising from his seat and addressing the Court in an effort to have admitted testimony he said was vital to his defense.

ANNE F. SEMPLE CROWNED QUEEN BY VEILED PROPHET

BALL AT COLISEUM A COLORFUL SCENE

BY WILLIAM F. ALLEN.

Each autumn for 48 years that mysterious autocrat, the Veiled Prophet, has ascended a regal throne in the Coliseum and there announced his choice of a Queen of Love and Beauty for a year to come. He is a lavish old codger, and last night, in a setting of grandeur, extravagant even for so magnificent a potentate, to the plaudits of a larger than usual assemblage of subjects, he established as the city's accepted social princess for a 12-month Miss Anne Farrar Semple, familiarly known as "Nancy" Semple, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Humphrey Semple of McKnight road in St. Louis County.

Pomp and Ceremony.

Other kings have learned to shrink from pomp; His Mysterious Majesty, the Veiled Prophet, never. His coming and the ceremonial of crowning his Queen remain unmatched except in modern movie extravaganza, and then rarely. He demands that his throne room be rich and delight the eye. He summons to his court the beautiful and lovely. He is known to have a failing for the well-groomed. Old-fashioned, never; yet he clings to the forlorn spiketail for the gentlemen and asks for favorable adornment of the ladies. Nothing pleases him so well as beautiful gowns. He likes the flash of jewels. He prefers sonorous and stately music. He causes many fanfares of trumpets. He has a feeling for the dramatic. He hides the identity of four special maids which he chooses to attend his Queen until the ball night. As for the Queen, he only reveals her when he has prodded his court to the last notch of curious expectancy. A proud monarch and one that has reigned full long, yet none has been found to say that his eye for beauty in his Queen, for impressive pageantry in her crowning, ever has dimmed. He seems more exacting each year but each year his laboring subjects have managed to bring a glint of satisfaction to his eye.

Court a Scene of Beauty.

So it was that last night's ball may be said to have surpassed others in some respects and to have been surpassed in few. Among the notable achievements was the quality of the decorations. The royal purple was softened almost to lavender, toned with silver—a harmony undisturbed from the upper reaches of a vaulted ceiling to the dais itself. Particularly elaborate was the throne, a lofty structure, made so by the towering pillars that formed and flanked it. Futuristic in design, the columns suggested the modern setback style of architecture, reflecting again the modern tendency of the Prophet on this year's sojourn, first seen in his gentle raillery at the foibles of "Our Daily Life" in Wednesday night's parade.

The pillars were repeated at the opposite end of the throne room into some semblance of His Majesty's far-off castle, forming an imposing entrance for the notables of the court. The pillars hid, as if on the roof of a castle, a 75-piece orchestra, which bravely opened the festivities shortly after 8 o'clock with a four-number program that went for the most part unheeded.

The court seemed slow in assembling and the bustle of seating and the first gaze at gowns was not to be interrupted by mere music. As usual the gallery was filled early. No requirement for evening dress held there, yet there was the flare of bright colors in women's dresses and the gallery materially contributed color to the brilliant setting, formed chiefly in the balcony where evening dress was a requisite, and in the boxes where there was full sartorial display.

Record Attendance of 8000.

It had been announced that this year's attendance at the ball would break records. Added seating facilities were provided by an extra row of boxes at floor level and running around three sides of the arena. The space in the balcony behind the throne, usually draped off, was open and provided seats for added hundreds. Every seat provided was filled and there was the usual mass of standing spectators on the main floor. The expected record-breaking attendance was realized. It was estimated at 8000.

ANNE F. SEMPLE CROWNED QUEEN BY VEILED PROPHET

Every seat provided was filled and there was the usual mass of standing spectators on the main floor. The expected record-breaking attendance was realized. It was estimated at 8000.

Entry of the Court.

Comes now at 8:40 the entry of the Court. First are the ladies of honor, the maids of yesterday-year—what colors in their gowns!—each upon the arm of a grave-faced gentleman, wearing about his neck a red ribbon or a yellow ribbon, or a purple ribbon with a decoration denoting a follower acceptable to the Prophet. It is the first promenade of gowns and from the last seat of the lofty gallery there is leaning forward as the spectacle unfolds.

The procession goes about the four sides of the rectangle. The slowly moving pairs are 12 to 15 feet apart. Salmon-colored gowns; blue and black; some are black and white; green and pink and purple and white and orange; no color seems missing. There are gray-haired matrons and bobbed-haired matrons; some slowly wave ostrich fans of bright hues. Brilliants sparkle, and diamonds.

Spotlights placed high above give resplendence to the procession. Seventy-five of the matrons and their escorts complete the 15-minute promenade and the matrons take their seats to the right and left of the throne on the lower level of the wto-level dais that elevates the Prophet's throne to the gaze of the vast assemblage.

Next the 75 Maids of Honor.

Without interruption, the maids of honor follow, 75 of them, also. Even more brilliant are their gowns, more brilliant in color, a bit more daring in their mode; a little longer, perhaps, than in recent years, with now and then a streamer of broad ribbon, fastened at the side and trailing gracefully along the floor. Youth here and the beauty which gives renown to the Prophet's court. Now and then applause for some striking figure. The spotless white of the canvas which covers the floor makes each pair a glowing, moving spot. The maids take their seats, as the matrons, to the right and left and fill the front rows on the lower dais.

Next the Krewe, that motley masked division of the Prophet's followers who on Wednesday night rode the floats in the Prophet's parade and reappear in the costumes fitted to the themes of the floats—Kris Kringles and policemen, flappers and staid matrons, red devils, blue devils, green devils. Some betray themselves by their portly figures; others by peculiarity of gait. To these acquaintances in the boxes give hail or sign of recognition. One makes exaggerated obeisance as he passes the matrons and maids and gets an appreciative snicker. Each is attended by one of the Prophet's retinue in formal dress, as gravely escorted as the fairest debutante. An endless procession, it seems, of these 200 of the maskers who fill the floor with a bubbling sea of grotesquerie. They retire at length to the last rows on the dais, to reappear later as the partners of the ladies of the court to open the dancing.

Retiring Queen Appears.

But none thinks of dancing now. It is time for the entry of the Queen who has reigned a year and now is to retire. There is a fanfare of trumpets. The velvet curtains at the far end of the arena part. For an instant they frame the figure of Miss Martha Love. Her escort steps forward. It is 75 yards to the throne and an ordeal that later is to try the four maids and the new Queen. But the reigning Queen has passed that cynosure of eyes before. She moves with confidence. Salvo after salvo of applause greets her. She has been a popular Queen. She bows to right and to left and with assurance goes to the throne to await the coming of her lord and master, the Prophet.

There is a pause. It is fitting. The time has come for the appearance of the Prophet. The first of his immediate escort—a squad of sword-bearing guards who advance in more or less straight line and then form a lane through which the Prophet is to pass to their salute. Another pause. Then the time-honored signal for the approach of His Majesty—the trumpets sounding the stentorian opening bars from the triumphal march in "Aida."

The Prophet Arrives.

Again the curtains part and there stands the Prophet himself. He has regaled himself afresh for this year. New robes. His golden crown is burnished. An old hand is he at this solitary march. He accepts the arm of a retainer. Two pages bear his long purple train. His two high priests, his almoner, his herald and the bearers of the court jewels follow at respectful disance. Slowly and majestically he moves. The court comes to its feet. The Quee rises from the throne which is at his side. She makes obeisance and gets scarcely a nod. Quite regal is he. This homage is what he has come to expect. He does not know exactly what to do with his scepter, but concludes to keep it in hand and takes his seat. The court subsides into theirs. Without further warning, the Prophet gives further mark that he is content with the reign of the retiring queen. He quickly places a necklace about her neck.

A page advances to the lower part of the dais with a scroll. The herald takes it from her and his uplifted hand brings silence. The disclosures of the Prophet's favor are about to come. The herald is a good herald. He might have been a baseball announcer. His voice carries to the far reaches of the arena.

Special Maids Called.

"His Most Mysterious Majesty, the Veiled Prophet commands me to summon to his Court of Love and Beauty as special maid," the voice of the herald rolls upward—

"Miss Janet Douglas Shields."

"Ah-h-h!" comes a long breath of approval from the assembled court and a ripple of applause. The first announcement meets the pleasure of his humble court.

The curtains part, another figure is framed just an instant and Miss Shield begins her long march to the dais on the arm of David Metcalfe.

She is in white and from her shoulders stretch two long shoulder trains of coral pink. A diminutive page follows. Gone are the old-time velvet trains that in other years have been an aggravating weight on so long a journey. A 75-yard promenade before 8000 pairs of eyes is long enough without any tugging train such as the Prophet once required be dragged over the floor.

Another scroll and this time the herald announces:

"Miss Anne Vietor Davis." This is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis. Her train is just a shade darker of pink-coral and the arm bouquet of roses which she carries is identical in color. She advances to the throne upon the arm of Howard Stephens and again the court gives its approval with applause.

Next, Miss Frances Sherwood Wilson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham Wilson Jr. Her shoulder trains are of the shade of the American Beauty roses she carries. Her escort is John B. Denvir, Jr.

The announcement of the choice of maids is completed with the herald's summoning to be first maid of honor Miss Julia Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells. Her trains are deep red and, again, the arm bouquet of roses matches. Thomas Reyburn escorts her.

The court is now assembled. The time has come for revelation of the identity of the new Queen. There is complete silence. A fanfare of trumpets announces the solemnity of the herald's next scroll.

The New Queen is Acclaimed.

His summons is more austere: "In his great wisdom, his Mysterious Majesty, the Veiled Prophet, has selected the fairest maid of his beloved city to reign as Queen of the Court and Love and Beauty until he shall come again."

Then, the old autocrat caused to be added:

Small need of this last command. The curtains part and the Queen commands homage for herself. She seems buoyed along by her gossamer frock from which trails a beautiful train of cloth of silver embroidered to splendor with brilliants and over it another train of the ermine of her royal office. Three pages support the long royal train.

Miss Nancy Semple advances, kneels, is crowned and receives her scepter. The court receives her enthusiastically; the spectators equally so.

Once again the Prophet justifies his autocracy. He knows what he is about, says the court. There now is the procession down from the throne that all may yield the homage that is commanded. The Prophet, his new reigning queen, the retiring Queen and the maids of honor proceed to a box at the east side of the arena in which are seated the queens of former years. Miss Love takes her place with them. Miss Semple reigns.

The band strikes up a dance. The Krewe lead the ladies of the court to the floor. The wheel of color flashes again. The next dance. The ropes go down. There is a surge onto the floor and dancing becomes general. And so on into the morning.

Who's Who in the Veiled Prophet's Court.

Miss Anne Farrar Semple, familiarly known as "Nancy," the Veiled Prophet's Queen for 1927, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Humphrey Semple, whose country place, "Shadow Lawn," is on McKnight road in St. Louis County. She is a great-granddaughter of Gen. Bernard Gaines Farrar and a granddaughter of Edward H. Semple. A native of St. Louis, she was educated at Wilson Kindergarten, Mary Institute and the Knox School at Cooperstown, N. Y. She made her first trip abroad in the summer of 1926.

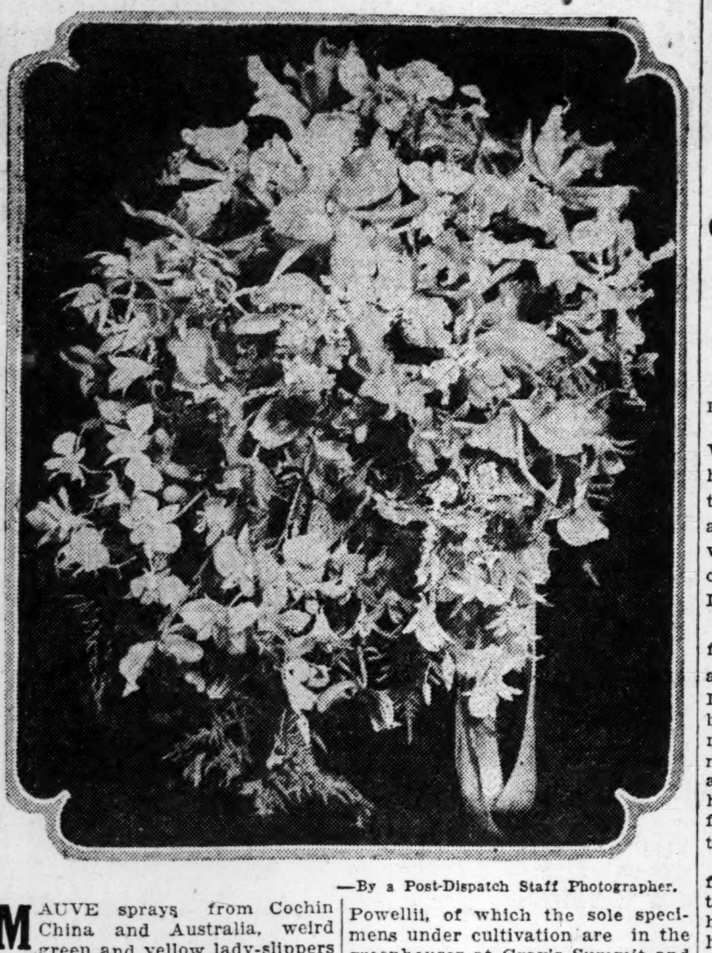
Miss Julia Wells, the first special maid of honor, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells of 53 Kingsbury place, and the granddaughter of former Mayor Rolla Wells. She was graduated from Mary Institute in 1926 and traveled abroad last winter.

Miss Frances Sherwood Wilson, the second special maid of honor, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham Wilson Jr. of 4382 Westminster place. She was educated at Mary Institute and Vassar College, graduating from the latter institution in 1926. She was elected May Queen by her class during her final year.

Miss Anne Vietor Davis, the third special maid of honor, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis of Brentmoor Park. She was educated at Mary Institute, John Burroughs School and Madame Payen's School in Paris and has traveled in Europe. She is now a student at Washington University.

Miss Janet Douglas Shields, fourth special maid of honor, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Howell Shields Jr. of 6549 Wydown boulevard. She was educated at Mary Institute and Dobbs Ferry. After graduation from the latter she spent a year in travel abroad.

Queen's Bouquet of Rare Orchids



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

MAUVE sprays from Cochin China and Australia, weird green and yellow lady-slippers from Java, India and Burma, white and mauve and purple-lipped laelias and cattleyas from Brazil, Colombia and Honduras—tours de force of the world's tropics—made up the orchid bouquet presented to the Veiled Prophet's Queen last night. The bouquet could have been made up nowhere in the world but at Shaw's Garden. Its value is inestimable.

Rarest of all were seven yellow and chocolate-barred odontoglossum Powellii, of which the sole specimens under cultivation are in the greenhouses at Gray's Summit and the garden's tropical station in Panama, which was founded by the late Charles W. Powell, discoverer of the orchid.

Those who desire to see the bouquet on display at Shaw's Garden should do so today, for it must be returned to Her Majesty tomorrow. It is shown in a refrigerated glass case in the flower house, to keep it, and the special maids' bouquets which flank it, in perfect condition for the young women.

ADMITS HE KILLED AMERICAN'S WIFE LIVING IN FRANCE

By the Associated Press.

NICE, France, Oct. 21.—Capt. Wenceslas de Krupfell, said to have formerly been connected with the Russian Imperial Guard, was arrested here last evening charged with the murder of Mme. Marcelle Lord, the wife of Horace W. Lord of Fall River, Mass.

The body of Mme. Lord was found in a villa yesterday, with a stab wound through the heart. De Krupfell was known to have been visiting at the villa, but was not in the apartment when the murder was discovered. Immediately a search was instituted for him, and he was arrested not far from the scene, while attempting to call on a friend of Mme. Lord's.

The police declare that Krupfell made a full avowal, saying that Mme. Lord had tried to stop him from committing suicide, and he killed her—he did not remember how.

The police investigation shows that Mme. Lord became acquainted with the Captain last year at Grasse, near Nice, where both were members of a German "back to nature" cult, which was suppressed by the authorities.

Police believe that Mme. Lord, who possessed independent financial means and property on the Riviera, helped De Krupfell financially. The motive for his act was not announced in the confession, but authorities believe a quarrel arose over financial matters.

MOTORMAN OF WORK CAR KILLED WHEN PASSING POLE

Edward Heinle, motorman of a United Railways work car, was fatally injured today when he leaned out of the car to observe some difficulty with the wheels and was struck by a concrete trolley pole in the Oakland avenue right of way near the Mounted Police Station.

He was thrown from the car and died of a fractured skull in 10 minutes after reaching St. Mary's Hospital. Heinle was 31 and resided in Kirkwood.

SCHOOL BOARD WILLING TO PAY $13,000 ON NEW PLAYGROUND

Judge Takes Under Advisement Protest Against $31,000 Tax Assessment.

The protest of the Board of Education against a tax assessment of $31,385 for a new playground adjoining the Webster School at 2127 North Eleventh street was taken under advisement today by Circuit Judge Ossing.

Hugh McNamee, secretary of the board, testified the board was willing to pay only about $13,000, and that it did not regard the playground as a benefit to be assessed against the school. Francis G. Sebek, Assistant City Counselor, argued, on the other hand, that the closing of Clinton place, necessitated by the playground project, would improve safety conditions for children and declared the playground would be a distinct benefit to the school.

The project is to cost $133,437, of which the city is to pay $61,474, the remainder being assessed against benefited property.

DRY DEMOCRATS TO START BOOM FOR SENATOR WALSH

Group in Wisconsin Will Organize State in Behalf of the Montanan.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 21.—Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is being urged for the Democratic presidential nomination by a Wisconsin group of dry Democrats.

Miles C. Riley, Madison attorney, conferred informally with Walsh and several party leaders yesterday. Later he said a state meeting is planned to outline an organization favoring the Montana Senator in every county of the state. Riley said the proposed organization is without the approval of Senator Walsh, who made no statement to indicate that he would be a candidate.

58 MEN PLEAD GUILTY OF PART IN LIQUOR CONSPIRACY

Leader Given Year at Leavenworth, Fined $200, Other Lighter Penalties.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 21.—Thirty-one of the 58 defendants in the Tony Ferracane liquor conspiracy, which made liquor in Chicago, hauled it to Louisville and then brought it back North under "bonded" labels, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Robert C. Baltzell in Federal Court today.

Trials of those denying their complicity were set for Nov. 28. Judge Baltzell immediately began sentencing these who had pleaded guilty. Mike Guiliano, said by District Attorney Ward to be one of the principals in the conspiracy, was fined $200 and sentenced to Leavenworth Penitentiary for a year and a day. Other sentences ranged from one day to six months with small fines attached in some instances. All the defendants arraigned live here.

Mrs. George W. Sanborn, of 563 Melville street, saw her brothers Herschall and Edward Sims for the first time in 41 years when a family reunion was held at the Sanborn home last Sunday.

Mrs. Sanborn, who came here from Seattle, Wash., recently, had lived in the West since childhood and had learned of her brothers' whereabouts only through an advertisement in Terre Haute, Ind., newspapers.

MAN SAYS DAUGHTER IS HELD

Does Not Have $2500 Ransom, He Tells Persons in Joliet.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 21.—Louis Peters, who promoted an agricultural show here last summer and says he is an emlpoye of the State Department of Agriculture, said here today his daughter, Helen, 14 years old, has been kidnaped and was being held for $2500 ransom in Chicago.

He said his daughter disappeared after attending a party in Rogers Park, Chicago, Tuesday night, and that the following day he was called on the telephone and told she was held pending payment of $2500. He said he did not have the money and had made no report to the police, but had Chicago detectives working on the case.

BOOKMAKER JUSTIFIED IN KILLING GANGSTER

Detectives Support Ben Greenberg's Account of Shooting of Frank Selvaggi.

A Coroner's jury today exonerated Ben Greenberg, proprietor of a cigar store and handbook establishment at 619 Chestnut street, after an inquest into the killing of Frank Selvaggi, Cuckoo gangster, by Greenberg Wednesday night.

The exoneration apparently was complete, for none of the witnesses was required by the Circuit Attorney's office to go before the grand jury after the inquest, as is the custom when further investigation is made.

Two detectives gave the only testimony. Greenberg was called to the stand, but on advice of counsel made no statement. The testimony of the detectives pertaining to bullet marks they found in Greenberg's establishment tended to corroborate his story, told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, that he killed Selvaggi after the latter came in to rob him and fired several shots.

After the killing Greenberg disclosed that the Cuckoos, in addition to preying on East Side bootleggers, had been extorting money from St. Louis bookmakers.

The Coroner's jury, after finding that Geenberg had fired in self-defense, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. Greenberg is at liberty under a $20,000 common-law bond to answer any charge that may be brought against him.

The two detectives, Sergeant George Fritschie and Harry L. Dowd, who investigated the killing after Selvaggi had staggered out of Greenberg's cigar shop and collapsed on the sidewalk, shot twice near the heart and once in the leg, said they found two bullet holes in the place and a bullet mark on a chair, also bullets on the floor.

Complete reports of the police investigation were read by Deputy Coroner Dever. They contained Greenberg's story that Selvaggi had been extorting money from him under pretenses of making loans, had been "mooching" cigarettes and that on his third visit to the cigar store Thursday he had a revolver and mumbled something that sounded like "You Jew —— stick 'em up," and then fired four or five shots.

Greenberg, according to his story, then grabbed his own revolver and fired four or five shots until Selvaggi fled toward the door.

"It costs us bookies anywhere from $30 to $100 a week to keep peace with those fellows," Greenberg remarked in his story. "I finally got tired of paying."

Selvaggi, who was 25 years old and had been arrested 29 times, will be buried next Monday with services at 1:30 p. m. from the residence of his parents, 5659 Vernon avenue.

U. S. OPENS FILES TO GEORGE REMUS

Attorney Says Information of Great Value to Defense Was Found.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Counsel for George Remus, who shot his wife to death recently in Cincinnati, concluded what he termed a successful stay here today in defense of the forme rbootleg operator, having gained access to the files of the Department of Justice and depositions from high prohibition officials.

Remus has entered a plea of insanity, alleging that improper relations existed between his wife and Franklin L. Dodge Jr., and that they sought to deprive him of his property. Dodge is a former Department of Justice agent, credited with a major part in sending Remus to the penitentiary on a bootlegging charge.

James J. Britt, chief counsel for the Prohibition Bureau, testified before Charles Elston, representing Remus, and Carl E. Basler, representing the prosecution, that he had seen Dodge and Mrs. Remus talking with each other at a conference in Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair's office, and that Dodge engaged at least once in a colloquy with counsel for other interests represented at the hearing. Previously, Prohibition Commissioner Doran had deposed that Remus and his wife were at odds on the disposition of 1800 barrels of whisky stored at Maysville, Ky., and that title to i twas claimed by both. Remus has charged his wife dissipated his holdings.

Access to the Department of Justice files was granted to Remus after a long conference before department officials and the attorneys. Dodge was about the building during the discussions.

"We expected to gain access to records of the Department of Justice," Elston said. "I cannot state exactly what we found, but from those records we gained information we feel will prove of great value to the defense. We are contending there was a conspiracy between Dodge and Mrs. Remus to deprive Remus of his property. We maintain Dodge's appearing with Mrs. Remus before the commissioner in Washington is evidence that Dodge and Mrs. Remus were working together to deprive Remus of his property."

The attorneys now will go to New York.

Detective's Auto Stolen.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS FATAL TO GIRL, 20

Miss Laura Petersen, 20 years old, a student nurse at St. Mary's Hospital Training School, East St. Louis, died of infantile paralysis Wednesday.

Miss Petersen, a student at the nurses' school for six weeks, became ill Sunday evening. Her death was the third from infantile paralysis in East St. Louis in the last year. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petersen of Monticello, Ia., and the body has been taken there for burial.

Her physician reported he was unable to determine how she contracted the disease, as there are no other cases in East St. Louis, nor have there been any since Miss Peterson arrived.

There have been only six cases of infantile paralysis reported in St. Louis this year, and but one case at present. A Webster Groves parochial school was closed temporarily, following the death last Friday of a 7-year-old girl student.

Public schools at Fulton and Hallsville, Mo., were closed last month, following infantile paralysis epidemics in those towns. Six deaths from that disease were reported from Keytesville, Chariton County, and one death in Boone County. Children were ordered kept at home at Glasgow, Mo., after a number of cases were reported there. Towns in Eastern Kansas also had infantile paralysis cases.

Doctor Advances Theory Migratory Birds Carry Infantile Paralysis.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 21.—Dr. L. H. McCuskey of Moundsville has advanced a theory that migratory birds may be "carriers" of infantie paralysis and the cause of periodic outbreaks of that disease. He presents this idea in a paper for the West Virginia Medical Journal, the official publication of the State Medical Association.

Dr. McCuskey's study of his theory dates back to a discovery he made during a paralysis epidemic in 1926. A paralyzed bird fluttering around his chickens and another bird, unable to walk or fly, that he found in a ditch outside the pen, brought the problem to his attention. A few days later he found another paralyzed bird in the mash pan of a separate pen where two chickens were kept and his theory got further substantiation when, after feeding the chickens for two mornings from the same pan without cleansing it, both chickens developed paralysis. During this year's epidemic he found a number of paralyzed birds.

I. QUALITY
II. PRICE
III. SERVICE

Upon these three Points for 77 years this store has builded a reputation for giving

SATISFACTION

Prices at Vandervoort's as low as the lowest prevailing price!

SATURDAY will probably be one of the largest days of the year in point of volume of retail sales in St. Louis. The people of St. Louis are fortunate in having merchants whose enterprise makes such opportunities. Many "well-known brands" of merchandise will be offered at the lowest prices of the year—often at actual cost or less. All such items and any others advertised for Saturday, where the quality is equal will, as usual, be sold at Vandervoort's as low as the lowest prevailing price.

I. QUALITY

Quality at Vandervoort's is never sacrificed to provide lower price. A lower price at the sacrifice of quality does not constitute value and is not considered good merchandising by this store.

* * *

II. PRICE

Prices at Vandervoort's are always as low as possible, quality considered. Even when the prevailing price is less than the quality warrants, Vandervoort's price is as low as the lowest prevailing price.

* * *

III. SERVICE

Service to Vandervoort's means having the same dependable merchandise day in and day out at a fair price and offered in pleasant surroundings where selection may be made with our guarantee of satisfaction given in the next paragraph.

* * *

When a Vandervoort Customer Feels That Quality, Price or Service Has Not Been Given in Full Measure, Full Credit Will Be Given or Money Refunded. And Remember—

The Vandervoort Price—Saturday and Every Day—Is Equally as Low, Often Lower, Than the Prevailing Price

Comparison signs will point out the city's lowest prices which are equally low at Vandervoort's in every department on every floor throughout the store—Saturday.

EARL CARROLL, OUT OF PRISON HEADED FOR BROADWAY

Theatrical Producer Says Fear Complex in Having to Meet People Again Is Torturing Him.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 21.—With the announced intention of making a "comeback," Earl Carroll left Atlanta at 12:50 today on the Crescent Limited of the Southern Railway for New York to take up again his theatrical business, which was interrupted when he was sent to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary for perjury. His train is due in New York tomorrow at 11:53 a. m.

He is to report on his arrival in New York to Herbert Adams, New York attorney, in whose custody he was paroled after serving one-third of a prison sentence of a year and a day. He must also remain within the State of New York and not touch intoxicating liquor.

Wife and Brother on Train.

Carroll was accompanied by his wife, a brother, a sister and A. V. Rooney, casting director who came to Atlanta and met him on his release from prison last night.

His feelings over his imprisonment, which grew out of his celebrated "bath-tub" party in New York last year, were expressed formally in a statement typewritten on prison stationery, that he handed to newspaper men.

"Those who felt that I should be severely punished for my 'misguided' gesture of chivalry may rest positively in the assurance that I have suffered, that I have undergone an irreparable loss of self-respect, a realization of unworthiness such as each and every man feels when the door of a prison clangs behind him," he said.

"My health is better, thanks to the humane interest of a truly remarkable executive, Warden Snook—and I believe my life was saved by the sympathetic understanding of Dr. Nellans, the prison physician. I found the Warden a strict disciplinarian. He treated me like every other prisoner—sternly, but squarely. I received no special favors or privileges, still at all times I felt that he was conscientiously interested in the reconstruction of my shattered faith in man."

STUDENT AND 2 MEN FINED FOR VIOLATING U. S. GAME LAW

All Three Charged With Using Motorboat in Duck Hunting; Penalty Stayed.

"The migratory bird act was passed to prevent game from becoming as extinct as the dodo," remarked Federal Judge Faris when three men pleaded guilty today to violating the law by the use of a motorboat in duck-hunting. "It's a good law and should be observed."

Assistant United States District Attorney Crooks related that when game wardens approached, on Oct. 30 last, on the Mississippi above St. Louis, the defendants tossed a number of ducks from the motorboat into the river—possibly "on advice of counsel," for one was a law student and appeared in court with his school-books under his arm.

Judge Faris fined Joseph Fagen of 3848 Cottage avenue, a contractor, $50; Noel Bader of 4433 Clarence avenue, a carpenter, $25, and the student, Paul Kaveney, 20, of 4438 Red Bud avenue, who said he was working his way through St. Louis University law school, $50—stayed on execution.

RUSSIAN BUYS 10,000 SHEEP

Animals From U. S. Will Be Used to Build Up Native Stock.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 21.—Russia has purchased 10,000 Rambouillet sheep for immediate shipment in an effort to build up stock in that country, it was learned today.

W. U. Senderson, manager of the Hay Creek ranch, 180 miles east of here, where the sheep were raised, said he understood the shipment would be the largest ever sent abroad from this country. Part of the sheep will go to Northern Russia, while some will be sent to the Caucasian section.

By the Associated Press.

HORNSBY'S BETS RAN $1000 A DAY, BOOKMAKER SAYS

EACH LAID WAGERS THROUGH THE OTHER

Ball Player Had Three Telephones in Home for Long-Distance Business With Commissioner.

"See you Ted?"

That was the first greeting that Rogers Hornsby, baseball player, heard of Frank L. Moore, betting commissioner, since they were introduced by a mutual friend in [illegible] innings of a game at Cincinnati in the spring of 1925.

Moore laid two or three bets and Hornsby bet $10 on each and won. That was the beginning of a friendship, which ended last spring when Moore filed suit at Covington to recover $92,000, which he says Hornsby owes him as a result of [illegible] transactions. Hornsby, in answer to the suit, asserts the wagers involved were of a gambling nature, and as such unenforceable at law. To which Moore retorts, in effect, that he merely advanced the money to Hornsby, and whether Hornsby gambled it away or not has nothing to do with the case.

Trial Set for Oct. 31.

The suit is set for trial Oct. 31 before Circuit Judge [illegible] at Covington. A deposition by Moore, in which he tells of his relationship to Hornsby and their financial dealings, was taken by Hornsby's attorney at Newport, Ky., Moore's home, last week, and filed today at Covington.

Hornsby, now with the New York Giants, was a member of the St. Louis Cardinals when he met Moore, and later became manager of the team.

During the period of their friendship, especially during the winter of 1925-26 and the summer of 1926, Hornsby wagered large sums, as much as $1000 a day, with St. Louis bookmakers, and lost more often than he won, Moore testified. Among the bookmakers he named as Butler, Victor Harvey, a man named McKenna and Barry McDonald. Moore also told of deals with a bookmaker named Max Freiburg in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Hornsby had three telephones in his Maple avenue home here. When Moore wanted to bet money on his own account here, he would telephone from his Kentucky home to the Maple avenue house, and would hold the wire while Hornsby or Mrs. Hornsby would use another telephone to call a bookmaker and learn the prevailing "odds," after which Moore would decide how much he wished to wager.

Had to Borrow $130,000.

Moore said he had to borrow $130,000 to pay his own and Hornsby's losses. During the summer of 1926, he related, he and Hornsby tried without success to borrow money from Mrs. Allan Sothoron, a professional loan broker, then the wife of a Cardinal player, and from "Fuzzy" Anderson, a Cardinal stockholder.

"We called on Anderson at his room in the Coronado Hotel," Moore related. "Rogers asked Anderson to loan us $10,000. Mr. Anderson said: 'You boys come clean—what is the trouble?' Rogers said: 'There's no trouble; will you take our note for $10,000?' Anderson inquired about my integrity, and Rogers said I was 'good as gold.' Next morning, after thinking it over, Anderson turned us down."

"Had you known Anderson before then?"

"I had seen him around with Mr. John McGraw on several occasions," Moore said, "and Rogers told me they were great friends."

Says Hornsby Admitted Debt.

Moore said that on one occasion late in the summer of 1926, when he, his wife, Hornsby and his wife were driving through Forest Park, he told Hornsby that Hornsby then owed him $45,000. Moore said Hornsby replied:

"Yes, I know it's getting very bad. You've been very good to me." Hornsby, to show his appreciation, thereupon offered to give Moore for security half of Hornsby's stock in the Cardinal club, Moore testified. Moore never got the stock.

During that drive, Moore said his wife offered to give her diamonds and jewelry to Hornsby so he could borrow $4000 to meet immediate needs, but Hornsby declined.

New High School Suggested.

The building of a new high school for the southwest section of the city, adjoining Forest Park, was urged last night at a meeting of the South Forest Park Improvement Association by Mrs. A. B. Waecheide. The meeting was in the auditorium of the Dewey School, Central and Clayton avenues. Edward P. Walsh, head of the organization, presided.

50 MINE RIOTERS INDICTED

Union Sympathizers Accused of Assault and Destroying Property.

By the Associated Press.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 21.—Fifty mine union sympathizers today were indicted by the Tuscarawas County grand jury on charges of assault and battery and malicious destruction of property in connection with the disturbance at the Maple Leaf Coal Mine near here Aug. 1. The men are charged with assaulting five nonunion workers employed at the mine.

John Burger was indicted for shooting with intent to wound John Lasco, a union worker, while Lasco was indicted for assault and battery on Burger. The tipple of the Maple Leaf mine was destroyed with loss estimated at $20,000. The mine has been closed since the disturbance.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $150,000 WHEN FIRE SWEEPS EXETER, MO.

Nine Two-Story Buildings Destroyed as Flames Raze Business District.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 21.—Fanned by a stiff breeze, fire of undetermined origin swept the entire business district of Exeter, a small town 75 miles southwest of here, early today, destroying nine two-story brick buildings and causing loss estimated at $150,000.

The town's only bank, the postoffice, two grocery stores, two general stores, a hardware store, harness shop, cafe and drug store were reduced to ruins. The town, with a population of 400, does not have a fire department, but volunteers saved the residence section from burning. The fire was discovered by two men returning from a fox hunting trip. Several persons asleep in the upper floors of two of the buildings barely escaped.

The loss is covered only partly by insurance.

WOMAN AND DAUGHTER BEATEN TO DEATH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Anna Hansen, 45 years old, and her adopted daughter, Milma Macki, 19, were beaten to death yesterday in their apartment on the ground floor of a two-family house in Brooklyn. Their heads were battered and their bodies cut and bruised.

Although police fixed the time of the murders as about 6 a. m., the crime was not reported until last evening by Mrs. Hansen's husband, John, 50, a machinist employed at the Bush Terminal, in Brooklyn.

Hansen, said by the police to be drunk, went to the Fourth Avenue station, more than a mile from his home, in a taxicab, and, staggering before the desk, said to Sergt. Derleth:

"Send an ambulance to my house. I found my wife and daughter bleeding on the floor of the dining room. I guess they're dead."

Sergt. Derleth sent an ambulance from Norwegian Hospital, and detectives went to the house with Hansen. Turning on the lights, the detectives found the bodies of Mrs. Hansen and Milma Macki on the floor of the dining room. The rug was crumpled and furniture overturned, indicating there had been a struggle to escape the murderer.

Dr. Hersh arrived from the Norwegian Hospital a few minutes later, and after examination, said Mrs. Hansen and her adopted daughter had been dead at least 12 hours.

BODY OF MAN SHOT TO DEATH FOUND IN ALTON

Identification Marks on Clothing Had Been Torn Off, No Weapon Discovered Near.

The body of an unidentified man, with a bullet hole in the right temple, was found yesterday on a farm at the northern edge of Alton. The man, who was about 28 years old, apparently had been dead several days.

No weapon was found near the body and the wound was not powder-burned, indicating the man may have been murdered there, or that the body may have been taken.

Labels had been torn from the man's suit and hat, leaving as the only conspicuous identification marks, tattooing on both forearms. On the right forearm are the figures of a man and woman embracing, and on the left forearm are an anchor, across which are the numerals "1926," and a sword with a snake coiled about it.

The man was 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighed 150 pounds, had black hair, black, bushy eyebrows and black eyes. He wore a gray hat, white shirt with collar attached, and gray suit.

The farm where the body was found is near the northern end of Hawley street. Ed Rowe, an Alton street car conductor, lives there.

The asparagus patch in which the body was found covers about six acres. The body was discovered by Andrew Cannon, a Negro, of Alton, who was going to a nearby woods to gather nuts.

California's "Dahlia King" Drowns.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Christian F. Herschaft, botanist and known as the "Dahlia King," was found dead in a fish pond in the garden of George Rose of San Francisco yesterday. Herschaft, who had visited Rose, was believed to have tripped and fallen, unconscious, drowning in eight inches of water.

PILL-TAKER FREED FROM HIS HABIT

ALL-BRAN brought natural relief from chronic constipation

Constipation is almost a universal curse—father of more than forty diseases. Yet there is real assurance in Mr. Ladue's letter:

"After sixteen years of taking pills, it cured me. If the millions of people that suffer from constipation only knew what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN would do, some of the pill-makers would go out of business. Every doctor should recommend it. I tell all that I know so that they can get the joy out of life I am getting since I started on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN 3 months ago."

MR. JULIAN LADUE
Burlington, Vt.

Hollow cheeks, pimples, listlessness are some of the symptoms. Don't risk it another day. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Comes ready to eat. Sold and served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

Robber Stops Stolen Cab Opposite Police Station and Is Captured.

Robert A. Baker, after stealing two taxicabs and holding up a grocery store, made the mistake of stopping one of the stolen cars opposite a police station. He's a prisoner now.

"Whenever I use cocaine, I do things like that," explained Baker, who is 23 years old, a machinist and an ex-convict.

He had been using cocaine Wednesday afternoon when, armed with a revolver, he entered the Mercantile Grocery Co., 4657 Maryland avenue, drove four men and three women employes into a rear room and walked out with $243 taken from the cashier's till.

Outside he hailed a Yellow taxicab, driven by Cornelius Bray, and directed that he be driven to Easton avenue. On the way he held up Bray, taking his cap and the car, which he drove away and later abandoned.

He was using cocaine again yesterday afternoon, when he entered the Yellow taxicab driven by Robert Gregg at Taylor avenue and Hodiamont tracks and was driven to the 4500 block of Newberry terrace, where he took Gregg's cap and cab. He drove aimlessly for a time and arrived at an oil station at the northwest corner of Easton avenue and Deer street just as Desk Sergeant Dennis Gleason, of the Deer Street Station, at the southeast corner, was looking out of the window. Gleason saw that the taxicab was marked 209, the number of the car which Gregg had just reported stolen from him. Gleason saw also that Baker had drawn a revolver and was threatening the oil station attendant. Gleason and other policemen ran across the street and arrested Baker.

Baker confessed the holdups and was identified by the victims, police reported. He had $132.50. In his room at 1224 North Taylor avenue was found a police revolver, and an investigation was begun to determine how it got out of police hands. Baker admitted he had served a penitentiary term for highway robbery. He is also known as Harry Jesseth.

'DANGEROUS BOUND' IN AUTO DEATH RATE, CORONER SAYS

Drunken Drivers Not Dealt With Severely Enough, Vitt Complains in Statement.

Drunken drivers of motor vehicles are a constantly increasing menace "not dealt with severely enough by our law enforcement bodies," Coroner Vitt declared in a statement today.

The death rate by motor vehicles in St. Louis, he said, has taken a "dangerous bound" in the last two weeks and he urges a combined effort of drivers and pedestrians to stop the increase. Speeding and intoxication are the most noticeable hazards observed in many inquests in deaths caused by automobiles, Vitt said.

Vitt lists the number of deaths caused by motor vehicles in St. Louis for the first nine months of 1925 as 135; 1926, 129, and 1927, 100.

BOY LOSES RADIO LICENSE

Chairman of Board Writes Letter Hoping Health Will Improve.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Softening the blow by a personal letter, Chairman Bulard of the Federal Radio Commission, has withdrawn the amateur operating license of Eric H. Palmer, a 16-year-old Brooklyn boy. Palmer's father recently begged the commission to take away the lad's license because he was ruining his health by staying awake all hours of the night and neglecting education and everything else to receive and transmit radio messages.

Chairman Bullard expressed to the youngster "Keen regret that I am obliged to inform you that the commission today suspended for 90 days your license to operate." "Your father reported to the board that you are so enthusiastic over your work that you have been neglecting your meals and sleep." the letter continued. "His solicitude about your health is shared by us and is the sole basis for our drastic action. We believe with your father that you need a good rest, and when your license is restored we hope you will resume your radio work with reasonable moderation."

FOURTH SENTENCE FOR YOUTH

J. J. Stenson, 18, on Parole, Pleads Guilty of Third Robbery Charge.

Joseph J. Stenson, 18 years old, today was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary when he pleaded guilty of robbing William Kleese, 4403 South Grand boulevard, of a watch valued at $30 and some money, May 22.

Stenson, who is on parole from a five-year-sentence for an auto theft, recently was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary after pleading guilty of two other robbery charges.

GERMAN FLYER FORCED BACK ON AZORES HOP

Heinkel Craft Returns to Lisbon on Proposed Flight to U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, Portgual, Oct. 21.—The Heinkel hydroairplane D-1220, en route to the United States took off for the Azores this morning, but was forced by a leak in its oil tank to return after but a short flight.

The Heinkel hydroairplane has been forced down once en route from Warnemuende, Germany to Lisbon. A leak in the radiator forced it to descend at Brunsbuettel, 130 miles from the starting point, Oct. 12. The next day the plane was taken to Wilhelmshaven for repairs and on Oct. 14 completed the first leg of its flight at Amsterdam.

From Amsterdam it flew to Vigo, Spain, Oct. 16, and reached Lisbon two days later.

First Paris-Buenos Aires Air, Mail Delivered by Costes.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 21.—For the first time in history, residents of the Argentinian capital were able to read letters and newspapers 10 days after they were mailed in Europe, a saving of from six to nine days over the usual time, as a result of the 7500-mile cruise of two French aviators from Paris to Buenos Aires.

Dieudonne Costes and Lieut. Joseph le Brix, who left Paris Oct. 10, arrived in Buenos Aires yesterday with the first regular mail across the South Atlantic. The aviators set two records. They made the entire flight in the shortest time so far and also were the first to fly across the South Atlantic without a stop.

French Flyers on Way to Indo-China Reach Saigon.

By the Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Word has been received from Lieut. Challes and M. Rapin, flying from France to Indo-China, that they reached Saigon yesterday from Allahabad, India, on this lap.

SEWER AWARD TO SECOND LOWEST BIDDER UPHELD

The award of the contract for the Forest Park section of the River des Peres sewer to A. Guthrie & Co., Inc., of St. Paul, on its bid of $2,296,057, the second lowest submitted, will stand. Circuit Judge Hall yesterday refused to issue a writ of mandamus, sought by the lowest bidder, the Whitmire Construction Co. of Kansas City, to compel an award to it upon its bid of $2,277,217. William R. Gilbert, counsel for the Whitmire Co., said no appeal would be taken.

Attorney Edward Foristel, who filed a taxpayers' suit in behalf of Otto F. Karbe, to force an award to the Whitmire company has dismissed that proceeding.

Judge Hall, in deciding the case, said the Board of Public Service, in awarding the contract, was acting not merely in a ministerial capacity, but that it had discretionary powers. The award to the second lowest among nine bidders was made by the Board on recommendation of President Kinsey, who held that, considering the magnitude of the job, the Guthrie Co. seemed the better equipped of the two, professionally and financially, to carry it out.

THIRD VICTIM OF EXPLOSION AT VARNISH WORKS DIES

Inquest Over Three Workers at P. D. George Company Plant to Be Held Today.

Harry Heimsoth, 23 years old, of 4838 Heidelberg avenue, St. Louis County, died early today at St. Anthony's Hospital, the third victim of an explosion of boiling varnish Wednesday afternoon in the plant of the P. D. George Varnish Co., 4153 Bingham street.

Heimsoth and the two other men had been working in the basement of the plant where the varnish is boiled in vats as part of a refining process. The upper parts of their bodies were enveloped with flames from the burning liquid.

Heimsoth's companions, Mack Butler of 4838 Minnesota avenue and Roy Harrington of 1309 Carroll street, died at St. Anthony's Hospital Wednesday night.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the three deaths. The cause of the explosion was not determined. Norman George, a member of the firm, testified fumes from the boiling gasoline were highly combustible, being composed of gasoline and naptha, mixed with linseed oil and other ingredients. Sparks from a motor, which had just been turned on, may have ignited the fumes, George said.

EXPLOSION WRECKS UNIVERSITY CITY HOME

Owner Offers $1000 Reward for Arrest of Persons Who Caused $2000 Damage.

A reward of $1000 has been offered by Albert L. Woas for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons who dynamited his recently completed residence at 6940 Delmar boulevard, University City, last night, causing damage estimated at $2000.

At the time of the explosion, Woas was visiting friends in the 5700 block on McPherson avenue, more than a mile away. Woas said he heard the explosion plainly and jocularly remarked: "There goes my new house." Later, other friends brought him word that it really was his house which had been dynamited.

Woas, who is president of the Albert L. Woas Construction and Realty Co., erected the 14-room, two-story stucco and brick residence for his own use, and was to occupy it tomorrow. He has been living temporarily at 7361 Olive boulevard.

Last midnight a dynamite charge was set off in the Delmar boulevard house, blowing out a portion of the east wall, shattering windaw panes and wrecking the front porch. Evidently the front door had been forced open, and the explosive placed in the dining room, where the damage was heaviest.

Eighty per cent of the work on the building had been performed by union labor, Woas said. He added that several old employes who belonged to no union had been employed by him on the job, despite union protests.

Earlier this week, Woas discovered the front porch had been burned slightly, and he surmised someone had attempted to fire the porch with a blow torch, but had been scared away. Previously vandals had marred other new University City homes with creosote.

The University City Fire Department went to the scene of last night's explosion, but there was no fire.

RED ADMINISTRATION PRAISED IN REPORT

Maurer Investigators Assert Country's Industry and Agriculture Has Returned to Pre-War Level.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Asserting that Soviet officials have offered to settle American claims against Russia, the American labor delegation, headed by James Maurer, which recently returned from Moscow, issued a report yesterday urging the United States to recognize the Russian Government.

The report was signed by members of the delegation including Maurer, who is president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor; John Brophy of the United Mine Workers; Albert F. Coyle, recently editor of the Locomotive Engineers Journal, and Frank Palmer, editor of the Colorado Labor Advocate.

Members of the delegation are not unanimous in praise of the Soviet regime, according to a statement given out by Silas B. Axtell, a marine lawyer of New York. Axtell described himself as an "unofficial" member of the delegation, which was itself unauthorized by organized labor.

Russian Wages Up 35 Per Cent.

"The responsible heads of the Russian Government," the report states, "declared to us their willingness to make a settlement in full, both for the property of Americans confiscated at the time of the revolution and for the bonds of the former Czarist Government held by Americans, provided that such settlement would not constitute a precedent compelling Russia to grant similar treatment to other countries."

Russian industry and agriculture have caught up with the 1913 level, the report continues, and wages have advanced 35 per cent above the 1913 figure. The Russian Government has established itself and carries on the functions of legislation and administration, it argues, and is as much entitled to recognition as the military dictatorships of Italy, Spain, Portugal and Chile.

"Russia can go on, we are convinced of that," the report concludes, "but she cannot go on to the kind of success which lies within vision without freedom from malicious interference in her affairs."

Axtell said he had submitted a report on the Russian laws, but that it probably would not be included in the delegation's report.

Says Country Has No Laws.

"Russia has no laws, only decrees handed down from above," he said. "The courts are a joke. The ruling class issues decrees, enforces them and appoints the judiciary which is to interpret them. There is no guarantee of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, no freedom of speech, press, or assembly, no secret ballot. The press is run by the Government.

"Russia may drag along for 50 or 100 years in an isolated state, but it will not go anywhere. Civilization there will not improve under a Communist Government."

LOWDEN HUNTING MAN TO ORGANIZE MISSOURI FOR HIM

Choice Believed to Lie Between Jesse W. Barrett and E. W. Foristel, Both G. O. P. Harmonizers.

LIV MORSE PICKS HIMSELF FOR JOB

But Illinoisan's Emissary, Visiting St. Louis, Decides to Call on Own List of Politicians.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

When Clarence F. Buck of Monmouth, Ill., former State Senator, banker, stock raiser and farmer, and a thoroughly experienced politician, came to St. Louis early this week as the unofficial chairman of the unofficial Lowden-for-President campaign committee, he learned a lot of things about politics as it is played in Missouri that never had entered his Illinois head.

There was a lot of mystery about Buck's visit. In the first place, it was not supposed to be known even that he was in St. Louis on a Lowden mission, for what could be more embarrassing to a candidate than having a manager out appointing submanagers when the candidate had not yet avowed his candidacy? So he slipped into Hotel Jefferson quietly, deposited his baggage and departed to find former Mayor Kiel, who is an announced Lowden supporter. It was when he got back to the hotel after a fruitless quest for Kiel that his Missouri political education began.

In the lobby was quite a collection of what Secretary of State Charley Becker calls "chicken pickers." Lowden was "good pickin's" in 1920, and why should he not be again? So the word had gone out that the Lowden manager was in town and the thoroughly practical politicians came a running.

Buck didn't know a chicken picker from a patriot anxious to serve in a great cause. Not that he had not had a voluminous correspondence from various and sundry Missouri Republicans, who volunteered to give him the low down and the Who's Who of the situation. But what is a stranger to do when there is such a difference of opinion as he found in reading the correspondence?

Liv Morse Tries to Horn In.

Anyway, one, E. L. (Liv) Morse of Excelsior Springs, had journeyed the 250 miles from his home town to greet Lowden's representative. It is hardly necessary to recall that Liv is one of the politicians who handled the Lowden slush fund in 1920, the exposure of the existence of which generally is credited with having cost Lowden the presidency that year. Buck, it appears, knew very little about Lib's place in Missouri political history.

When Buck, who was as personally unknown to the chicken-pickers as they were to him, returned from his search for Kiel, and elbowed his way through them to the hotel desk, he was informed by the clerk that "Mr. Morse in 334 wished him to come to his room immediately." Buck responded to the summons and was closeted with Morse for an hour.

While full reports of the conference are not available, it appears that what Buck lacked in knowledge of Liv at the beginning of the interview, he acquired as it progressed. Liv, it is said, assumed complete charge of the Lowden campaign in Missouri at once and was ready to take from Buck's shoulders all responsibility for this State. Buck was not exactly prepared for that and entered some objection. Liv, as all who have come into contact with him in a political way know, is not easily rebuffed. He does not take offense easily, and as long as there seems a chance, Liv is willing to overlook almost anything.

Finally, it is said, Buck desired to escape. He had a list of Republicans he wanted to talk to. Liv managed to get a look at it and promptly pooh-poohed the idea of Buck's wasting his time on politicians without influence. He had a list of his own, just the proper people for Buck to see.

Buck Uses His Own List.

But Buck was obdurate and went his way to call on Kiel, former Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett, Edward W. Foristel, Secretary of State Becker, Dr. E. B. Clements, National Committeeman William Sacks, and a few others who were not on Liv's list.

Buck is said to have decided that he did not care to tie in with Liv, which quite a number of politicians would say indicated that Buck was an apt student of Missouri politics, inasmuch as Liv is persona non grata in both the Dickey and Hyde camps.

Buck's quest for a Missouri manager, not to be officially announced, of course, until Lowden

Buck Uses His Own List.

Buck is said to have decided that he did not care to tie in with Liv, which quite a number of politicians would say indicated that Buck was an apt student of Missouri politics, inasmuch as Liv is persona non grata in both the Dickey and Hyde camps.

Buck's quest for a Missouri manager, not to be officially announced, of course, until Lowden publicly became an active rather than a receptive candidate, is said to have narrowed down to Barrett and Foristel. Either would be considered a good choice in view of the conditions confronting Lowden in Missouri. With either, the local campaign would be far removed from the ruinous entanglements of 1920, and probably no one better than either could be found for harmonizing the fighting factions.

It is doubtful if anybody could bring Walter S. Dickey and Arthur M. Hyde into the same political organization, but if anybody could it probably would be either Barrett or Foristel.

There is some uncertainty, however, as to whether either would accept. Each has an extensive law practice which would be interfered with by such service, and in addition Barrett recently has been looming up as a formidablee possibility for the nomination for Governor. Managing a contested presidential nomination campaign and conducting a personal campaign for Governor would not go very well together.

The general impression is that it will not be extremely difficult to organize Missouri for Lowden, who is particularly strong in the rural sections, and, with Kiel, Sacks and Foristel supporting him in St. Louis, a probable choice here. Lowden, it is expected, will ask for an instructed delegation from Missouri, an that may cause some difficulty.

The Hyde faction probably will not oppose instructions by Congressional districts, but so far it is not committed to the Lowden candidacy. Hyde looks with favor upon Lowden, probably because of Lowden's apparent strength in the country districts. He said yesterday that he did not intend to have a part in the campaign for nomination of any candidate for the presidency, but as the campaign progresses it will be difficult for him to maintain a strict neutrality. Hyde did not arrive in St. Louis until after Buck had departed.

Buck does not appear to have confided his full plans to any of the local Republicans. It is a reasonably safe conclusion that he will come to a decision in his campaign office in Chicago and that instead of coming to Missouri to run into another convention of chicken pickers, he will summon to Chicago those few Missourians with whom he wishes to confer.

REBELS REPORTED IN POWER IN SECTIONS OF NICARAGUA

American Engineers Driven Out of Northern Province, Say Bands Loot and Burn Property.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 21.—Conditions in the Northern part of Nicaragua, are growing into a state of insurrection, say reports from Government sources published in the local papers.

The reports agree with accounts given by American mining engineers who have been forced to leave that region after many years spent there.

The rainy season, now in progress, has made the roads and trails leading into the region impassable, but it is expected that when the dry season comes in December the Nicaraguan constabulary and American Marine forces here will take the field and subdue the insurrection.

Bands Roam Over Section.

Accounts of conditions in Northwest Nicaragua state the number of bands of so-called insurrectos is increasing. The bands roam about various sections under the leadership of the former Liberal Generals, Sandino and Salgado, both of whom have engaged with constabulary and marine forces in recent months.

The forces of these men are reported to hold virtually all the Department of Nueva Segovia, the Northern two-thirds of the Department of Esteli and also the Western populous section of Jinotega. The cities of Esteli and Jinotega, however, have not fallen into their hands. This section of Nicaragua is only about 100 miles from Managua, the capital, but is almost inaccessible because of its lack of good roads.

The American mining engineers driven out of the district are quoted by the local press as saying that nine-tenths of the inhabitants of the departments, being Liberals, either are in favor of Gen. Sandino, or are afraid of him. The insurrectos are living on the country.

One Leader Kills Liberals.

There are only a few conservatives in the district, most of them having fled. There is one group led by Hernandez, a Conservative, which is reported sacking and killing Liberal property owners near Dipilto, in the Dipilto Mountains on the border between Nicaragua and Honduras. Many of the Liberal property owners have fled to Honduras.

The people generally in the affected areas are reported helping the followers of Gen. Sandino, giving them information which is withheld from the marines and constabulary. Much smuggling on the Honduras border is going on both ways.

The engineers driven from the district are quoted as saying the people in the region who formerly were friendly to Americans and worked contentedly in the mines now are anti-American and have been converted to "radicalism and bolshevism" by Gen. Sandino.

The American marines and constabulary hold the principal towns in the district and are patrolling the roads wherever possible, this policy forcing Gen. Sandino's followers to outlying villages.

U. S. OUT OF HAGUE MEETING

League's First Law Conference Held to Five Nations.

GENEVA, Oct. 21.—Contrary to prior announcements, the United States will not be represented in the first League of Nations international conference on international law, to be held at The Hague in 1929.

League of Nations officials explained that members of the League and individual jurists who are citizens of member countries are so desirous of participating in the preliminary work that no place will be left for an American jurist. The conference will be limited to Holland, Latin-America, England and France, with Germany, Japan, Poland and Italy bidding for the fifth place.

18,000 Families in Spain Seek Aid.

MADRID, Oct. 21.—A recent decree authorizing the extension of aid to large families has resulted thus far in approximately 18,000 applications. The record family presented was that of a naval captain who had 18 children.

OTTO QUITS RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Former Supreme Judge Was Baker's Choice—Friends Discover Lack of Support.

By the Jefferson City Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 21.—Former Supreme Court Judge Robert W. Otto, the Baker administration's choice for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, who had been proposed for the 1928 race by Gov. Baker, has withdrawn from the race. Otto's decision is understood to be due to reports of administration workers who have been canvassing the State, that the reaction to Otto's candidacy was not as favorable as expected.

Although he had not made public announcement of his candidacy, Otto had told friends he would run and the word had gone out among administration workers.

Otto issued a brief statement that "I have decided not to become a candidate for Governor in 1928." He said many prominent Republicans in the State had urged him to run and had pledged their support.

His withdrawal likely will give impetus to the movement for former Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett of St. Louis, to make the race. Barrett has been urged by many Republicans to enter the race but had not been expected to run in opposition to Otto as they have been close friends for years. Otto was an assistant to Barrett when the latter was Attorney-General, and Barrett was of considerable influence in Otto's successful race for Attorney-General in 1924.

Republicans at the capitol are in doubt who will become the administration candidate with Otto out, if an aspirant will assume that role. Republican leaders have been seeking an outstanding candidate not directly identified with the administration. Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis, former Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, still appears as a likely contender, as he is expected to receive a considerable part of the organization support that would have gone to former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis, if Newton had not decided to stay out of the race. Caulfield has not made a definite statement of his plans.

SUBMARINE BURNS PIRATES' LAIR IN CHINA AFTER RAID

British Vessel Rescues Crew and Passengers of Ship After Attacking Sea Robbers' Boat.

STRONGHOLD NEAR HONGKONG SHELLED

Band Shoots Steward, Overpowers Officers and Makes Merry at Gambling and Eating.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, China, Oct. 21.—The war against the pirates who prey on shipping along the Chinese coast has been carried into the pirates' stronghold at Bias Bay by a British submarine.

After rescuing the crew of the steamer Irene captured by the pirates, the submarine turned its attack on their shore rendezvous. Today flames swept the notorious pirates' lair, 40 miles north of here, according to the Chinese Merchants' Steam Navigation Co. owners of the seized steamer. The company said the submarine had attacked Bias Bay, setting it afire.

The Irene, enroute from Shanghai to Amboy, was attacked at daybreak last Wednesday. Captain Jahnsen, his second officer and the engineer were at breakfast when the pirates appeared. The pirates shot the steward and overpowered the officers. The passengers were robbed.

After ordering the vessel to slow down, the pirates spent their time in gambling and eating. The Irene reached Bias Bay that evening.

The submarine L-4, which was anchored near the shore, observed that the vessel was without lights and flashed a signal to it to halt. This was disregarded. The submarine then fired several shots across the Irene's bows.

The captain was on the bridge under guard. He rang for the engines to stop, but the pirates in the engineroom forced the engine to continue.

The submarine then dropped a shell into the engineroom. The engine was disabled. A pirate who was about to shoot the engineer was killed.

The crew of the Irene started to jump overboard and the submarine came alongside.

Nations Must Cease Preparations For War, Says Viscount; Tells Why He Quit Cabinet.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Viscount Cecil, who recently resigned from the Baldwin Cabinet in disagreement with its disarmament policy, today launched a personal speaking campaign in the cause of disarmament, making the first of a half dozen addresses he will deliver before Christmas.

At a special meeting of the British League of Nations Union at Caxton Hall, Viscount Cecil declared the object of his resignation from the Cabinet, an act which shook the British political world, was to have greater freedom to press on his fellow countrymen the urgency of disarmament without which, he said, there could be no hope of an enduring peace in Europe.

"Do not let us forget that out of every pound ($5) of taxation we pay 14 shillings ($3.50) are due to past wars or preparation for future wars," he said. "This is a terrible burden, far greater than any other country in the world is bearing at present."

Viscount Cecil said Great Britain must reduce the cost of the fighting services, but added it could not do so to any great extent unless other countries did the same. He asserted that Britain, with the possible exception of Russia, is the only European country whose expenditure for armaments is larger than before the war.

American Guilty of Fraud in China

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21.—Knight M. Crawley of Piedmont, Cal., was convicted in the United States Court here today of defrauding Chinese representatives of Gen. Yang Sen, military chieftain of Szechuan Province, of $73,000 (Mexican) by agreeing to supply Yang Sen with 2,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition to be shipped up the Yangste River aboard the United States gunboat Monocacy. The Court withheld sentencing Crawley, defense counsel announcing that an appeal to the United States Court of Appeals at San Francisco would be made. The Swiss authorities arrested a Swiss subject, Elly Widler, who was charged with conducting the alleged fraudulent negotiations jointly with Crawley.

ALMOST A THIRD OF BOND ISSUE OF 1923 EXPENDED

City Improvements Costing $28,020,192 Made Up to Oct. 15, $46,864,664 Appropriated.

DETAILS OF WORK SO FAR CARRIED OUT

Most Rapid Progress Made in Last Year and Three Quarters in Which $17,000,000 Was Spent.

Almost one-third of the money for various municipal improvements provided by the 1923 bond issue has been spent in the four years and eight months since the people voted it. Expenditures up to Oct. 15 aggregate $28,020,192.

Most rapid progress has been made in the last year and three-quarters, in which time more than $17,000,000 has been spent. More than half of the bond money has been appropriated and nearly half of the bonds have been sold. For the first two years after the bonds were voted the city necessarily had to proceed slowly, doing preliminary work for the improvements, but since then scores of projects have been finished.

Table Illustrates Progress.

The following table illustrates progress, the dates given being those of compilation of the accounts by W. E. Rolfe, associate to the president of the Board of Public Service:

	Bonds Sold.	Appropriated.	Spent.
Oct. 15, 1927—	$38,000,000	$46,864,664	$28,020,192
April 11, 1927—	30,139,000	38,537,391	21,911,216
Nov. 15, 1926—	27,139,000	34,750,784	18,400,399
Jan. 1, 1926—	18,639,000	19,972,111	10,435,336

Expenditures, by items, have been as follows:

Establishing, opening and widening a number of streets, including the large revolving fund which facilitated the Olive street widening, $3,109,490; improving numerous major strets, $1,061,045; electric street lights for a considerable part of the city, $3,975,897; erection of Civil Courthouse, on which concrete workers now are covering the steel framework, $1,111,310; construction of numerous sewers, $2,815,058; River des Peres sewer conversion, largely between Manchester and Gravois avenue, $2,451,103; acquiring parks and playgrounds (one), $90,000; improving parks and playgrounds, $475,379; erection of Municipal Service building, now going up, $240,199; improving and extending the various eleemosynary institutions, $2,179,450; acquiring five lots in Municipal Auditorium site and preparing plans, $272,603; acquiring a considerable fraction of Memorial Plaza site, $1,160,398; motorizing Fire Department and building new engine houses, $430,163; eliminating grade crossings, $214,741; new Union Market and plans for new Soulard Market, $1,003,391; construction of new Missouri River waterworks system, under way, $7,429,957.

Appropriations and Balances.

Appropriations, Rolfe points out, are in some ways a better index of progress than expenditures, since they show to an even greater extent the objects to which the bond money will be devoted. Amounts appropriated and unexpended balances, by items, are:

Establishing and widening streets, $3,166,631 appropriated, $5,550,509 left; improving streets, $1,746,463 appropriated, $4,738,954 left; electric street lights, $5,458,181 appropriated, $4,024,102 left; Civil Courthouse, $3,950,000 appropriated, $2,888,689 left; sewer construction, $4,826,093 appropriated, $5,184,941 left; River des Peres conversion, $6,445,278 appropriated, $8,548,896 left; new parks and playgrounds, $187,000 appropriated, $2,410,000 left; improving parks and playgrounds, $623,918 appropriated, $824,621 left; Municipal Service Building, $1,000,000 appropriated, $760,800 left; improving eleemosynary institutions, $2,271,608 appropriated, $2,320,549 left; Municipal Auditorium, $279,350 appropriated, $4,727,396 left; memorial plaza, $1,209,067 appropriated, $4,839,601 left; fire department, $681,814 appropriated, $342,336 left (but recent award of contracts for equipment will take much of this); grade crossing elimination, $758,795 appropriated, $1,385,259 left; Soulard and Union Markets, $1,170,000 appropriated ($170,000 for Soulard), $246,608 left; new waterworks, $11,590,460 appropriated, $4,570,062 left.

Three Projects Not Touched.

No bonds have been sold, nor appropriations nor expenditures made, for three bonds items—$2,600,000 for Union Station Plaza, $400,000 for an aquarium at Forest Park Zoo and $1,500,000 for a northeast rail approach to the Municipal Bridge. The station plaza and aquarium projects must await their turn on the program, although condemnation of this plaza, at least, has been started in connection with the Market street widening proposal. The northeast bridge approach is believed to have been effectually squelched.

All of the $1,500,000 item for the southern rail approach to the Municipal Bridge has been appropriated and $1,000,000 of the bonds sold, but nothing has been spent yet. A start has been ordered on this project.

NEW U. S. AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO STOPS IN ST. LOUIS

Dwight W. Morrow of New York, newly appointed Ambassador of the United States to Mexico, passed through St. Louis last evening on his way to the City of Mexico. With his wife, 14-year-old daughter, and Arthur Lane, secretary of the Embassy, he took an automobile ride about St. Louis between trains.

The Ambassador and his family will arrive in the City of Mexico Sunday evening. He declined to say anything here in relation to his new post and its problems.

Rehearing of Bus Permit Sought.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 21.—Contending that only the city of St. Louis has jurisdiction over its streets, the city today asked the Public Service Commission for a new hearing in the case in which Yelloway, Inc., a motorbus line, was allowed a permit to operate between St. Louis and Kansas City. The permit carries with it the privilege of using streets in the cities traversed by the line, the commission ruling that cities have no jurisdiction over through lines which merely use the cities as terminals.

Discover Nerve Center That Controls Emotions

Psychologists Experimenting on Brains of Animals, Decide Power of Restraint Is Located in Optic Thalamus.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 21.—Recent experiments have revealed the nerve center in the brain which controls emotions, Dr. Walter B. Cannon, physchologist of Harvard Medical School, said before psychologists attending the symposium of feelings and emotions at Wittenberg College, last night.

By removing different parts of the brains of animals, Dr. Philip Bard, one of Dr. Cannon's collaborators, has discovered that emotional activity is controlled by a very small section in the optic thalamus, the old primitive part of the brain common to all vertebrates from fish to man.

The higher centers of the brain which control thought processes tend to keep this primitive emotional center in check, Dr. Cannon said, but if the higher control gives way, the emotional apparatus is set and ready for energetic discharge.

Results When Centers Conflict.

When there is a strong conflict between the higher and lower brain centers there is the uncertain confusion which often accompanies emotional excitement, he pointed out. But if the higher control is entirely released the emotional takes its course. Fear and anger have proved their usefulness to man and animals, Dr. Cannon believes, in that they cause strong physiological changes which give the individual greater power to fly or fight in time of emergency. After effects of these emotional states, such as indigestion, however, may be disadvantageous.

The undesirability of emotional states was emphasized by Dr. D. T. Howard, of Northwestern university. Experiments described by him show the disorganizing effect of rage and fear in the time while the individual is trying wildly to adjust himself. Upon sight of a bear the frightened man either does not know what to do, or else he tends to yell, climb a tree, throw a stone, and run away, all at once, said Dr. Howard. All of these impulses seek expression and get jammed and the result is chaos.

Their Sensations Confused.

Students who took part in Dr. Howard's experiments reported that their sensations and feelings during the chaotic state were as blurry and confused as their behavior.

In normal life the proper place for emotions is in the background, Dr. Kight Dunlap, of Johns Hopkins, University, said in addressing the symposium. An individual is incompetent to deal with the external world if he directs his consciousness toward his emotions. It is likely that the inability of certain types of individuals to meet the demands of every day life is due to the fact that they have made their emotions the center of their experience, rather than the useful background.

Pointing out that much theorizing on emotions today cannot be fitted to any physiological facts, Dr. Dunlap urges that psychologists "deal with facts and let the fictions alone."

Semi-Serious Emotions.

The actor who is torn to tatters by his own portrayal of emotions was used as an example semi-serious types of emotion in a paper sent to the conference by the German pyschologist, Dr. Welhelm Stern, of the University of Hamburg.

Actors, who do not feel their parts belong to the group of skilled technicians, he said. True artists, on the other hand, identify themselves completely with the individual impersonated. The artist's emotion may leave him exhausted, but it is only semi-serious, because it does not last, and it does not affect his own vital activities, as a serious emotional experience would, Dr. Stern pointed out.

The first romantic love affair of a young boy, however intense it may be, also is semiserious because it, too, has no permanent consequences in his life, said the psychologist. Playful activities shading into various grades of semiseriousness, are distinguished by the fact that they have no serious consequences. They have an important role in the well-balanced individual's makeup, but the man who lets the play spirit dominate his behavior and acts without due consideration for the future has never grown up, but remains, irresponsible like Don Quixote or Peer Gynt.

GIVES PESSIMISTIC VIEW OF U. S. BUSINESS CONDITIONS

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A somewhat pessimistic picture of America business conditions is painted in a report from the British commercial agents at Washington, just published here as an official document.

The report points out that "a depression in America or even a serious halt in American industrial activity would create now much more surely than in early periods, a disturbance the consequences of which would be immediately and widely felt abroad."

The document, which covers May and June, says a noticeable decline is taking place in general industrial and commercial activities. While making the reservation that general business conditions "reveal no very seriously unhealthy conditions" as yet, it reports that agriculture is unsettled, building construction lagging, the automobile output falling off, iron and steel industries slowing down and that the oil industry is in a critical state.

Profits have fallen, the British agents add, and many manufacturers are "beginning to turn an inquiring eye on the high levels of industrial wages."

PETLURA'S SLAYER NO AVENGER, SAYS WITNESS AT TRIAL

Schwartzbard Acted on Orders From Moscow, in Killing General, Avers Ukrainian Ex-Minister.

WILD SCENES IN COURT AT PARIS

Spectators Shout Approval of Points Scored by Attorneys for Assassin or the Prosecution.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Whether Gen. Simon Petlura, Ukrainian separatist leader, died a victim of soviet vengeance, or whether he was assassinated for his alleged responsibility for pogroms seems to be the issue before the court trying Samuel Schwartzbard, confessed assassin of Petlura.

The proceedings have resolved themselves into a rhetorical tilt between Henri Torres, chief counsel for the defense, and Cesar Campinchi, representing Petlura's family. There is an occasional mild interposition by the prosecuting attorney. There is a long line of witnesses present including Princes, Generals, former Ministers, professors, soldiers and spies.

Stormy Scenes in Court.

The presiding justice has only two means of stemming the flood of charge and counter-charge — send away the witness on the stand, or call another. He has tried both methods but with little effect.

The courtroom has become more like a political meeting than a tribunal of justice. The public seems to be about equally divided into two camps, each vociferously backing the contending lawyers, while the Judge and ushers make vain efforts to suppress the din.

Calls It Political Murder.

Pointing his finger at the prisoner, Alexandre Shulguin, onetime Foreign Minister of Ukrainia, today accused Petlura's slayer of "bad faith."

Then he shouted: "I swear a thousand times he committed his crime on orders from Moscow. He is not an avenger of his race."

Shulguin admitted that pogroms had occurred in Ukrainia, but declared that the bolshevists had started them in 1918 and they continued later because the bolshevists had fostered a state of anarchy and the Ukrainian authorities were unable to control the situation.

The name of Christian Rakovsky, recently recalled soviet Ambassador to Paris, was mentioned by Shulguin. He intimated that Rakovsky, whose recall had been demanded by the French Government, might have been in touch with Schwartzbard.

Schwartzbard's only flare of violence yesterday came when the details of a bloody pogrom were described. "They cut them down with naked blades," he shrieked. Then he subsided, in apparent anguish, rocking his shoulders back and forth and muttering in Hebrew.

Another similar moment came during testimony of the Ukrainian General, Shapoval, who served under Petlura. Shapoval declared that regular troops never had massacred Jews and that Petlura had opposed such tactics.

Spectators Give Witness the Lie.

"Petlura was not anti-Semetic," Shapoval said. "He was a humanitarian—a friend of the Jews."

"No, no, he lies!" came a chorus from the spectators. The witness threw back his close-cropped head and straightened his shoulders in disdain.

Shapoval told the court an anarchist named Volodine assisted Schwartzbard in the crime. "At 10 o'clock on the morning of the murder he came to me saying Petlura should be killed," said Shapoval. "Half an hour after the crime he came back to me obviously elated." Volodine stood guard while Schwatrtzbard fired the fatal shots, Shapoval said.

To counteract Shapoval's testimony, Torres triumphantly produced a photograph of Shapoval, who professes to be anti-radical, in company with Volodine. The photograph was certified to have been taken a month after Shapoval made his original deposition against Volodine.

Decline in Marriage Rate.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Figures issued by the Register-General show that only 14.3 persons per thousand were married in 1926, with the exception of 1917, the lowest recorded in the last 40 years. The birth rate is the lowest since civil registration was established. The number of children born was 694,563, the lowest total recorded since 860, when the population was only 19,200,000, about one-half of the population figure for last year.

Suggests the Smoke Problem Be Handed to the Health Commissioner.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE early fall is here, the same old smoke pall already hangs just as heavily, and the same old soot and polluted air for this winter seems assured.

It does really seem that the smoke problem should be placed in the hands of our splendid Health Commissioner and treated as a health nuisance as contagious and infectious diseases are treated.

Cross Kingshighway bridge and note the belching chimneys still fired with a vengeance, oblivious of all the educational talk on smoke. Yes, there are a few exceptions, viz., enormous Barnes Hospital, Washington University medical group and the Liggett-Myers seven-acre building needing much heat.

It seems every chimney of every house is vying with its neighbor in smoke outpouring. Freight and passenger engines flood the valley with clouds of dirty smoke, same as ever, and the heating and power plants at Union Station all summer belched their dirt and noxious odors increasingly. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia are being rapidly electrified, so far as railroads are concerned. Why not St. Louis?

Education will never correct the smoke evil as far as the average apartment house janitor is concerned. But a few arrests and court proceedings, under health law regulations, will.

At Least George Spared Us That.

The Extent of Our Civilization.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial last Friday spoke of the hardship imposed upon our Allies in paying what they owe us, as though it was more than their "capacity." Did you or anyone who talks of capacity ever figure out how Germany is to pay? Why, Germany is forced to pay more than all the countries have to pay us and that, of course, is just.

Justice should be accorded to all by the same yardstick and bushel measure, but lo! can the human race brag about being able to think on that line? We claim civilization but are only civilized in so far that we wear our shirts in the confines of our trousers. C. P.

How Reed Stands With Ex-Soldiers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DOES "A Wilson Democrat" realize that Senator Reed has helped the World War veteran get more justice, and is still doing so, than any other Democrat or Republican in office? I have been in position to hear the sentiments of hundreds of disabled men, some of them born Republican, and I find Senator James A. Reed stands 100 per cent. He must be doing some good.

The Course of Events in Nicaragua.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ONE cannot, of course, protest against the latest series of killings in Nicaragua without being accused of defaming our brave marines. Blah! The marines are no more responsible for what our asinine State Department is doing than Heflin is accountable for what Heflin thinks he thinks.

The least desirable professional soldier is one who thinks for himself, and the marines are excellent soldiers. Nor can one condemn a marine for the earnest endeavor to kill some one who is trying to kill him. The constant outbreaks in Nicaragua, however, prove that the United States is hated there. If that country really enjoys the peace she is supposedly enjoying, it would seem the part of wisdom to withdraw the symbols of our dollar diplomacy.

ALCIBIADES.

Solution: An Aroused Press.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Post-Dispatch has repeatedly called the attention of its readers to the wholesale political brigandage that has been going on for years under corrupt Republican administration. Staunch, courageous, loyal, patriotic souls like Reed, Walsh, Norris and others have been thundering in the Senate likewise in an effort to arouse the people against the sinister influence undermining the Republic.

The best these courageous statesmen get in return is a shower of editorial brickbats denouncing them as "destructionists." It is hardly conceivable if the Republic is to survive that the people will long remain unmoved.

The solution for the present ills in government rests with an aroused press to back up the good work of Reed, Norris, Walsh and other fighting leaders in the Senate. Certainly if the press will not do its duty we in America have seen the passing of one of the last bulwarks of the people's defense against autocracy in government. The counting room should take a back seat and give the editorial department a chance to do its stuff.

OBSERVER.

LEADING FEDERAL ISSUES.

When Senator James A. Reed made prominent in his platform the issues of corruption in politics and government, with the restoration of local self-government and the checking of expansion of Federal power, he touched the biggest issues before the American people except the tariff, which is linked with political corruption. Senator Reed represents these issues probably more fully than any other public man because he has been the foremost fighter along these lines. The exposure of political corruption in Illinois and Pennsylvania was due to his work more than to that of any other individual, and he has been for years a consistent opponent of the march of Federal empire.

We say the tariff is linked with political corruption because nearly all corruption in politics centers in privilege. When the Government favors a few at the expense of the many, the control of government is essential to the privileges enjoyed by the few. This was illustrated in Pennsylvania when it was admitted before the Senate investigating committee that the great slush fund raised by the manufacturers was contributed in order to elect a man Governor who would retain the law which relieves manufacturers from taxation in Pennsylvania, and to elect a Senator favorable to a high protective tariff.

There have been illustrations time and again in presidential and congressional campaigns of the sinister influence of protection on politics. From the time of Hanna's enormous slush fund to the present day the scandal of huge slush funds to carry elections has been repeated. The millions contributed to the Republican party's enormous campaign funds have been traced to the beneficiaries of the tariff and other interests favored by the Government. It is largely through these huge campaign funds that business seeking favors has controlled the Government. This corrupt grafting control has had many ramifications and has laid many heavy burdens on the plain people.

Former Justice Miller's condemnation of the protective tariff as "none the less robbery because it is done under forms of law" holds good. The present excessive Fordney-McCumber law is charged with plunder. It goes far beyond the needs of the people. Its excesses are protested not only by Democrats but by independent Republicans, who recognize the injustice of it, the graft that lies in it, and the discriminations against all other interests except the favored interests. Its ruinous operation with regard to the farmer is manifest.

The great task of the American people is to eliminate privilege and graft in government. The elimination of privilege will clean up politics. The elimination of official graft can be accomplished solely by the election of honest men to office, which will assure honest government.

Another great task is to restore local self-government, which is the foundation of the free constitutional government which was established by the fathers.. The restoration in full force of the Bill of Rights and the constitutional restrictions on Federal power are necessary to the maintenance of the republic and of those rights and liberties of the people which the Constitution guaranteed.

These tasks point the way to a genuine, sincere and vigorous opposition to the party in power. Senator Reed has performed a signal service in fighting along these lines and in directing public attention to these commanding issues. Although we differ from him on some other points, he has certainly outlined a strong platform in these respects for the Democratic party, no matter who may be its choice for the presidency. Honest government and the restoration of constitutional free government are issues worthy of any party.

THE COLORADO COAL STRIKE.

The present strike of Colorado coal miners belonging to the I. W. W. is an instance of what may result when employers attempt to drive unionism out of the basic industries of the West.

In the East the drive against unionism in the coal fields has been measurably successful. This is because the development of the nonunion fields of Kentucky and Tennessee has been so rapid as to shift the seat of competition from union to nonunion territory, which is now capable of supplying the normal demand of the nation for coal. As a result, the union worker of the East and Central West finds himself suffering from a lack of employment which his union is unable to remedy, and he has hence been drifting from the ranks of the United Mine Workers.

The drive against unionism in the West, however, has been by no means so victorious, because there the worker has another alternative than that of taking up a nonunion status. He can enter the I. W. W., which is always just around the corner, enticing him with offers of a chance to use methods of industrial warfare which conservative unionism frowns upon.

The miner, of course, is in error in allowing himself to be thus misled, and he will no doubt pay dearly for his mistake. The false philosophy and destructive tactics of the I. W. W. have no place in our industrial order. But it is well to remember that if some mine operators had used wiser policies with regard to unionism, the Western miner would never have erred.

CALCULATING UNCLE SAM'S REVENUE.

The Treasury Department has decided to adopt a new method for computing the Government's revenues. Mr. Mellon may be Mr. Hoover's only rival for the distinction of the ablest Cabinet officer, but the fact remains that the Mellon estimates of prospective revenue have invariably fallen far short of the actual returns.

In the nature of things the Secretary of the Treasury is bound to be conservative in anticipating the national income. But if the department's judgment is to influence revenue legislation as it should, that judgment must be reasonably dependable.

Congress has, on many occasions, refused to be impressed by the Treasury Department's warnings uttered in the form of elaborate accountings. It recklessly went ahead, for example, and passed the soldiers' bonus notwithstanding dire predictions from both the Treasury and executive departments. The fearful consequences did not ensue. Many other instances of similar character have occurred.

Nobody expects estimates of our national revenue to be exact. A certain degree of accuracy, however, may fairly be demanded for the guidance of Congress in tax reduction and appropriations and for the proper protection of the administration and the public. That accuracy has been wanting under Mr. Mellon. The new method, it is reported, will segregate estimates of receipts from current income and from capital assets. Its sponsors believe it will be superior to the old method, which at times has seemed to be guess work, not wholly untainted by special interest.

ALABAMA'S EX-KLANSMAN.

Alabama does not weary of well doing in her efforts to rid herself of the Ku Klux Klan menace. The admirable start made at Oneonto where floggers were brought to trial, convicted and sent to prison is continued in the latest barrage of 102 indictments returned by a special grand jury of Crenshaw County against members of the hooded organization for similar outrages.

Various influences have contributed to Alabama's awakening. Notable among those forces is the Attorney-General, Charles C. McCall. He has shown physical, moral and political courage and a zealous fidelity to his official obligation. And now he climaxes his personal regeneration by resigning his membership in the klan. His letter of resignation is a curious, baffling confession. Reiterating his adherence to "those fundamental principles which the klan has publicly pronounced," he withdraws from the organization because he is "convinced that the klan in Alabama is in the hands of lawless leadership."

What are these "fundamental principles" which appealed so persuasively to a man of Mr. McCall's intellectual caliber and officially proven character? How could he have been hoaxed by the empty public professions, thrown out as a sop to a stunned public opinion, when, by the very nature of its secrecy, this organization had set itself up as "a state within the state," arrogating unto itself an authority it could not derive from law and, from the first flush of its power, blasting its public pretensions by acts of violence and terrorism that struck at the very heart of American fundamentals?

How could a man of such legal training and presumed knowledge of the Constitution be seduced by the sheeted hypocrisy of the klan's alleged devotion to law enforcement? Why was he not morally revolted by the klan's grandiose rigmarole, preposterous trappings and essential civic heresy?

Amazement at Mr. McCall's affiliation with such an order is made more acute by excerpts in Thursday's Post-Dispatch from a magazine article of former Senator Pomerene of Ohio on the candidacy of Gov. Smith of New York. Here is a paragraph, brilliantly phrased, to be sure, but whose sentiments, it seems to us, might be accepted as the convictions of every American citizen, preacher, lawyer or layman:

> When I remember that Thomas Jefferson was the author of the statute giving religious liberty in Virginia and that through his great influence this same guaranty was put in the bill of rights, I do not see how any Democrat can raise the religious issue for or against any candidate. When I remember the guaranty of those privileges in the Constitution I do not understand how any American who believes in our history can raise it. And when I remember that Holy Writ bids us to do unto others as we would be done by I cannot understand how any Christian can raise it.

Bidding Godspeed to Alabama's Attorney-General in the moral and political reclamation of his State, we recommend to him and to all klansmen and ex-klansmen everywhere the words of Mr. Pomerene as the gospel of American citizenship.

A TARIFF DESERTER.

The list of Republicans who begin to question the impeccability of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law keeps on growing in a way which must cause the tariff barons no end of discomfiture.

The latest significant addition to the list is the conservative New York Herald Tribune. This stand-pat journal declares that the emergency which produced the unusual act is now over, that industry and commerce are once more upon a normal basis, and that the law drawn to meet past conditions should therefore be abandoned for a law which meets present ones.

The list of Republican deserters from the camp of the tariff barons has taken on considerable respectability from its two last additions. One was Silas Strawn, personal friend of President Coolidge, who condemned protection at the conference on international trade at Stockholm. Now comes the Herald Tribune, leading proponent of Republican orthodoxy. Next!

SENATOR FESS IS SCOLDED.

Senator Fess, one of the more stentorian Coolidge boosters, emerged from the White House yesterday to tell the expectant world that Mr. Coolidge had scolded him for talking up the third term. The character of the scolding, however, was indicated by the fact that Fess immediately reiterated his belief that the President would be drafted. Said he:

> I want it thoroughly understood so that all will know, that I am not talking for Mr. Coolidge when I say that I believe he will be drafted, but I must admit I was very much surprised by the emphatic scolding which he gave me today.

It is natural to surmise that Senator Fess was chided in the naughty-naughty fashion. If Mr. Coolidge were seriously opposed to the third-term hoopla being put out by his friends, he could put an end to it once and for all very easily. He has failed to enlarge upon the cryptic "I do not choose" in face of a country-wide debate as to what he meant, and one can only conclude that he is willing to permit doubt of his intention to pull up stakes after his second term is over.

THE FASCISTI AND GANGS.

Much as Americans will be pleased to hear that the Fascisti have succeeded in breaking up the notorious Mafia gang of outlaws which had long terrorized Sicily, there will be no disposition, we feel sure, to suggest the importation of this method of fighting our own gangsterism.

For this there is a very sound and healthful reason. The career of the Fascisti, as it has been recorded in the press by impartial observers, has not been characterized in the main by activities as commendable as the abolition of gangs. Most of the time, in fact, it has devoted itself to mobbing persons who refused to submit to all the decrees of Il Duce Mussolini, decrees which cover everything, from opinion to what ladies may wear.

The records of our own organizations of volunteer law enforcers are strikingly similar to that of the Fascisti. They prove that such activities, while they may incidentally inspire terror in certain classes of wrongdoers, usually lead to a negation of freedom and tolerance which causes the cure to be worse than the disease.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

REGULATING FOREIGN LOANS.

From the Baltimore Sun.

THE statement made by President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, in defense of the State Department's policy of requiring bankers to submit to it applications for foreign loans, should have no other effect than to harden the purpose of members of Congress to thresh this matter out on the floor. For both the President and the Secretary increase, rather than lessen, the misgivings about the present practice.

Mr. Coolidge, among a variety of explanations, holds that his constitutional duty to guide the foreign affairs of the nation entitles him to call upon bankers to submit proposed loans to the judgment of his State Department. All that needs to be said on that point is that if, without warrant of specific law, the President's general prerogatives give him supervision over the sale abroad of American money they likewise, as Senator Glass pointed out, give him supervision over the sale abroad of all other American commodities. And that is quite a monstrous assumption on the part of a President who declares that Government must be kept out of business. As to Secretary Kellogg's explanation, the difference between offering "no objection" to proposed foreign loans and giving approval to proposed foreign loans, it is merely tiresome.

And the argument from the State Department that legislation to regularize its assumption of authority would be unworkable is, in effect, as potent an argument for abolition of the whole system as any yet offered. If the great and far-reaching authority which the State Department exercises is not susceptible of definite and responsible organization, then it should assuredly be abolished. A veto on the whole of the vast loan business that the United States has and will continue to have, in all parts of the world, cannot be permanently wielded in the dim recesses of the State Department by no one knows whom, and to no one knows what ends. Already the air is full of rumors about mysterious control of this veto, and about secret widening of its purposes far beyond those announced in the beginning.

CANADIAN INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES.

From the New Republic.

ANALYSIS of the Canadian Industrial Disputes Act contained in the Russell Sage Foundation report on "Postponing Strikes," by Ben M. Selekman, brings forth valuable lessons for the United States. The act was originally passed to prevent strikes in public utilities and other essential industries such as coal. It provides that no strike or lockout can be called in such an industry until a report on the dispute has been made public by a board of conciliation and investigation, and carries penalties for violation. Similar proposals have often been made, and sometimes tried, in this country. This compulsory feature of the act has failed. In the 18 years in which the law has been in force, although 536 disputes have been handled under it, there were 425 strikes in which it was completely ignored. Penalties were seldom invoked, and were never called for by the Government. Compulsion of this kind is not wisely or easily applicable to labor. On the other hand, however, conciliation, without the club of compulsion, has gradually won the support of large sections of organized labor. Of the disputes handled under the act, 91 per cent were settled without resort to hostilities. Experience shows that the effort to prevent strikes, in order to be effective, must seek to stabilize industrial and employment conditions so as to remove the major causes of discontent, and must enlist the voluntary co-operation of labor rather than antagonize it by harsh methods.

VOLSTEADIAN ARROGANCE.

From the Milwaukee Sentinel.

IN enumerating the "blessings" of prohibition, the champions of Volsteadism never tire of telling the world what immeasurable benefits the dry law has conferred on the working men.

The worker is the special object of solicitude on the part of the drys. Any play for modification of the Volstead Act is met with dire predictions of the alleged harm that will be done to the worker.

Now the American worker, we take it, is an adult citizen competent to regulate his own affairs and habits and decide what is good for him. And the alleged "benefits" thrust upon the worker by the drys once more are repudiated by the American Federation of Labor.

The Federation recalls that it has protested against Volsteadism ever since it was enacted. "At its conventions in 1919, 1921 and 1923 it pointed out the deplorable conditions that would come and had come from the Volstead Act." In 1925, President Green addressed a similar communication to President Coolidge. In 1926 the protest was "submitted to the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate." And now the 1927 convention reaffirms "its former declaration in favor of a modification of the Volstead Act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of wholesome beer."

The drys, however, take the superior attitude that they know better than the workers what is good for American labor. The workers cannot be blamed for resenting the insult implied in the Volsteadian arrogance setting itself up as guardian over labor and treating grownup men and women as irresponsible children.

The protest of organized labor, of course, will make no impression on dry fanaticism, which is proof against paper protests unless they are backed by votes. But the voice of labor is likely to be heard in Congress, where the permanent dry injunction imposed by Volstead is rapidly losing its popularity, anyway.

A BOY POLICEMAN.

From the Salem News.

THE Police Department of Springfield, Mass., has appointed a young man as a policeman whose special duty will be to promote good relations between the boys of his home city and the police, and work to control evil tendencies. Here is an idea for many communities. The attitude of the boy world is frequently one of antagonism to the police. The kid element take pride in eluding the officers of the law They consider they are playing a game in which the points are scored by doing something that is against the law and getting away with it. Now it will be up to that young policeman to show the boys that they have much to gain by complying with the laws and regulations and that the boys who play the game like good citizens and obey the rules are going to make faster progress in their schools, their sports and their work. The same principle applies everywhere.

The seller of socks has moved from the doorway of the store on North Broadway. His place has been taken by a vender of "diamonds which cannot be told from the genuine stone"—but do not try one on the girl to whom you are engaged. The seller of socks was fervent in his appeals; besides, socks are a necessity. Yet the mere display of the jewelry attracts a bigger audience than the sales talk of the seller of socks, even though the jewels cost more than the socks. What a sad commentary on our sense of values. As the poet might have said:

We can live without cars; what is traffic but vexing,
We can live without diamonds; they're nothing but rocks,
Yet the difference in sales is unduly perplexing,
For civilized man cannot live without socks.

Perhaps it is this desire for luxuries that makes crime prevention leagues necessary. And crime might be eliminated if all the diamonds were paste and all the socks were eight pairs for a dollar. Again, as the poet might have exclaimed:

Of brick we'd build each wall;
And all the socks four bits a box,
We'd have no crime at all.

Steffanson Explores Truth

THE STANDARDIZATION OF ERROR. By Vilhjalmur Steffanson. (W. W. Norton & Co.)

ANYONE who is compelled by temperament to undertake at times the fascinating but generally fruitless task of fitting together the facts and professions of the human world, must often have been troubled by the following question:

What, exactly, is the survival value in our society of certain fine ethical principles that we teach our children as a matter of course?

The question, in order to have any immediate practical significance whatever, must be considered as concerning only the world that we know and not some hypothetical realm that is said to be populated wholly by those who have cherished and practiced the aforesaid principles.

The point of the question as here presented is not moral but pragmatic. Our world being exactly as it is and not otherwise, do certain excellent principles that we mouth glibly and teach to our youngsters actually "work" in practice unless considerably modified, on occasion, to suit the circumstances?

It is not intended that the question should be settled with either a yes or a no. It is far too complex in its implications to admit of any such cavalier treatment. It is offered merely as something to think about. Evidently Vilhjalmur Steffanson has been thinking about it a good deal, and as a result he has written a book in which he "thinks out loud" on the subject for our amusement, confusion and instruction.

"The most striking contradiction of our civilization," says Mr. Steffanson, admitting the platitudinous nature of the remark, "is the fundamental reverence for truth that we profess and the thoroughgoing disregard for it which we practice." Were Mr. Steffanson a mere phonographic moralist, it would be easy enough to guess what he would have to say about "the standardization of error" in our society. He would "view with alarm" and tell just what must be done to save us from galloping destruction. But note how he proceeds from his fundamental statement above quoted:

"According to certain philosophers, the world is rotten to the core with hypocrisy and falsehood. Without disagreeing on the condition, we want to suggest, nevertheless, that it is a bit naive of the philosophers to diagnose from the mere scarcity of truth that the world is sick with an incurable malady. Is it not just possible that they can not cure us for the basic reason that we are not ill?"

The sudden, shocking twist in the last sentence reveals the pragmatic philosopher in the suspected moralist and sets the tone of the tongue-in-cheek argument that follows. By way of justifying his discussion of the painful question as to whether deception is better than truth or truth than deception, Mr. Steffanson reviews a common practice in the rearing of children by setting forth the benevolent falsehoods we tell from our earliest fib about Santa Claus and the origin of babies to the teaching of history, geography, physiology, hygiene and all the notoriously shifty devices by which, in adult life, the crowd is bent by the will of the few. Stated briefly thus, the implied indictment is not impressive, but as Mr. Steffanson presents the matter, it is flabbergasting. Nor can anyone of us successfully dodge quite all of the slings and arrows of Mr. Steffanson's dry wit.

But just as we are about to succumb to an overwhelming sense of original sin, another side of the matter appears. Are we so constituted that it is possible for us to achieve happiness by sticking strictly, in every case, to the bare, bald facts that can be demonstrated beyond possible doubt?

Surely, without our professed ethical principles as a leaven, the world would be a pigsty; but, on the other hand, if we were to believe and teach only what we knew to be the unquestionable facts about everything, would not the world be poorer in happiness? The question is an effective teaser of thought; and the more one thinks about it sincerely, the less is he likely to lose faith in human nature.

CORONATION SUPPER OF PROPHET'S QUEEN

Dining Halls in Hotel Chase Crowded When She Arrives From Coliseum.

ENTHRONED under a silken canopy supported by gilded spears, as might the consort of an East Indian Maharaj on a feast day, Miss Nancy Semple (although officially she is Miss Anne Farrar Semple), newly crowned Queen of the court of the Veiled Prophet, cast aside her cares of state and presided with the savoir faire of a real queen at her coronation supper last night at Hotel Chase.

The royal banquet hall, the palm room of the hotel, was enlarged for the occasion and lounge and ballroom were transformed into additional dining rooms. Tables set for parties of four to 20 each bedecked with roses and vari-colored chrysanthemums, filled all available space.

By 11:30 o'clock every table was taken and 1430 loyal subjects had arrived from the scene of oriental splendor at the Coliseum, eager to greet their queen again. Shortly before 12 Miss Martha Love, retiring queen, with turquoise satin sheathing her slender figure, entered from the East entrance on the arm of an escort. At midnight the orchestra struck up the "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer, and the four special maids entered, followed by the queen. She was a gracious and smiling ruler, acknowledging the plaudits of the assemblage as she walked to the stairway leading to the Palm Room and was escorted to her table.

A throne-like chair draped in silver awaited her and a soft light radiated about her from a great glistening jeweled crown suspended above her head.

The long table was almost completely covered with low bowls of yellow and russet chrysanthemums and the sides were festooned with the Prophet's colors—red, purple and gold—caught up with flowers. Baskets of crysanthemums and palms were used in the background.

The crystal ballroom was reserved for dancing, and the guest of honor, with her immediate retinue danced with her subjects until the night was far spent.

The guests at the Queen's table were her mother, Mrs. Frederick Humphrey Semple, Mr. and Mrs. George Castleman Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham Wilson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Shields Jr., and Miss Martha Love, Miss Anne Vietor Davis, Miss Julia Wells, Miss Francis Wilson, Miss Janet Shields, Miss Dorothy Maxwell, and Hobart Cale, Carter Burns, Robert B. Smith, James Wilson, Rolla Wells Streett, Field Goltra, Dr. Frederick Jostes, William Goltra, Benoist Tompkins, Thomas C Hennings Jr., Sproule Love, George T. New Notes in Styles At the Prophet's Ball

By Marguerite Martyn.

THE VEILED PROPHET shattered a precedent this year. For the first time he placed the crown of Love and Beauty upon a bobbed head.

It may be the venerable monarch has entertained a prejudice against shorn locks and let fall a hint to that effect, or it may be that girls who have aspired to the honor of sharing his throne have felt the popular but less formal style of hair dress might be in violation of the vast dignity and formality of the coronation ceremony, but it is true there never has been another bobbed-haired Veiled Prophet Queen. One former queen spent an anxious season coaxing her bobbed hair to grow out in anticipation of the august event.

Anyway, the change has come about and if there remained any old-fashioned prejudices on the subject they were dispelled when Miss Anne Farrar Semple (known to all her friends as Nancy) the chosen one, came upon the scene last night with her curls clipped short and tumbling in close ringlets over her pretty head. For if her haircut was boyish and modern there were in her bearing and costume enough of grace and dignity and daintiness to make up for any discrepancy in these qualities that might be attributed to short hair.

The Queen's Gown.

Her gown: The skirt of it was a profusion of soft tulle ruffles sprinkled with diamonds which swept away from a slim silver bodice and front breadth of silver in billowing puffs extending quite to her heels, just escaping the floor at the back. The foundation of the gown of silver cloth was close fitting, long waisted and came down well below the knees at the front. The front of the skirt was embroidered in upright lily leaves of silver and crystal beads. The bodice was crossed diagonally by a wreath of raised rhinestone flowers and leaves. A long court train dividing at the top and attached to each shoulder with rhinestone flowers was of silver cloth embroidered its entire length with silver beads, sequins and marquise cut rhinestones which, reflecting the light differently, seemed to be colored stones. The train was lined with ruffles of tulle which also sparkled with diamonds. She carried the large bouquet of rarest orchids grown by Shaw's Garden annually for the queen.

What Maids of Honor Wore.

The first special maid of honor to the Queen, Miss Julia Wells, wore white satin embroidered all over with rhinestones and crystals. The bodice was cut in deep V's back and front, the front filled in with a net work of rhinestones, the back caught across the shoulders with a band of brilliants. The skirt was cut circular and the long waist was slightly bloused. From the front of the blouse hung a long pendant of crystal fringe rhinestones and mirror-glass discs which caught the light and reflected it dazzlingly. A two-paneled train of satin, also elaborately embroidered with crystals, started at the shoulders, was looped in under the blouse and from there fell away in lengths rather shorter than court trains have been for some seasons past.

Miss Frances Wilson, second maid of honor, wore white satin beaded with silver bugles and rhinestones, the skirt cut in circular godets, the bodice cut round in front and V at the back, slightly bloused at the back over a low waistline. Her train, beginning at the waistline, was beaded like the gown, its rather short length finished with three large scallops.

Miss Anne Davis, third maid of honor, wore Chantilly lace, the entire pattern of which was outlined in pearls and rhinestones. The long waisted bodice was finished with a heavy girdle of pearls and rhinestones. A full gathered skirt of the lace swept to a deep curve almost touching the floor at the back. The bodice cut in deep V's back and front, was held across the shoulders at the back with a band of pearls and finished at the front with a butterfly bow of rhinestone studded lace. A band of lace hung down from each shoulder at the back and three of these bands joined Brussels net dotted with rhinestones formed a filmy train hanging from the waist line.

Miss Janet Shields, who completed the Queen's immediate entourage, wore white chiffon embroidered in brilliants with V-cut dacolletage, an invented V at the front being caught with circles of rhinestones which extended around the neck. From each shoulder hung a chain of rhinestones, ending in a long tassel of brilliants and crystal. The skirt was composed of six embroidered panels joined by pointed godets, these forming an uneven skirt line. From each shoulder at the back flowed a shaped panel, the two caught below the waistline and separating into two short transparent and be-diamoned trains.

Over her own gown the queen and each of the maids during the processional wore the official court mantle, a long train from the shoulders, that of the queen being of white brocade edged with ermine, that of the maids velvet each in a different shade of rose matching the flowers they carried. Each train was elaborately embroidered with sparkling stones.

An innovation this year was the entrance of the retiring queen to a blare of trumpets and with a guard of honor just before the coronation of her successor, whereas in former years she has made her entrance less conspicuously with one mere escort.

Miss Martha Love thus concluded her reign looking more regal than as a debutante in a slim turquois satin gown made on directoire lines. It fitted her figure all the way down to a slash at the front and trailed to a short circular train behind. She sparkled with diamonds, from a broad diadem encircling her head to earrings, other jewelry and the diamante embroidery on her dress. She carried a big bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and dahlias.

The gowns of the queen and her special maids were designed to serve the cause of pageantry as well as to typify the mode, but they did not by any means tell the whole story which the fashion makers had to divulge at this big sartorial display. One need not search long among the assembled maids and matrons who grace the court of the Prophet to discover new fads in lines, in fabrics and garnitures. One outstanding impression was the number of velvet gowns this year as compared to the still popular metallic and sheer fabrics and beaded effects.

The new velvets are like nothing of the sort known before, being distinguished for their sheerness. Silky pile is woven upon a chiffon foundation so that they may be called wedding ring velvets, and are, indeed, capable of being drawn through a ring. Many gowns and wraps wre made of this filmy velvet in lovely pastel shades or black. Black velvet combined with black tulle and black velvet sparkling with rhinestones were popular interpretations o the vogue. There were many black gowns echoing the vogue which black is enjoying in Paris and black stockings came into their own again with these black gowns.

Fringes of silk and beads were another popular feature.

Straight Lines Disappearing.

The silhouette has changed almost from one extreme to another in a single revolution of the seasons. Very short straight lines of recent memory have given way largely to flounced skirts and uneven hemlines. Short in front the skirt may be, but it is almost certain to sweep down almost to the floor at the back or dip at the side or broken by draperies that sweep the floor. Some of the matrons wore clinging, draped models, but almost without exception the debutantes wore bouffant skirts, long waisted and with the fitted bodice.

Bodices are sleeveless though fitted at the armhole and bare backs almost to the waistline are a rule rather than an exception.

Diagonal lines are another new note. Fringes and ruffles and bands of trimming and often necklines at the front trend from southwest to northeast. Whole gowns are made of bands of contrasting colors or gradations of one color sewn together in diagonal lines.

Smoothly undulating rather than fluffy or tightly waved coiffures were the rule. Many heads within the last year have grown hair long enough to be coiled in a low smooth knot at the nape of the neck or ends that may be crossed over and tucked in over the ears. Many ears show where the hair is shingled.

Not so many hair ornaments, filets and the like were to be observed but earrings and bracelets are more numerous and elaborate than ever. So are strings of pearls. Jeweled heels, slipper buckles and vanity cases add their flash and glitter to the costume.

Social Items

THE first debut ball of the season which promises to be unique in its setting will be that of Miss Carol McDonald, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McDonald of 24 Washington terrace, which they will give at their home tonight.

The ballroom of the McDonald home will be transformed into a tropical scene and the 350 guests who have been bidden to the affair are anticipating one of the most attractive debutante parties of the season. A temporary building on the lawn has been constructed for the ball and this too will be decorated in keeping with the theme of a tropical night. At midnight a supper will be served in this exotic atmosphere and two orchestras will play for the dancing.

In the receiving line in addition to the hosts and their daughter, were Miss Cornelia Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Kelley, of New York, who is their guest, and Miss Florence Ludington, daughter of Elliott King Ludington. Miss McDonald will wear white tulle and crystal.

A charming social affair will take place this afternoon when Miss Dorothy Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs F. W. Green of 6203 Washington boulevard, will make her bow to society at a tea which her mother will give for her at their home. The living room will be decorated in pink roses and pink chrysanthemums arranged with smilax and palms. The mantle before which the receiving line will stand will be banked in smilax and pink roses. The dining room will be in yellow and the tea table will be adorned in shaded yellow chrysanthemums with yellow tapers in silver candelabra.

The debutante will wear a gown of pink chiffon beaded in crystal and rhinestones, made on straight lines with loose panels forming the skirt. She will carry butterfly roses. Mrs. Green will be gowned in white georgette embroidered in crystal and rhinestones and her flowers will be Columbia roses worn in a corsage.

The following debutantes will serve: Miss Nancy Semple, Miss Janet Gardner, Miss Mary Elizabeth Lumaghi, Miss Frances Blaney, Miss Janet Blanke, Miss Jane Bradley, Miss Margaret Ryan, Miss Kate Edmundstone Thompson, Miss Marie Rene Fusz, Miss Hope Skillman, Miss Grace Moulton, Miss Florence Jones, Miss Jean McLeod, Miss Virginia Hemenway and Miss Eugenia Armstrong.

Mrs. Green's friends who have been asked to assist, without hats, include Mrs. Eugene Fusz, Mrs. Albert G. Blanke, Mrs. George Merrill, Mrs. John Trigg Moss, Mrs. Julius C. Tupper and Mrs. Green's mother, Mrs. G. E. Rhodes.

The Junior League book shop the Open Door, in the Galeria Building, will have a sale from Oct. 24 to Oct. 29, of articles made by blind persons, shut-ins and those who make articles for the League's work shop. Mrs. Dan Jones is chairman for the sale; Mrs. Watts Smyth is chairman of the shut-ins and will be assisted by Mrs. Lynn Gratiot and Mrs Robert Barnwell, Mrs. Lindell Gordon Jr., is chairman of the work done by the blind.

ITALY REJECTS VATICAN'S BID FOR FREE STATE

Official Fascist Organ Turns Down Overtures for Sovereignty Made by Holy See Last Week.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ROME, Oct. 21.—The latest debate on the Roman question ended last night with Italy rejecting the Vatican's demands for temporal power as she has for more than 50 years.

The Foglio d'Ordini, official bulletin of the Fascist party, containing only authorized declarations reflecting the view of the leaders of Fascism, rejects the overtures made in two articles last week in the Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ. Although conciliatory in tone, the Fascist paper declared:

"The question of real political juridical independence of the Holy See is not necessarily connected with conditions of a political nature. It is evident that for Fascist Italy any restoration, even in the most reduced form, of the temporal power which ceased in 1870 is and should be outside all discussion."

Arduous But Not Impossible.

But a solution of the Roman question, according to the Foglio is for the Fascist regime arduous, but not impossible. Apparently referring to the Osservatore's remark that the Holy See can wait a long time for its rights, the Foglio says Fascism has the rest of the twentieth century to come to terms without renouncing any fundamental rights of the state.

There was never any question in history, it points out, which has not been solved either by force or patience or sagacity.

This statement, Fascist leaders believe, created disappointment among officials at the Vatican and others who had hoped for a solution on the basis of the Osservatore article. A solution is no nearer than it was 27 years ago, but the arguments in the two papers have partially cleared the atmosphere surrounding the question without removing any of the practical difficulties.

SON OF W. J. BRYAN OBTAINS DIVORCE

Testifies Wife, Who Didn't Contest Suit, Refused to Live With Him.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—William Jennings Bryan, son of the Commoner, was granted a divorce here yesterday from Helen Virginia Bryan. He charged desertion.

Bryan testified his wife had refused to live with him since Dec. 1, 1925. He said that at the time of his father's death, he asked her to accompany him to Florida for the funeral, but she declined.

A former governess of the three Bryan daughters testified that Mrs. Bryan "felt her musical education and career made it impossible for her to devote her time to household duties."

The custody of the three daughters was awarded to Bryan with the provision hat the eldest of the daughters may live with her mother if she so desires, and that the youngest shall live with the mother for three years after the close of the present school year.

Service car drivers were formally organized as a union under a charter issued by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Stablemen at a meeting yesterday at Unity Hall, Grand and Page boulevards.

The new union, designated as Local No. 408, has about 400 members, the majority of whom own and operate their own machines from the lower Washington avenue terminals. It was explained that the drivers, although not interested in changing working conditions, since they are proprietors rather than employes, sought affiliation with the American Federation of Labor to obtain unity of action in legislation and other matters pertaining to their business.

Four boys, ranging in age from 11 to 14, were stopped by police last night after they had pushed an automobile from the 5800 to the 5700 block of Theodosia avenue and attempted to start it. Five keys to automobiles were found in their possession.

The boys, who confessed they wanted to take the car "to go riding" were turned over to their parents. The automobile was the property of Edward B. Perry of 5816 Theodosia avenue.

SAYS DRY AGENT TIED HIM AND FIRED HOUSE

Henry Paul, a young man accused by Federal prohibition agents of acting as a moonshiners' Paul Revere, who warned owners of stills that raids were being made in St. Louis County Sept. 8, today, at his preliminary hearing on the charge of possessing liquor before United States Commissioner Atkins, asserted that Carol Byrd, one of the prohibition enforcement agents, tied him to a bed in an outhouse of one of the farms raided and set fire to the place.

"Well, we'll leave you there a while to heat up," Paul quoted Byrd as saying.

After he had been allowed to "heat up" in the house for some time, he was taken out and handcuffed to the headlights of the agents' automobile, Paul related. He said he was released when James Dillon, group chief, arrived and told Byrd, "We've got nothing on him."

Two days after the raids Paul, who resides on the Snyder Mill road, north of Creve Coeur Lake, swore out a warrant at Clayton charging Byrd with disturbing the peace. Paul was joined in the action by a young woman and two children who formerly lived on the farm of Mrs. Addie Grier, where Paul is caretaker.

In swearing out the warrant, Paul complained he had been arrested illegally and that the agents had used abusive language in presence of the other complainants. This action is still pending in St. Louis County.

Before Paul took the stand, Byrd and Agent Nebruegge, who was in the raiding force, testified they had seen Paul emerge from the outhouse on a farm one and one-half miles northwest of Creve Coeur Lake, where they found a still and mash. They added that previously they had seen him dash for the place on horseback and concluded he had gone there to warn persons operating a still. The place was deserted when they arrived. They charged Paul with possession of liquor in connection with the still.

After the hearing Dillon told a Post-Dispatch reporter it was true Paul had been handcuffed to the bed, but that the outhouse was set on fire accidentally when his men were dismantling the still. When the fire started, Dillon said, Paul was removed from the house and handcuffed to the automobile, as he related, to prevent his escape. Paul was not burned.

$629,000 SUIT OF ST. LOUIS FIRM SETTLED BY ATTORNEYS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21.—Two suits involving $629,000, being heard yesterday before Judge Merrell E. Otis of the Federal Court, were settled during the testimony and dismissed.

The suits were brought by the Paris Style Garment Co. of St. Louis against Less Brothers, Inc., New York, alleging that the concern induced four other New York firms to break a contract with the St. Louis company. I. A. Hessel, president of the Paris Style Garment Co., charged breach of contract by the four firms to liquidate his company in St. Louis and make him the head of a corporation to be formed by them.

The attorneys had made their opening tatements and Hessel was on the witness stand when Judge Otis adjourned court for 10 minutes. At the end of that time counsel reported an agreement had been reached. Attorneys refused to make public the amount of the settlement but it is understood to be less than $20,000.

MASTER AND UNION BARBERS CALL MEETING ON PRICES

Reports of Agreement on 35-Cent Shaves and 75-Cent Haircuts Denied by Officers.

Master and union barbers are to meet Monday night to discuss prices, wages and hours, F. X. Green, secretary of the Master Barbers' Association, announced today.

Green and Jerry L. Hanks, union president, said no definite scale had been decided upon. Both declared published reports that a price scale of 35-cent shaves and 75-cent haircuts had been approved by the employers were incorrect, although, they said, such an increase had been contemplated for two years.

"The Journeymen Barbers' Union is not opposed to an increase in prices," said Hanks, "and they will not oppose any advance in prices on the part of the barbershop proprietors."

BAKER HELD ON $20,000 BOND FOR DEATH OF MAN IN AUTO

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness, holding Zollie L. Hyde, a baker, of 2316 Hickory street, under $20,000 bond for the death of Louis Engle, 75, was returned today. Engle was fatally injured Sunday afternoon, when he fell from Hyde's machine, following a series of collisions with three other machines coming in an opposite direction. Policemen testified they smelled liquor on Hyde's breath, but that he was not intoxicated.

Engle, who lived at 5750 Etzel avenue, died Wednesday at City Hospital. Emmett T. Nickel, riding with Hyde in the front seat, testified Hyde was passing other machines at Kingshighway and Southwest avenue when, apparently, he lost control in the heavy traffic.

Burglars Open Safe and Steal $150.

A safe in the dry goods store of Jacob Spieldock at 5905 Southwest avenue was broken open last night and $150 stolen.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

BOY HIT BY AUTO DIES AT HOSPITAL

Driver of Machine Believed to Have Struck Robert Wright, 5, Fled.

Robert Wright, 5 years old, of 2317 Lee avenue, Granite City, was killed this morning when, presumably, he was run down by an automobile, the driver of which fled.

Robert died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, soon after having been found unconscious in the street in front of his home. He was internally injured. No one in the neighborhood had seen the boy struck.

When Robert went out to play at 9 o'clock, other children had gone to school, leaving the street comparatively deserted. Robert's mother, Mrs. Roscoe Wright, was in the rear of the house and knew nothing of the child's injury until a neighbor, who had found Robert, brought him in.

STEAMER CAPTAIN CLEARED IN SINKING OF SUBMARINE

Judge, Approving Verdict, Says Evidence Showed Lights on S-51 Were Defective.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Capt. John H. Diehl, who commanded the steamer City of Rome when it rammed and sank the submarine S-51 off Block Island in September, 1925, was acquitted by a jury in Federal Court yesterday of charges brought in connection with that disaster, in which 33 lives were lost. A verdict of not guilty was brought on the two counts—failure to stand by a reasonable length of time, and misconduct and negligence in operating a steamer.

When the verdict was reported, Judge Morton made the following statement from the bench:

"As Admiralty questions are involved in this case, I think it proper to say that I entirely concur in the verdict of the jury, and that the evidence proved pretty conclusively that the cause of the accident was defective lights on the submarine."

Capt. Diehl had taken the stand in his own defense and said that the submarine was running with improper lights at the time of the collision, and was in charge of three inexperienced officers.

For many years I lived constantly in the dread of constipation, exerting the greatest care over my selection of food and worrying considerably about my condition. Some time ago Pluto was recommended to me, and I found it the best corrective I had ever used. Upon the advice of my doctor, I now take a small quantity of Pluto each morning in hot water and find it an unequalled preventative. I am looking and feeling 100% better since following this treatment.

Pluto Water Winning Its Great Fight Against Constipation

Constipation was strongly entrenched when Pluto Water entered the lists to combat its disease-breeding grip on the American people. It has made and is making marvelous headway in eradicating this wide-spread malady. It is simply Nature using one of her most effective weapons—mineralized WATER—in cleansing the intestinal tract of germ-breeding, poisonous accumulations.

Pluto Water contains, in marvelously exact proportions, just the kind of minerals to flush away constipation. The action is pleasant, prompt and complete. It loosens and cleans, while it soothes and heals. Unlike drastic drugs—sugar-coated cathartics—it is non-habit forming. In from 30 minutes to two hours after drinking relief comes, and a small quantity daily will keep you regular and in fine trim.

Let Pluto Water banish constipation permanently and its sinister brood of ills. Bottled at the Springs, French Lick, Ind. Sold at all drug counters and at fountains.

ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York and formerly Health Commissioner of the City of New York

Dr. Copeland says: "Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many of the cathartic compounds on the market. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. They are soothing and healing to the tissues. Sugar coated pills are pleasant to take which may add to their danger. That is the reason they are coated with sugar. They are no less drastic and habit-forming because they appeal to the taste. Mineral waters pass through the system, doing nothing else but to flush and cleanse the intestinal tract."

Business slumped
Then LONG DISTANCE sold
WORTH OF BUTTER

THE butter market was in that condition dreaded in every business. Orders had fallen off. Hardly a buyer could be found who would purchase outright; the most that was offered was to take the product on consignment. Then it was that a St. Louis wholesale house turned to the telephone. Their answer to the slump was a well-planned campaign of long distance calls, and this one telephone drive sold outright $67,000 worth of butter!

"WE WISH to thank your representative for his aggressiveness," writes this St. Louis concern. "He talked selling by Long Distance until we were convinced."

There is no more effective answer to slumping business than a campaign of long distance calls. They enable you to concentrate weeks of travel into days of intensive, effective work. Your campaign can be transfered at will, and almost instantly, from one trade territory to any other in any part of the country. Long distance solicitations restore confidence and make good-will. They find what you want to buy. They make sales. They do all the most persuasive human voice can do, and add to it country wide range. Do you know from experience how your sales may be speeded up, how slumps may be prevented in advance by telephone? Have you organized your telephone resources? Have you important men been trained in the essentials of telephone selling and buying? If business should slow down, do you know how long it would take to establish telephone contact with your important customers in every state in the Union?

Our Commercial Department will gladly make a free study of the productive telephone opportunities in your business. In the meantime, the telephone on your desk will connect you promptly with anyone wanted in 70,000 towns and cities. What distant concern or executive would it be to your profit to talk to, now?

Mayor Thompson Fears Reading Public Is Getting British Propaganda.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. — Mayor Thompson in a letter to U. J. Hermann, has expressed the fear that the Chicago reading public is getting liberal doses of pro-British propaganda. Hermann was instructed to scrutinize every history book in the Chicago Public Library and its branches for traces of the "British taint."

"My pre-election pledge is a sacred thing to me," wrote the Mayor. "I will not rest until I've purged this entire city of the poison that's being injected into the heart of American youth to eulogize England at the expense of their own country."

Hermann, a trustee of the library, arranged to confer today with Carl B. Roden, librarian and president of the American Library Association. Roden succeeded George H. Locke of Toronto, Can., who was assailed by former Judge Frederick Bausman of Washington in testimony at the trial of Superintendent of Schools McAndrew Wednesday.

To Promote Sentiment.

The Western judge declared that Locke was in charge of the British propaganda bureau during the World War and that soon after he became head of the library association an edict was issued suggesting librarians recommend the reading of six particular books. Most of them, the witness said, were designed to promote pro-British sentiment.

Commenting on this testimony, Mayor Thompson declared: "I want to know whether our public library association has been used, like the schools, to undermine American institutions.

"If there are any such books they will be thrown where they belong...in the furnace. In their place will be substituted books by authors whose loyalty is to America and not to the ruling class of England."

Ex-Congressman to Testify.

Former Congressman John J. Gorman, who investigated the school history texts and who plans to take the witness chair again at the resumption of Superintendent McAndrew's trial Monday, said: "I expect to show that a deliberate plot exists to inoculate the minds of American teachers with pro-British ideas. The purpose is for these teachers in turn to inoculate the minds of their pupils."

The former Congressman also charged that the University of Chicago is a hot-bed of pro-British propaganda and said he would bring several teachers to the stand to corroborate his statements.

Arthur Meier Schlesinger's text, "New Viewpoints of American History," which is used at the University of Chicago, drew sharp fire from Gorman.

Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the history department of the University declared he would not accept "with seriousness charges that Prof. Schlesinger's history had anything to do with the merits of the McAndrew trial." He termed the trial a "huge joke."

EAST ST. LOUIS SEEKS $10,000 FUND FOR SMOKE ABATEMENT

Money Will Be Used for Employment of Three Assistants to Supervisor.

A campaign to raise $10,000 to provide the smoke supervisor of the East St. Louis district with three aids was launched yesterday following a conference between Mayor Frank Doyle of East St. Louis and William G. Christy, executive secretary of the Smoke Abatement League.

Under the three-year program of the league, for which $250,000 was subscribed by St. Louis citizens, East St. Louis is to have one smoke supervisor.

Civic groups in East St. Louis, however, felt the work would be too heavy for one man and recommended the appointment of three aids, who will act as instructors in correct furnace firing, and proposed the raising of the $10,000 fund.

$1000 Fine for Driver Cut to $100.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Stanley Granch, 21 years old, paid a fine of $100 yesterday for striking a child when driving an automobile while intoxicated. Information was given out by Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen's bailiff that Granch had been fined $1000 and costs and, when unable to pay it, had been sent to the Bridwell to work it out at a rate which would have required two years and nine months, had not the Judge reduced the sentence.

The heaviest losers are Wolf-Berger Dry Goods Co., Mrs. Frazier Acison's beauty shop and the Odd Fellows.

O. L. Dickerson Charged With Manslaughter; Police Say He Was Intoxicated.

Oscar L. Dickerson, of 1522 Hebert street, was indicted for manslaughter yesterday as the result of the deaths of two men killed last Saturday, when Dickerson's machine collided with the automobile in which they were riding.

The men killed were Frank Swift, of 2210 North Fourteenth street, and Edward Young, of 5623 Hamilton avenue. They were riding in the rumble seat of a rented coupe driven by Paul Betlajewski, of 5303 Helen avenue, St. Louis county, when Dickerson's car crashed into the rented machine at Fourteenth and North Market streets. Both men were hurled from the rumble seat to the brick paving of Fourteenth street.

Dickerson was said to be intoxicated at the time. Policemen said he tried to flee from the scene. A patrolman was forced to draw his revolver to halt Dickerson's flight, it was charged. Swift and Young died at City Hospital soon afterward.

THE MOST VALUABLE COOK IS A KITCHEN DIPLOMAT

Even if children do clamor for frosted cakes and other over-sugared sweets, let us exercise diplomacy and ingenuity to lead them to modify their demands.

A skillful cook may easily prepare such fascinating oatmeal cookies, ginger snaps, gingerbread and sponge cakes as to make the children perfectly satisfied. Gingerbread dough may be cut into time-honored shapes. A gingerbread man will be relished so heartily as to make the children forget all about icing on their cakes.

Similar care may make it possible to offer every-day oatmeal cookies in the form of macaroons. Plain sponge cake may appear with a top layer of ice cream and almost any mother may contrive for herself a number of devices which will make it easy to lead the children away from a double allowance of sugar.

Again the kitchen diplomat may face the problem of providing the man of the house with food that will be so attractive as to make him satisfied to cut his meat allowance to proper proportions. She will broil his four ounces of steak so perfectly as to make him forget all about the eight ounces or twelve or sixteen that his appetite craves. With this perfectly broiled bit of steak will go crisp vegetables that will do such a good job in regulating this man's system as to still further aid his wife in reorganizing his diet along saner lines.

Cucumber Salad.

Wash and pare a long green cucumber. Score entire length several times with a fork. Then cut in thin slices crosswise taking care not to separate slices. Sprinkle with French dressing. Place on heart lettuce and sprinkle with paprika.

EASILY MADE POT-BISCUITS ADAPTABLE FOR CAMP MEAL

Instead of Being Baked, They Are Boiled in a Pot, Hence Their Name.

Have you ever tried making pot-biscuits on a hiking or camping tour? If pot-biscuits are unknown then now is the time to learn how to make them, for nothing are nicer for lunch when in the woods on a cool fall day.

Sift together two cups flour, two heaping teaspoons baking powder and half teaspoon salt. Work into this a half-teaspoon of lard or butter. Beat one egg and add enough milk, or water, to the beaten egg to make a half or two-thirds cup of liquid. Add this to the sifted flour a little at a time to make a stiff batter, or rather soft dough. The half or two-thirds cup of liquid may be more than you need, so don't add it all at one time, as the batter must be stiff; in fact, more like biscuit dough. Have mulligan or stew boiling briskly, and with large spoon drop in the batter, a spoonful at a time. Cover, and keep boiling briskly for twelve or fifteen minutes. It is then ready to serve.

If you have no fresh milk, canned milk will do. Water may be used in place of milk, but milk is best. Do not leave out the egg, as that keeps the biscuit from becoming soggy. If made right they will be as light and fluffy as any oven-baked biscuits you ever tasted. If you want to use this recipe on a hunting or camping trip, mix the dry ingredients—flour, baking powder, and salt—and place in friction top can. Add milk, egg and lard at the time of cooking.

Pear Salad.

Peel, core and slice ripe pears. Mix with one cream cheese, broken in bits, chopped almonds and maraschino cherries. Dress with mayonnaise thinned with lemon juice. Serve on lettuce. Canned pears, drained and dried, may be used.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Several Delicious Meat Dishes Are Included in the List.

A change in the manner of cooking meat is oftentimes welcomed with joy by the family. While these recipes for meat dishes are not new, the directions, if followed, will be found to make savory main dishes.

Veal Pie.

Take one and one-fourth pounds of veal off the shoulder or chuck and which has been boiled and cut it into one-half inch cubes, one-half cup cooked carrots and one cup cooked potatoes, a few slices of onion and pepper and salt to taste. Make sauce by browning onion in some hot fat, thicken with flour, add seasoning and a little hot stock or water. Mix the meat, vegetables and hot sauce. Add a few sprigs of parsley and pour the mixture into a buttered baking dish. Cover with a crust made of one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoon shortening, one-fourth teaspoon salt, four tablespoons water and two tablespoons evaporated milk. Sift the dry ingredients together, work in shortening and add the water and milk mixed. Roll crust one-eighth inch thick and cover meat. Bake 15 or 20 minutes until crust is nicely cooked and browned.

Irish Stew.

Take three pound neck of lamb or mutton, three onions, four potatoes, one small carrot, salt and pepper to taste. Cut meat in pieces, put in sauce pan with one tablespoon butter and brown over low fire. Add enough water to cover and the onions sliced fine. Cover and simmer slowly for about one and one-half hour. The last half hour add the potatoes sliced, carrots sliced and the seasoning.

Pork Chops With Dressing.

Take six pork chops, one onion finely chopped, one and one-half cups bread crumbs, two tablespoons pork fat or lard, one-fourth cup hot water, one beaten egg and pepper and salt to taste.

Mix bread crumbs, pork fat, seasonings, water and egg. Spread on pork chops. Put chops in a pan close together; add a little water to cover bottom of pan and bake in a moderately hot oven one hour, basting occasionally.

Liver and Bacon.

Cut one pound of liver into one-quarter inch slices. Cover with boiling water, let stand five minutes to draw out the blood. Drain, remove veins and skin. Wipe the liver, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook in hot bacon fat until brown on both sides, turning occasionally. Make a gravy, using two tablespoons of the bacon fat and four tablespoons of flour. Brown the two in a pan, add two cups of boiling water gradually and stir until smooth, season with salt and pepper. Put the browned slices of liver into the gravy and cook slowly 15 minutes. Put liver and gravy on a hot dish, arrange the crisp bacon around the edge and serve. Liver may be larded and baked in one large piece.

Baked Stuffed Fish.

Sprinkle the fish with salt and fill with stuffing; sew or skewer the edges together. Cut gashes on each side across fish and put strips of salt pork into them. Grease baking sheet and place fish on it, dredge with flour, salt and pepper, and put into baking pan with pieces of pork fat. Baste every 10 minutes. Cook 15 minutes to the pound and 15 minutes over.

TART WINTER APPLES MAKE FINE JELLY

This Fruit Is the Easiest of All Fruits to Jell and Preserve.

Apple jelly is one of the best of jellies. And apple marmalade is just about as delicious. Here are directions for making both delicacies.

For apple jelly take two pounds of apples, water and three cups sugar.

Wash and cut apples in quarters. Barely cover with water, put on cover and let cook, undisturbed, until soft throughout; mash and drain through a coarse sieve. Then allow juice to drip through a double thickness of cheesecloth or a jelly bag. Measure juice and let boil ten minutes and to each quart add three cups sugar. Bring to boiling-point and boil until syrup jells, about five minutes.

Skim and turn into hot sterilized glasses.

Apple Mint Jelly.

This is delicious to serve with cold meats. To make it take two pounds of tart apples, three cups sugar, one large bunch of mint and some green vegetable coloring, water, put on cover and let cook, undisturbed until soft throughout.

Wash apples and cut in quarters. Barely cover with boiling. Turn into a bag to drain. Measure one quart of juice and add crushed leaves and stalks of mint. Let cook slowly twenty minutes, then strain into a clean saucepan. Heat to boiling point; add sugar and let boil until syrup jellies. Tint with green vegetable coloring. Turn into sterilized jelly glasses and when cool cover with melted parafin.

Ginger Apples.

Take two pounds of apples, juice and rind of one lemon, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three cups water, one and one-half pounds brown sugar and two tablespoons ginger root.

Wash, peel and core apples, and cut in quarters. Cut ginger root fine. Add water to sugar and make syrup by boiling for ten minutes. Add all ingredients to syrup and cook very slowly for four hours; add water as it is needed. Turn into sterilized jars and seal at once.

New England Marmalade.

Take five pounds of tart apples, five pounds of sugar, two oranges, two lemons and two and one-half cups water.

Heat sugar and water together until sugar is dissolved. Wash and slice oranges and apples very thin and add lemon juice. Add to syrup and boil very slowly until thick, about one hour and fifteen minutes. Turn into sterilized glasses or jars and when cold cover with melted paraffin.

Escalloped Oysters.

For two quarts oysters use one and one-half dozen butter crackers pounded fine and generous half pound good butter. Butter deep pudding dish and sprinkle in layer of cracker crumbs, then layer of oysters, pepper, very little salt if oysters are fresh, and bits butter, then another layer crumbs and oysters and butter and so on until dish is filled. Cover dish with crumbs and remainder of butter. Use plenty of crumbs or oysters will be watery and thin. Bake in good oven three-quarters of an hour.

BREAKFAST NEEDS SATISFIED

Try chilled sliced pineapple as a breakfast fruit. It is delicious and contains minerals you need. Crushed pineapple on cereal will add a lot to the taste of it; fried sliced pineapple may be used with bacon, and here is a recipe for a delicious sauce to complement the waffle or pancake course.

Crushed pineapple sauce for waffles: Cream one-third cupful butter. Add one cupful of confectioner's sugar gradually while beating constantly. Then add one-fourth cupful of boiling water, and when light and well mixed, add one and one-half cupfuls drained, crushed pineapple.

Fried Onion Rounds.

Peel onions and cut into pieces so as to keep the rings whole. Separate rings and dip into milk, then into flour to which has been added salt and pepper, and fry in deep skillet in hot grease. Use to garnish steaks.

Dressed-Up Hash.

Watercress makes an ideal border for hash. If the hash is browned and served in a mound the platter may be bordered with cold sliced tomatoes. Or tiny onions may be cooked until very tender and served with the hash. Cold chopped spinach dressed with egg and lemon juice is another good combination, and a clever housewife will be able to think of many others. The nutrition idea back of this idea is based on the fact that while potato in the hash serves to balance the dish so far as special alkaline foods are concerned, body-regulating mineral salts must also be supplied from vegetables if the dish is to be entirely balanced.

SUGGESTIONS for the Breakfast Menu

Vary your fruit dishes by combining flavors—

1. Sliced oranges, arranged wheel fashion on the plate with a few juicy prunes in the center.
2. A few slices of orange or lemon added to a pan of prunes just before removing from the fire.
3. Apple sauce cooked with raisins or chopped dates and a little orange juice.
4. Baked apples stuffed with figs and brown sugar.
5. Dried peaches or apricots with dates or crushed pineapple added in the last period of cooking.

"Every Boy and Girl Needs a Hot Cereal Breakfast"

Are you in the habit of serving the same kind of cereal day in and day out?

Try some of these for a change:

1. Poached eggs in a nest of cooked cereal with crisp bacon.
2. Cereals baked with milk have a new richness.
3. Cereal cooked with raisins, dates or other dried fruit.
4. Cereals served with butter and a fruit syrup in place of cream.
5. Crisp bran sprinkled over the top before serving.

Supply yourself with different cereals; this will not run up your grocery bill, yet will help you in making your breakfast more interesting.

CHINESE COOKERY THAT YOU WILL LIKE

Oriental Dishes Which Are Enjoyed by Everyone Should Be Served Often.

The American housewife has long desired the secret of these delightful Oriental dishes which hitherto could be had only in exclusive Chinese and Japanese restaurants.

Thanks to up-to-the-minute Oriental importers, who have put sauces and other products from China or Japan on the market, American housewives can now serve chow mein, chop suey, chop mien noodles and chicken chow mein for Sunday night's supper with the full assurance that the same rare flavor that the dishes have at the Chinese restaurant will be found in her preparations.

With a supply of rice, chop suey sauce, dry noodles, bean sprouts, bamboo shoots and water chestnuts, the housewife, who desires to serve Chinese dishes for Sunday night's supper, will open the eyes of her guests as well as tickle their palates.

Of course, she will want to prepare these Oriental dishes according to these secret recipes of a famous Oriental chef.

Chicken Noodle Soup.

Cut chicken, cover with water, add seasonings and bring to boil. Allow to simmer until tender. Remove chicken, place in a roaster—on the rack.

To the chicken stock add a cup of rice, celery greens, chicken heart and gizzard chopped fine; allow to boil quickly. While boiling drop in some dry noodles and two tablespoonfuls chop suey sauce. Remove from fire and serve at once in hot plates with salted crackers.

Rice, Chinese Style.

Use a deep pan (no double boiler). Wash rice thoroughly, changing water until it is clear. Be sure rice is covered with an inch and a half of water. Boil 15 minutes, then keep over a low fire for 15 minutes longer to insure thorough cooking. Do not remove cover until ready to serve.

Chop Suey.

Take one can assorted chop suey vegetables, one pound meat (veal, pork or chicken), one tablespoon chop suey sauce, celery and onions if desired.

Cut meat into small pieces. Heat a little lard in skillet until smoking hot. Fry meat until nearly done; add the assorted vegetables except the bean sprouts, slicing the water chestnuts and shredding the bamboo shoots. Add a little water or meat stock, a pinch of pepper, a tablespoonful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of chop suey sauce or more to taste.

Cook about 15 minutes. Thicken with molasses, a little flour or cornstarch, and add to above ingredients. Add the bean sprouts and serve with hot rice

Bean Sprout Salad.

Mince one can of shrimps or crab meat. Add one can of bean sprouts. Mix thoroughly and serve with mayonnaise or Thousand Island dressing.

Browned Chicken, Chinese Style.

Over the chicken placed on roaster rack, dot small pieces of butter and cover. Allow to heat through thoroughly and just before serving place uncovered in the broiler—to brown.

Prepare gravy by adding flour and water mixture and one tablespoonful of molasses to butter drippings.

Bring to boil and cook until flour lumps have been entirely worked out, and serve at once in hot plates with salted crackers.

Celery and Pepper Salad.

Take two and one-half cups celery one green pepper chopped fine. Dice celery and add green pepper. Marinate vegetables in French dressing for 10 minutes and serve on beds of cress with California dressing. Mayonnaise dressing may be used in place of California dressing.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR MAKING PICKLES

End of Season Should See the Pantry Full of Tasty Pickles.

For the past few weeks housewives have been interested in putting up fruits and vegetables for winter use. Recipes for canning, preserving, jellying and pickling have been given in these columns. In fact, these activities have been covered most thoroughly, with the result that only a comparative few belated recipes for putting up apples and pears and for making pickles and relishes remain to be published. Several recipes of this type follow.

Red Cabbage Pickle.

Cut one head of red cabbage fine as for slaw. Chop up two large onions and add a little salt, a pinch of ginger, ground spice, either ground or whole, and sugar to taste. Mix all ingredients together and add to cabbage. Pour over sufficient vinegar to cover mixture well. Set aside for a few days to ripen. This pickle may be used after a day or two or it may be put away in jars. It will keep crisp for several weeks in jars.

Corn Relish.

One dozen ears of corn, six pounds of cabbage, four green peppers, four red peppers, two tablespoons ground mustard, four tablespoons salt, one teaspoon celery seed and one quart white vinegar.

Boil corn ten minutes; then cut from cob. Cut cabbage fine, and mince peppers. Mix dry ingredients with vegetables; add vinegar and let stand fifteen minutes. Heat slowly to boiling point; this takes about one-half hour. After boiling point is reached, continue cooking for five minutes. Turn into hot sterilized jars and seal at once.

Pickled Cabbage.

Take two nice white cabbages and cut them in quarters; put them in salted water for twenty-four hours, then boil them tender in weak vinegar with a little tumeric in it, put the min jars, pour cold vinegar over them, tie up and set away.

Cocoanut Cookies.

Two cups flour; two teaspoons cream baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup butter or other shortening, one-fourth cup peanut butter, one cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one cup cocoanut.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream the shortening and peanut butter together, add sugar gradually, then the well-beaten egg. Add flour mixture and milk alternately to this mixture.

Add flavoring and cocoanut, reserving three tablespoons of cocoanut to sprinkle over the top of cookies before baking. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a well-oiled baking sheet. Bake twelve minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit).

PUT UP SPICED FRUITS

The Right Combination of Spices Makes the Dish More Delicious.

This winter when you have rows of jars filled with delectable fruit, floating in spicy syrup, to fall back upon for every sort of serving, you will wonder how you ever got along without a generous supply of spiced fruits. Be sure to put up plenty. Plums, pears, peaches—every so many fruits can be spiced The method is easy, the ingredients are not costly, and the delicious results more than repay. The following recipes are particularly delightful and different.

Spiced Plums.

For spiced plums take four quarts of plums, three quarts of sugar, about one pint vinegar, one tablespoon ground cinnamon, one tablespoon ground cloves and one tablespoon ground allspice.

Make a syrup of the vinegar, sugar and spices, boiling it for five minutes. Make a small incision in each plum and pour over the fruit the above boiling syrup. Let this stand for three days. Then take out the plums. Boil the syrup until it becomes very thick, put the plums back in and heat again until it is boiling hot. Then seal in hot jars.

Spiced Small Pears.

Take seven pounds of pears, four pounds sugar, one pint vinegar, one pint water, one tablespoon ground cloves, one tablespoon ground cinnamon and one tablespoon ground allspice.

Pare, but allow stem to remain. Make syrup of vinegar, water, sugar, spices and boil for five or six minutes. Put in the fruit and cook until clear. You may stick a few whole cloves in each pear. Put up in clean hot jars, seal.

Chicken and Vegetables.

Cut a raw, four-pound chicken into cubes; put it into boiling water with half a pound of lean ham, diced, and one large onion, sliced. Cover and let it simmer for an hour and a half; add one quart of peeled and sliced tomatoes, one pint of string beans, one chopped green pepper, four medium sized potatoes, diced, and salt to taste; cover and simmer another hour. Add one pint of cooked grated corn, a fourth of a pound of butter, cut into small squares and rolled in flour, a quarter of a pound of grated cheese and the beaten yolk of an egg. Stir five minutes and serve.

Dietetic Authority Tells What Food Elements are Necessary for Health

Prof. A. P. Sy, of the University of Buffalo, is well-known as a lecturer on the dietetic values of foods. In a recent report he gives as follows the various food-elements necessary to building sound health and vigorous bodies:

"Vitamins:—A diet devoid of vitamins would sustain neither growth nor life, and one of the requirements of an adequate diet is that vitamins be included. We know that milk and malt products contain vitamins.

"Enzyms:—Enzyms are also very important, for they bring about a great many necessary and important chemical changes in the human body. They are of especial importance in digestion and absorption.

"Proteins:—Our food must contain proteins so that the body may build new parts or tissues and repair old ones. The proteins having the greatest physiological value are milk proteins.

"Sugar:—Sugars constitute an important part of our diet. The sugar of which we don't get enough and which is very important is lactose or milk sugar. It aids greatly in the development of brain and nerve tissue.

"Minerals:—The diet must contain mineral matters or it will not sustain life. Modern methods frequently remove most of these essentials.

"Attractiveness:—A food must look good and taste good in order to have its maximum effect upon nutrition."

BUTTER EATERS BIG PEOPLE BUTTERLESS RACE IS SMALL

Statistics show that around 2,- eaten yearly by the 115,000,000 people in the United States. This means that every person in America eats 17.05 pounds a year.

Scientists who have been experimenting to find the greatest food values point to the fact that the people generally are the healthiest and sturdiest in those countries where butterfat makes up a large per cent of the diet. The Chinese people, they point out, are a diminutive race, and not particularly healthy. In that country, investigation shows that butter is not used by the Chinese except by a small but growing number of the wealthier classes. The Japanese, another diminutive race, have a low butter consumption record.

The reasons advanced by such scientists as Prof. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University and Prof. Otto F. Hunziker, director of the Blue Valley Research Laboratories of Chicago, why the sturdiest and healthiest races are big butter eaters are that this food of the cow contains two of the elements most essential to health and vigor. These are vitamins A and D, which tests have proven build up muscle and flesh and contain an abundant supply of minerals, like lime and phosphorus, which make strong bones and sound teeth.

BANANAS CLIMBING THE LADDER OF FAME

This Popular Fruit May Be Used as Vegetable or Dessert.

Another reason for the growing popularity of the banana is that it can be used as a vegetable. It is a wonderful substitute for potatoes or rice and can be cooked in numberless ways. For instance, meat loaf with bananas is an unusual and novel dish that can stand the test of the most critical taste.

The ingredients necessary for the preparation of it are as follows: A pound of stewed beef and one pound of cheap cut of veal that has been put through the food chopper. Add one-half cup of soft stale bread crumbs, a cup of milk, two teaspoons of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper and an egg slightly beaten. Shape into a loaf and put in center of platter which can go into the oven. Cover the top with thin slices of fat salt pork and put in hot oven or at 400 degrees Fahrenheit.

Roast one hour, basting eve ten minutes, using a cup of h water, and after that use liquid the pan. Remove tops from s tomatoes, sprinkle with salt a pepper and finely cut chives onion juice. Place around meat loaf, alternating with bana as peeled, scraped and cut halves lengthwise and crossw Bake until tomatoes are tend basting with liquid in pan. Se at once, garnished with parsley.

Banana Pudding.

Scald one quart milk, add w beaten yolks three eggs, one t spoon cornstarch and granulat sugar to taste, boil long enough make nice thick cream. Th slice three bananas, arrange in pudding dish, then pour bo liquid over them. Make a mering of whites of eggs, cover top a bake all in moderate oven until nice brown. Serve when q cool.

HUMBLE VEGETABLES FORGING AHEAD

Onions Are Being Made Up Into All Kinds of Dishes.

One of the surprising achievements of modern cookery is the manner in which onions have been elevated from a mere seasoning to the main ingredient of a dish. The development of the Bermuda onion is probably responsible for onion cookery. The appended directions for making some delicious vegetable dishes out of onions will show the availability of the vegetable for winter use.

Onion Scuffle.

Cook onions in boiling salted water until soft, drain and force through a sieve; there should be one and one-fourth cups onion pulp. Melt four tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour, and pour on gradually one-third cup water in which onions have been cooked and one-third cup cream; then add onion pulp and bring to the boil point. Season with salt and pepper. Beat yolks of three eggs until thick and lemon-colored and add to first mixture. Cut and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a baking dish and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven, 350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Serve at once.

Monterey Glazed Onions.

Peel as many small silver skin onions as desired; prick through center with pointed knife or small skewer and again at right angles to the first prick. This will help prevent centers from popping out. Cook about 15 minutes, uncovered, in boiling water; drain well, sprinkle with salt. Add three tablespoons sugar to three tablespoons melted butter in frying pan; when bubbling, add onions; cook until glazed (about twenty minutes). Use a low flame and shake pan frequently and turn onions. They burn easily.

Baked Onions.

Put onions to cook in boiling salted water; boil five minutes, drain, cover again with boiling salted water and cook uncovered until tender. Drain, place on buttered pan, brush with melted butter; bake in hot oven until browned.

Buttered Onions.

Select onions of the same size. Drop into boiling water and boil gently for 40 minutes with the cover off. Season with salt, pepper and butter.

Jellied Veal Loaf.

This popular dish is made of four pounds of veal knuckle, one small onion, four hard-cooked eggs and one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Wipe meat, put in kettle with onion and cover with boiling water. Cook gently until meat is tender. Remove from liquid, cut from bone, cool and put meat through food chopper. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish bottom of mould, cover with slices of egg and sprinkle with parsley. Put layer of meat on top. Reduce liquor to one cup and pour over meat. Press and chill. Turn onto dish, garnish with parsley and serve.

Bread Should Be a Part Of Every Meal Every Day

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator From New York.

During the World War we were forced to eat coarse breads. Many of us learned to like them so well we have never gone back to white bread.

Modern bread is very white. But it is said that the whitest bread in the world is consumed in Brazil and Paraguay. In some other countries the bread is colored by adding harmless dyes.

In Lapland, Russia and Northern Scandinavia, there is baked a kind of bread which is almost black. It is called "palt brod" and is made of rye.

In all extremely cold countries there seems to be a marked preference for dark bread.

In Europe corn has never become popular. But in Mexico and Central America, as well as in North America, corn flour is used in great quantities.

In Ireland the humble potato is given a prominent place, even in the preparation of the bread. The dried potato is ground into a flour and used for making an excellent bread. In a similar way the edible chestnut is used in Italy.

In Iceland, instead of using a vegetable flour, dried fish are pounded and pulverized to a fine meal. This powder is used in making a product corresponding to bread.

In many countries, particularly in times of famine, the bark and roots of trees are pounded or ground into a meal or flour. Even the seeds of weeds are used in Russia for making bread.

You see, it is indeed true that bread is the staff of life. In our country the cereal grains, wheat, corn, rye, oats and barley, are employed in making flour. This flour is used in making bread and similar products.

I regret exceedingly that bread is not eaten as it used to be. There is an actual decline in the consumption of flour, and this I regard as a pity.

The body needs carbohydrates. It must have minerals. It requires the particular protein found in wheat. If this nation must change its well established eating habits, I pray it may not begin with wheat flour. We have been served long and well by this faithful servant of the human family.

Good bread, served with good butter, should be made a part of every meal. Health and vigor are promoted by the eating of wholesome bread. Let us economize otherwise than by omitting this chief article of food.

(Copyright, 1927.)

When Cake Burns.

If you have been unfortunate enough to burn the edges of the layer cake when you wanted it to be particularly nice, try this way of removing the evidence: Carefully scrape off the burned part. Then brush over the top and sides with the beaten white of an egg. Dust with powdered sugar and place the cake in the oven long enough for the egg to dry out, about four minutes. It can be iced over this, if desired, and be as smooth as though no accident had occurred.

STOP THAT COUGH 5c

A Famous Prescription that Became The Nation's Throat-Ease

MENTH-O-LICS, those dainty gum wafers, which act like a charm on all minor troubles of throat and nasal passages, are the discovery of a famous physician noted for his skill in treating throat ailments. They are, in fact, his favorite prescription put up in tasty candy form.

In Menth-o-lics there is menthol and licorice—a dozen ingredients that cool and soothe the throat. And not a trace of a harmful or habit-forming drug.

CENTRAL AND ROOSEVELT FAVORITES IN OPENING DOUBLEHEADER

HIGH SCHOOLS TO PLAY GAMES AT STADIUM

New Concrete Amphitheater to Be Used for First Time Tomorrow — Cleveland May Surprise.

By Gerald Holland.

North St. Louis elevens will be matched with South Side teams in the opening double-header of the Public High School Football League tomorrow, and if preseason records mean anything, the honors should be equally divided. The games will be played at the new High School Stadium on Kingshighway, north of St. Louis avenue. This will mark the first use of the new concrete structure and playing field, official dedication of which will not be held until next spring.

Roosevelt, with three easy victories and no defeats, is favored to win from the inexperienced Beaumont team which has indicated that it will be no match for the Rough Riders. Beaumont has lost two games and won one.

Central, despite the fact that practice was interrupted by the tornado, is rated better than Cleveland, champions of last season. Central gained an early victory over Kirkwood 20 to 0, while Cleveland lost to the same team 12 to 0. Cleveland beat McBride and played C. B. C. to a scoreless tie. Walker's team in its only other game beat Webster 14-0. Roosevelt, the title favorite, was only able to win by a 12-0 score from the same team.

Six Lettermen on Central.

Central's lineup Saturday will include six lettermen from last season's team. Heinrichs, a lineman last year, has been shifted to fullback to join two other veteran backfield men in Al Bohringer and Burrus Schumacher halfback. Chapman, a new man, will be used at quarterback. With Heinrichs, who weighs a little over 180 pounds, to hit the center of the line hard, and two fast men in Bohringer and Schumacher, Central appears to be ver well situated in the matter of backfield material.

Walker has two experienced tackles in Weigle and Kostich who played last season. Schott, a guard last year, has been shifted to center. The ends Duibor and Herskowitz, have seen service on the second team. Higgins, Huber, Marquard and Slensker are trying for the guard positions.

Only One Way to Go.

Beaumont is almost certain to do better this season for the very good reason that it would be hard to do worse. As practice opened last year, the prospects for Coach Lewis' team were very much better than at present but injuries that followed the team all season completely wrecked every combination attempted. In 1926, Beaumont finished last, and went through its schedule of league games without making a single first down.

Most of the material this year is inexperienced, but to date no serious injuries have been suffered. The team has played three practice games, losing to St. Louis U. High, 6 to 0, in the last few minutes of play, and bowing to Kirkwood, 17—0. Normandy was held to a scoreless tie.

Mulvihill, last year's quarterback, will be available this season. Nichols, Walton and Meissler, fairly light and fast, are the other more promising backs. Snell, who has been used on the line, may be shifted to the backfield.

Coach Lewis has two seasoned linemen in Rost and Barnhouse, tackles. Rost, who weighs 195, was an "all-star" selection last season. Anastasoff, at left guard this year, played in some games in 1926. Other positions must be filled by new men. Brown, McGherio, and possibly Snell, will take care of the other guard. Ens, Holtman, Menges, Beeman, and Weidner, are trying for the ends, and any pair may start. Lewis lost a valuable lineman when Chandler, 200-pound guard, left school.

Factors in "Comeback" of Central High Football Eleven

WRAY'S COLUMN

Sure Out of Luck

PHIL BALL is airplaning about the country on business while the Hard Luck jinx continues to shoot up his baseball hopes into the likeness of a swiss cheese.

Phil, in fact, has become the Joe Grim of baseball. Gluttons for punishment look like yellow steaks, beside St. Louis' noted shock absorber.

Old Man Jinx socked Phil another on the button yesterday, when the news trickled out that Pitcher Walter Stewart was in a dangerous condition, due to a ruptured appendix. Coming atop of all that has happened to Ball's baseball dreams, it appears that Philip de Catesby could be excused if he went down for a 20 count—and stayed down.

Should Stewart fail to come through his trouble, Ball would start the Hot Stove League race without one solitary talking point on his pitching staff—and very few any place about his team.

* * *

The Hard Luck King.

THE Browns' present situation is the climax of just one danged thing after another; the sequence of bad breaks has been going on for about 13 or 14 years.

It dates back to the time when Ball, with many ice and oil millions, decided that St. Louis had gone long enough without a pennant winner. So he set out to get one. He started by buying a Federal League team for St. Louis. He pretty nearly made good on the pennant with this, but the old Jinx was waiting just around the corner. A Kansas City flinger named Packard pitched the St. Louis Federals out of first place in the final game of the season, and Ball's team was nosed out .00625, or some equally wretched fraction.

Sock No. 1 for Phil Ball. But he bounced up, after a little sponging off, and ran into another crash on the lower maxillary. This time it was a red ink picture which showed that his Federal League defeat had cost him $183,000.

* * *

Can't Stop Him.

DOWN for the count, you say? You don't know your Philip de Catesby.

Up before the count was over Ball rushed in then and bought the Browns. It cost him about a half million dollars to get control of Robert Lee Hedges' share of the club.

That was in 1915, and Phil began to talk pennant again. But Fielder Jones couldn't pilot 'em right. Next the poor old team was steered into a World's War and in 1917 and 1918, when the world's interest was overseas instead of at ball parks, the Good Ship Browns fairly wallowed through seas of red ink. The $183,000 baseball owned Phil had grown to a deficit of close to $300,000.

* * *

Another Bubble Punctured.

HOWEVER the skies began to clear after the war and the team made progress. It couldn't help making progress, with a Sisler on its roster and other good players to support him.

In 1921 the club progressed and in 1922, oh boy! It looked like the pennant year. It was a rip-snorting season. Parks were packed and the Browns were riding high. The flag was in sight and the entire Southwest had the park bought up for world's series games almost before the race wheeled into the September stretch run.

But again the doughty Philip crashed. Lee Fohl yanked Dixie Davis from a two-hit game with the Yanks and the Browns lost. They lost the game, the series, their morale and the pennant. They lost it by one hair's breadth to the Yankees.

That was great grief for Ball, who had it all framed up to sell out his interests in the club and retire from the field having made good his promise to give St. Louis a pennant.

Defeated, he couldn't retire. He swallowed hard and gamely promulgated "next year" as the great occasion.

* * *

"Saddest of These"—

BUT it wasn't. The club slipped, but made some money. Next year it slipped some more and it has skidded on down the pennant ladder, rung by rung, bleeding red ink at every bump.

Only last year Ball still had hopes. Sisler was to lead his club through to victory. He still had faith in his veteran crew and he added another $600,000 worth of improvements to the park so that he could handle the world's series mob.

The park handled the world's series mob all right—for the Cardinals. That was the hardest luck of all. For while the rival Cards were winning the flag, the Browns failed dismally, losing about $75,000. This year they have lost more than that.

And so we come to the dazed and punch drunk Philip de Catesby still shaking his head and refusing to be counted out and still hoping against hope that he will be able some day to make good his promise to give St. Louis a pennant winner.

But the Gaston trade and the Stewart illness indicate that old man Jinx is still stacking the cards against Philip.

REISELT WINS ANOTHER BLOCK IN CUE MATCH

Defeats Copulos, 60 to 43, Giving Him a Total of 240 to 194—One More Block to Be Played.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, world's three-cushion billiard champion, increased his lead over Gus Copulos, Detroit, in defense of his title in the fourth block of 60 points played this afternoon in the 300-point match.

With only one block remaining to be played, Copulos, in order to win, must score 106 points while the champion is gathering 60.

Cochran Drops Block.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 21.—Welker Cochran, 18.2 balkline billiard champion, last night dropped the first block he has lost to Erich Hagenlacher in their 2400-point eight-block 18.1 exhibition match, 300 to 280, but maintained his aggregate lead by a score of 1780 to 1042. He won the afternoon block, 300 to 84, clicking off 112 for the day's high run. The match closes today with an afternoon and evening block.

De Oro Gains on Hoppe.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Alfredo de Oro, the Cuban three-cushion expert, gained slightly on Willie Hoppe in two blocks of their exhibition match yesterday. The afternoon play saw De Oro count 48 times to Hoppe's 60 in 76 innings. De Oro had a high run of six, while Hoppe's best effort was a string of five. In the evening block Hoppe scored 60 to De Oro's 38. Hoppe's high run being a six and De Oro's seven. The grand total for eight blocks now is Hoppe 480, De Oro, 309. Hoppe is playing on a handicap basis, agreeing to score blocks of 60 against De Oro's 42.

Armour Leads In Golf Match

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Tommy Armour, American and Canadian open champion, led a field of 60 golfers today in the first round of the Middle Atlantic Open Golf championship at the Indian Springs Golf Club. He shot a 72, one over par.

Armour was two strokes better than George J. Voigt, and Robert T. Barnett, Washington amateurs and James Thompson, professional of the Hermitage Club, of Richmond, Va. Leo Diegel of Fenimore, N. Y., defending champion took 79.

Stewart Now Has "Fighting Chance"

Browns' Pitcher Suffering From Peritonitis, Somewhat Improved, Physicians Report.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Following a restful night, physicians at St. Thomas Hospital here were willing to accord Walter Stewart, member of the St. Louis Browns' pitching staff, a fighting chance for life. He is suffering from peritonitis, following the bursting of his appendix at his home at Pleasant Hill, Tenn., and a race of 150 miles across country to this city for an operation.

His condition yesterday was very low, but this morning he was much stronger and his wife and child were allowed to see him. His splendid physical condition is aiding him greatly in throwing off the infection. Following the improvement noted over night, he now has a chance to recover.

TIGERS TO USE CLARK AGAINST THE MUSTANGS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 21.—The University of Missouri football team, arriving here today, held a brief practice session at the Texas State Fair grounds, preparatory to their encounter there tomorrow afternoon with the powerful Southern Methodist University Mustangs.

The 30 Tiger players were accompanied by C. L. Brewer, director of athletics; Gwinn Henry, head coach; Jack Crangle and Harry Lansing, assistant coaches; Bill Fallon, trainer, and number of students. The Missouri band will arrive tomorrow, just before the game.

Coach Henry was undetermined on his arrival here today regarding his starting lineup, but the most likely starting arrangement appeared to be that which opened the fray against Washington University at St. Louis last Saturday, with the exception of Waldorf at center instead of Morgan, and Clark and Howze replacing Byars and Swofford in the backfield. Byars may start, instead of Howze, however.

Clark's Return Big Help.

The return of Clark is a decided strengthening factor for the Tigers, but they still lack Glen Smith, regular center, and Charles Tuttle, plunging backfield star, who were left at home nursing injuries of three weeks' standing. Capt. George Flamank will be in uniform, but it is doubtful whether he will be called upon to play, and it is certain that he will not be in the starting lineup.

The Missouri squad comes to Dallas fresh from three victories over Missouri Valley Conference opponents, having turned back the Kansas Aggies, Nebraska and Washington on successive Saturdays despite the injury jinx which has pursued them throughout the season.

The S. M. U. game is the first of three intersectional contests which will occupy the Tigers before they return to competition in their own conference, where, undefeated, they hold undisputed lead in the race for the 1927 championship. Next week they play Northwestern University, Western Conference champion in 1926, and on the following week they are hosts to the University of West Virginia at Columbia.

Injuries have taken their toll in the S. M. U. lineup, as well as among the Tigers, for the Mustangs will be without the services of George Watters, giant tackle, who was just recently declared eligible, but whose physicians have ruled that he cannot play football again this year. Watters has not been in a game for the Mustangs, but he was rated as one of their most helpful characters to place against the heavy Missouri forward wall.

Despite the fact that weight is plentiful on both squads, Missouri will have a slight advantage in the line and the Mustangs a slight advantage in the backfield—both teams will use the forward pass freely if their performances at Columbia a year ago may be counted as a forecast of the 1927 game. In that contest they both threw the ball about with abandon.

Coach Morrison is a great exponent of the aerial game, and Coach Henry ranks it likewise, except that Henry, when his team gets in the lead, becomes much more conservative.

The Mustangs have had a season only slightly less impressive than the Tigers, having suffered only one defeat, a surprise upset at the hands of Centenary two weeks ago, and last year's tie score forecasts a very even battle, with both teams made up largely of veterans. A comparison of strength last year, however, was made difficult by the fact that the game was played on a very heavy field.

SPORT SALAD

Say It With Flowers.

The National Boxing Association has told Mickey Walker that if he is going to have anything to say about the middleweight championship he'll have to say it with Flowers within the next 60 days.

WHEN Flowers starts to punching noses,
His pathway isn't strewn with roses;
Jack Kearns and Walker were so tricky
He lost his crown to Misto Mickey.

A bunch of weeds they call the loco
Instead of roses decked his coco.
With not one rose did they present him
But poison ivy's what they sent him!

And when with other scrappers pitted
They ask that Flowers be omitted;
But now the well known fight commission
Says Flowers must have recognition.

While no bouquets has been their motto
The Deacon now may knock them blotto,
By staging a belated rally—
Boy, bring some lilies of the valley!

Quite So.

According to a well-defined rumor, Benny Yanger won't be the third man in the ring when Walker and Flowers have their return engagement.

No doubt Benny aimed to do the right thing but as a marksman he will never lead the schutzenfest.

See where the lawyers are probing the Fall case again. They'll strike oil if they keep on.

Why Not?

I'VE never made a hole in one,
I never hope to make one;
But when I find it can't be done—
Well—maybe I will fake one.

Gene Tunney may be a "bicycle rider" but he makes more money in 30 minutes than the six-day bike riders make in a lifetime.

And it might be said in passing that Gene never made the grade by back-peddling.

Fine feathers don't make fine birds but relieved of his managerial duties Dave Bancroft ought to prosper in a Robin uniform.

Though life may contain more skittles than beer for Col. Ruppert he can thank his lucky stars (not baseball stars) that he doesn't have to sign up Babe Ruth to a new contract for next year. It will be a couple more years till Babe can cash in on those 60 homers.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 21.—The ninth meeting of University of Kansas and Washington University at football has taken on unusual interest because the showing of Washington to date bespeaks the strongest team the Bears have had in some years and indicates that the game scheduled for Memorial Stadium here Saturday will be a real battle.

Washington has yet to win a football game from Kansas so will be intent upon avenging past defeats.

The showing of the Kansas team against the Kansas Aggies, even in defeat, was one of a team with considerable power, although their game was spotty. In Don Cooper, new backfield man, Kansas uncovered a real "triple threat" player, for his passing, punting and ball carrying disconcerted the Kansas Aggies considerably.

The Kansas line also showed new power last week, with the guards—Kullman, Myers and Logan—and the tackles—Olson and Schofflin—showing ability to break through the Aggie defense to spill runners behind the line of scrimmage. The Kansas ends, Hauser and Shenk, although the latter was crippled, also played high class football last week and with the improvement to be expected as the season progresses, the team will be tougher this week against Washington.

Herbert Hadley, son of the president of Washington University, may see action at the Kansas center berth. He has been reserve center all season and will be given a chance for action if at all possible.

Two Stars Are Lost to Washington.

The loss of two stars from their starting lineup will detract from the Washington U. team play, it was feared last night on Francis Field as Coach Bob Higgins sent his men through a final practice session. The squad departed at 10 o'clock last night for Kansas City where they will remain at the Kansas City Athletic Club until shortly before game time, when they will be rushed to the stadium by bus.

Harnett and Kurz, Bear regulars, will not start, Higgins indicated, but will grace the bench with very slight possibilities of being used against the Jayhawks. Harnett, the Bears' most consistent ground-gainer, and punting reliance, has a badly injured leg which has prevented any hard work this week. Rawdon, playing his first year of varsity ball, will take his place at halfback.

Kurz, who was injured and removed from the Missouri game last Saturday early in the first quarter, was not believed to be seriously handicapped until the shoulder injury was discovered in the middle of the week. Glazer, husky sophomore end, who needs experience badly but who has possibilities that surpass even Kurz', will replace him at the right wing position.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Oct. 21.—A band of 23 Kohawk warriors, representing Coe College, accompanied by Coach Eby, manager Baxter and Dr. Pence, departed last night en route to St. Louis to meet the Billikens tomorrow afternoon.

A rather light workout was held yesterday following the lengthy scrimmage of Wednesday, when the freshmen, impersonating the St. Louis aggregation, succeeded in holding the varsity on even terms. Particular attention was being placed on a defense against passing, which Eby expects the enemy to attempt if their line thrusts gain them little.

The Kohawk line, which has been the feature of the team's play this season, is in excellent condition with the exception of Zerrien, star tackle, whose injury from the Notre Dame game will keep him on the bench for another week.

The backfield combination is without the services of the heady little quarterback, Johnstone, who is still on crutches as a result of the Carroll game. His place will probably be taken by Langlas, a sophomore, while Wolfe, a veteran at the post, will be held in reserve

Capt. Smith also is not sure of starting, and in case he does not his place will probaly be taken by Dick Barrows, a twin brother of Ed, who functions regularly at the other half. Due to a similarity in colors of jerseys, the Kohawks will be required to discard their usual crimson jerseys and play in navy blue.

Kentucky Ace, unable to keep up first three furlongs, came with a rush thereafter and, under good handling, wore down Waffles in final sixteenth. Waffles followed early pace under restraint, disposed of Bruno after entering stretch and, holding on gamely, was not good enough. Mop Up began slowly and outrun to stretch finished fastest of all. Bruno saved much ground making pace and tired badly at end. Longridge raced well to the last furlong. Governor Pratt was far out in the track all the way. Rejoice, away slowly, showed speed. Keith was as good as left.

$2 mutuels paid: Kentucky Ace, win $16.60, place $8.40, show $5.20; Waffles, place $5.40, show $3.40; Mop Up, show $4.80.

Retort, in going in his best form, followed the pacemaker to the outside and disposed of Piccadilly, then darted to inside sharply when clear the last sixteenth. Frank McMahon, never far back, swerved in repeatedly in stretch, finished fast when straightened. Piccadilly, taken into lead at once, bore out entering stretch and, tiring badly, barely outstayed Color Sergeant. Latter, away very slowly, met interference, and closed a big gap the last quarter.

PRINCE THEO WINS OPENER AT CREVE COEUR

CREVE COEUR RACE TRACK, Oct. 21.—Prince Theo, a disappointmen in previous races here, finally found a spot to his liking and won a purse in the first race, a dash of about five-eighths of a mile, this afternoon. Prince Theo sprinted into a good lead early, held it gamely all the way, and, saving ground on the stretch turn, in place of bolting to the outside, as has been his habit, he was kept in advance of his opposition to the finish. Jockey W. Charles had the mount. The winner was backed into overwhelming favoritism, paying only $2.60 for $2.

The presence of Charlie Eames in the saddle on Brocklesby in the second race was the signal for all the bettors to back that racer, and Eames responded with a sparkling exhibition of horsemanship to bring Brocklesby home the winner by a scant half length at the end of the five furlong dash. Brocklesby paid $4.40 for a $2 ticket.

Carrie Belle Wins Third.

Carrie Belle showed a return to winning form and took the third race, a substitute for the original third race, which was declared off in the morning. Jockey C. Corbett rode the winner, and she wound up favorite in the race, according to the return odds, paying but $5.80. Nervous Abie finished second, while Neptune took third place.

Players who backed Carrie Belle were somewhat at sea when, after having witnessed odds of nine to one posted at a late moment against the filly, and expecting to cash in heavily after her victory, were disappointed when they found that Carrie Belle's odds were in reality only $1.90 to $1 when the prices were posted after the race.

TRY THIS ON YOUR GRIDIRON

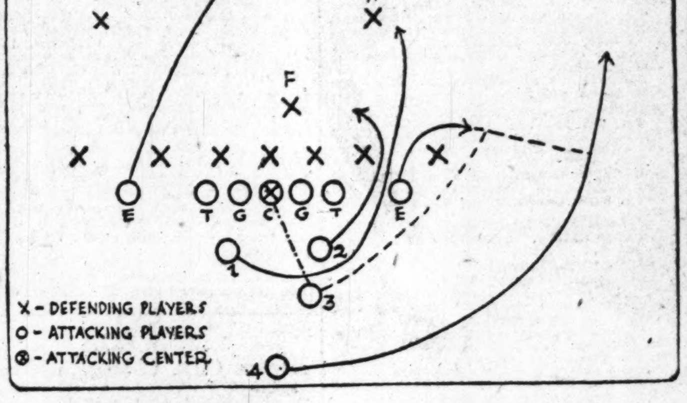
By ROBERT HIGGINS,
Head Football Coach Washington University

No. 3—Forward pass, lateral pass from kick formation.



No. 3 back receives snapback from center.

No. 3 back forward passes to right end.

No. 4 runs wide to the right as soon as the center passes the ball and receives lateral pass from right end at the approximate position indicated.

No. 2 back takes fullback.

All linemen hold until forward pass has been made to the end and then try to get any man who can get in the play.

Coach Higgins utilizes both the forward and lateral pass in the final play of his series.

At this point No. 3 back forward passes to him. No. 3 back must be at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage when he makes the forward pass.

Meanwhile No. 4 back has swung wide to the right side of the play and at this point finds himself in a position to receive a lateral pass from right end.

No. 1 back takes the defending left half and No. 1 must take care of the fullback.

A lateral pass differs from a forward pass in that it cannot be thrown in the direction of the opponents' goal, but may be thrown in any other direction.

It may be thrown from any position on the field and in this it also differs from the forward pass, which must be thrown by a player standing at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

Karrick Quits As Coe Trainer

Resignation of Turfman Will Take Effect at End of Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. — Billy Karrick and W. R. Coe have come to the parting of ways. The former tendered his resignation as trainer of the Coe thoroughbreds to take effect at the end of this year.

Friction between the owner and trainer began two years ago after Pompeii had won the Futurity. Following that victory Karrick sent the colt after the Kentucky Derby against the wishes of Coe. As it happened Pompeii failed in the Kentucky fixture.

The resignation was tendered in a letter Coe received Sunday. It is understood he asked the trainer to reconsider his action and Karrick agreed to remain until the end of this year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The stock market today opened irregular, turned upward under the leadership of the oils and high-grade rails and industrials, and then broke wide open in the last few minutes of trading. Net declines in scores of active issues ranged from 2 to 5 points, with a few larger losses. Houston Oil was the outstanding weak spot, collapsing from an early high of 167¼ to 151, off 14 points net, following publication of nine months earnings report. Total sales ran above 2¾ million shares, and it was 22 minutes after the market closed before the final quotation appeared.

Although many observers were inclined to regard the reaction as a further correction of the market's weakened technical position, the selling of stocks undoubtedly was stimulated by bearish trade news. The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report irregularities in general business.

Easy call money rates, apparently the chief bullish influence during the recent advance, have been disregarded almost entirely this week. Call loans were quoted all day at 3½ per cent with "outside funds" available as low as 3¼. The increase of nearly $40,000,000 in brokers' loans reported by the Federal Reserve Bank yesterday also was disquieting, although it was generally conceded to be due to the temporary financing of the new bond offerings, which have exceeded $200,000,000 again this week.

Lows of Year.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors touched new low levels on the current down swing at 139⅛ and 127, as against the year's highs of 160½ and 141, respectively. Steel had sold as high as 142⅛ earlier in the session and Motors at 131⅞. American Telephone dropped from 176¾ to 172, Commonwealth Power from 69 to 65½, Dupont from 327½ to 320, General Railway Signal from 131 to 122, International Harvester from 209⅞ to 204, Timken Roller Bearing from 117 to 111 and Warren Bros. from 135 to 128½.

Some sharp breaks also took place in the railroad shares. Lehigh Valley was the hardest hit, dropping from 100½ to 92. Chesapeake & Ohio fell from 208 to 201⅛ and Erie common from 67⅛ to 63.

* * *

Exchange Irregular.

Time money rates were unchanged at 4 to 4⅜ per cent but prime commercial paper was again available at 3¾.

Foreign Exchange rates were irregular, with some rather sharp advances in Norwegian, Spanish and Polish currencies. Sterling cables held fairly firm around the year's high of $4.87 7-32.

Rails also moved upward after an early period of sluggishness with Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson and Chesapeake & Ohio in the forefront of the advance.

Prices opened irregularly lower at the opening of the market. Initial declines, as a rule, were limited to fractions. Selling pressure against the rails was directed principally against the non-dividend-paying issues, Western Maryland opening 1⅝ points lower and Erie common falling back a point.

The unexpectedly large increase of nearly $40,000,000 in brokers' loans, bringing the total to a new high record for all time, in the face of a sharp reaction in prices earlier in the week, brought a flood of overnight selling orders into the market. Prices of active issues quickly sold down 1 to 5 points.

Increase in Loans.

The increase in loans, however, was attributed to the financing necessary to take care of more than $200,000,000 in bond offerings during the past week. Railroad shares were freely sold on the traffic returns shown for the first week of October and on the September earnings statements now being published. Good buying support came into the market soon after the opening and many of the early losses were recovered. Rock Island common sold down 2¼ points, but made up its loss within half an hour. More than a dozen other rails, including Reading, New York Central, Southern Railway and Missouri Pacific preferred, sold off a point or more.

Reading Buys Rails.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The Reading Co. announced today that an order had been placed for 35,600 tons of 130-pound steel rails. The order will be divided between the Bethlehem Steel Co. and the United States Steel Corporation.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Cottonseed oil closed firmer and active. Prime summer yellow, 10.40@10.45c; prime crude, 8.87½@9c. Close: Jan., 10.72c; Feb., 10.76c; March, 10.88c; April, 10.95c bid; May, 11.07c; Oct., 10.35c; Nov., 10.35c; Dec., 10.70c. Sales, 22,600.

SHARES SOLD

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Total sales 2,876,700 shares, compared with 2,504,100 yesterday, 1,971,400 a week ago and 1,612,700 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 449,934,200 shares, compared with 371,102,900 a year ago.

Destruction of existing competition that would result from such a consolidation will be emphasized by the delegation.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—There was no change in the local raw sugar market today with spot Cuban held at 4.68c, duty paid, and no sales reported.

Trading in raw sugar futures was light and fluctuations were narrow. The undertone was steady and prices at midday were 1 to 2 points higher on covering and trade buying, presumbaly promoted by private advices from Cuba intimating that the start of the new crop would be delayed until Jan. 15. Nothing official, however, was heard from Cuba, either in regard to the restriction of the crop or as to when grinding would begin, and until this is definitely announced the trade at large seems inclined to limit fresh commitments and await developments.

Sugar fuutures closed steady; approximate sales 27,000 tons; January [illegible], March 2.90, May 2.87, July 2.95.

DOMESTIC BONDS ARE BETTER LATE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Prices of domestic corporation bonds showed distinct improvement in the latter half of today's market, after drifting rather aimlessly throughout the morning. There were evidences that many investors, in view of the unsettled condition of stocks, had transferred their attention to the mortgage trade. The advance was in the face of nearly $250,000,000 in new issues during the week, bringing the total for the past two weeks close to the half-billion dollar level.

Although Government obligations, usually one of the best indices of the general trend, were inactive at easing prices, buying of railway liens was quite spirited. Particular strength was shown by issues of some of the Northwestern carriers in further reflection of good prospects in that region. Chicago & Northwestern, Northern Pacific, and Burlington issues were in demand at or near their high prices of the year. Eastern rails also fared well, Hudson & Manhattan 6s reaching a new top and Ne wHaven 4s advancing a point to their previous year's high.

COTTON FUTURES IRREGULAR IN TRADE AT NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A further decline was followed by a steadier tone in the cotton market today on buying attributed partly to the trade and partly to covering by recent sellers. After showing net advances of 20 to 30 points, the market reacted almost to yesterday's closing quotations, as if influenced by a private crop estimate of around 13,761,000 bales and talk of large ginning figures, but steadied up again on renewed covering. The midafternoon market was quiet, at net advances of about 10 to 15 points.

Futures closed barely steady, 5 to 11 points lower. December 19.57c to 19.60c, January 19.60c to 19.62c, March 19.81c, May 19.98c to 19.99c, July 19.90c. Spot quiet; middlings 20.00c.

An opening decline of 11 to 18 points under continued Southern selling and liquidation attracted increased trade demand in the cotton market today. A large volume of offerings was absorbed on the decline to 19.46c for December, and 19.71c for March, the market soon turning firmer.

By the end of the first hour, December had rallied to 19.75c and March to 19.97c or about 25 to 30 points from the lowest and 8 to 12 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

Early selling was promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and a favorable weather map, but the further decline seemed to bring in realizing by recent sellers, and buying for trade account.

The rally from the early low level carried the price of December contracts up to 19.90c, or about 25 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Further trade buying and covering was reported and there may have been some buying on reports that spot offerings were smaller in the Southwest, but the advance met a little more selling when there were rumors of bearish private crop figures. December eased off to 19.62c, the general market at midday ruling about 3 points lower to 3 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—There was no change in the local raw sugar market today with spot Cuban held at 4.68c, duty paid, and no sales reported.

Trading in raw sugar futures was light and fluctuations were narrow. The undertone was steady and prices at midday were 1 to 2 points higher on covering and trade buying, presumbaly promoted by private advices from Cuba intimating that the start of the new crop would be delayed until Jan. 15. Nothing official, however, was heard from Cuba, either in regard to the restriction of the crop or as to when grinding would begin, and until this is definitely announced the trade at large seems inclined to limit fresh commitments and await developments.

Sugar fuotures closed steady; approximate sales 27,000 tons; January 2.93, March 2.90, May 2.87, July 2.95.

WHEAT AND CORN AGAIN LOWER IN CHICAGO TRADE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Extra rapid progress of threshing in Canada and relative slackness of European demand led to heavy selling of wheat here today. Largely as a result, both wheat and corn, for the third successive day, droped under the season's low price record. Winnipeg reported 25 lake vessels waiting to be loaded with wheat, but still unchartered.

Wheat closed unsettled 1⅞c to 2⅛c net lower, corn ⅛c to ⅞c down, oats ⅛c to ⅛c off and provisions unchanged to a setback of 25c.

Excellent weather to speed threshing of wheat and to condition the corn crop was largely responsible. Starting at ¼c to ⅜c decline, wheat underwent a slight further setback and then rallied. Corn opened ⅛c to ⅜c down, sagged a little more and later turned upgrade. Oats were easy. Provisions had a downward slant.

Effects of greatly improved conditions for threshing were illustrated by assertion today that deliveries of wheat by Canadian farmers yesterday total 6,414,000 bushels exceeding by more than 1,000,000 bushels the record-breaking total of the day before. In addition to the increased Canadian movement, word was at hand that Argentine wheat shipments this week had reached a surprising total of 1,502,000 bushels against 211,000 bushels a year ago.

Trade sentiment in regard to corn was mixed today, with talk in some quarters that liquidation on the part of holders had run its course. Further inquiry for cash corn to be shipped from gulf ports was noted. Amsterdam and Rotterdam being mentioned as asking prices. On the other hand country offerings of corn to arrive here were reported as fairly large.

MODERATELY ACTIVE MARKET ON WOOL

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"In a market only moderately active all descriptions of wool have remained firm and medium wools, quarter bloods in particular, have risen in price again. Altogether, the market is strong and healthy. Nothing new with reference to the fall clip is reported.

"The foreign markets hold steady and the tendency of prices on the choicer wools is upward. Bradford reports rather better business. Labor troubles threaten in Germany.

"The mill situation is without material change. Independent topmakers and spinners find the market still a narrow one but the larger factors are well occupied, although new business is less active, apparently at the moment.

HOLLAND TURNS TO BICYCLES AS EASY METHOD OF TRAVEL

School Children, Housewives and Working Men All Pedal About on Their Duties.

By the Associated Press

ROTTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 21.—The Netherlands is becoming a land of bicycles. Nearly every other person has one and the number is increasing as roadways are improved.

Popularity of the two-wheeled machine is due chiefly to its cheapness and the levelness of the country. Men go to work on their bikes, the housewife has her wheel for shopping and to make calls, and the children ride to school.

In Rotterdam, Amsterdam, The Hague and other centers, one of the sights is that of thousands of cyclists pedaling their way to work, home for lunch and back to work again.

Cycling paths have been built nearly everywhere, many paralleling the main highways. The bicycles are taxed about a dollar each, this fund, for road improvement, amounting to about $2,500,000 annually.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Eleana Han, 22 years old, of St. Louis, was discharged in Police Court yesterday after a warning not to accompany strange men on automobile rides. She was arrested yesterday with James McDonald, 32, and Frank Noonan, 27, as they were attempting to take an automobile. Mrs. Han said she met the two men at the Union Station and they offered to take her back to St. Louis.

Loses job and sweetheart

Your common sense tells you that neither employer nor sweetheart can stand a case of Halitosis (unpleasant breath) very long.

You, yourself, can never tell when you have Halitosis. But you'll never have it, if every day you use Listerine, the safe antiseptic.

NEW AIRLINE FROM MICHIGAN TO FLORIDA

Passenger Airplanes to Make Regular Trips Between Detroit and Jacksonville.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21.—A soft-cushioned chair before a window, through which are revealed passing clouds and a patchwork of terrain; a game of bridge, the novel of the day, a visit to the buffet, or a cigarette in the smoking compartment, all while traveling at 100 miles an hour—these are a few of the conveniences provided the passenger traveling between Michigan and Florida by air.

The maiden trip over the route has been made, and early in November regular service will begin. The Dixie & Northern Airways will take on 10 or 12 passengers in Detroit in the morning, with baggage and freight, and deposit them in Jacksonville, Fla., on the evening of the same day.

Stops will be made along the way at Cincinnati, Nashville and Atlanta. Occasionally extensions will be made to Miami, Fla., and on return flights stops will be made in Macon, Ga., whenever there is a demand. Small planes will be at the principal ports to transport passengers from and to the main line.

Speed of 95 Miles.

"Poking along" was the way it seemed to those who rode in the company's trail-blazing Pullman—a Ford-Stout all-metal monoplane with three 220-horsepower Wright Whirlwind motors—but as a matter of fact they were speeding along most of the way at 95 miles an hour, 3000 feet above the earth.

Prospective passengers are not likely to repeat the reactions of Prof. Andrew Barnard, who anticipated Nashville's spot in aviation by flying a foot-powered "airship" during the Tennessee centennial exposition on May 7, 1897. He flew triumphantly over the city in his small, single-seated dirigible, but was unable to return against the wind to his starting point.

After the momentary thrill of a "zippy ascent, the modern air passenger may loll back in his chair to view the passing scenery or otherwise amuse himself. Up in front is the pilot's compartment. The plane has a buffet, a smoking compartment, writing desks, removable tables and numerous other conveniences.

Leveled by Stabilizer.

All the passengers may rush to one side of the plane without disturbing its equilibrium, and if weight is suddenly shifted to the front or rear, a stabilizer levels the plane.

The inaugural plane, in which many distinguished persons have flown, weighs 5200 pounds empty and has a carrying capacity of a ton and a half of passengers, baggage and fuel.

Size and weight enable the plane to ride with less bumping than the smaller craft. The European basic charge for a minimum 200 pounds per passenger with baggage has been adopted by the company, and a minimum fare of $100 is charged for the Detroit-Jacksonville trip.

William C. Wakefield, president of the company, says 30 per cent of the total passenger capacity of one plane already has been reserved for the season between November and May. The number of planes and trips per week will be increased according to demand.

ROOSEVELT'S BIRTHDAY PLANS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Preparing for the meeting of the Flood Control Committee of the House, called for Nov. 7, the American Tree Association has asked the schools of the nation to observe Roosevelt's birthday, Oct. 27, with a forestry program.

Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the association, holds that reforestation, advocated by Roosevelt, if applied to denuded sections of the vast watershed of the Mississippi River system, not only would provide valuable timber resources for future generatons and prevent washing away of topsoil, but would mitigate flood conditions. He holds that it should be an integral part of a general flood-control program.

Corns

YOU will forget you ever had a corn one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads—that's how quick they end all pain. When the corn is gone it never comes back.

If new shoes irritate the spot, a Zino-pad fixes it overnight.

Old methods of paring corns, or using equally dangerous caustics or liquids, never gave people these results. Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads remove the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes. That's why they never fail, and are guaranteed.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are thin, medicated, antiseptic, protective, healing. They give you quick, safe, sure, lasting relief. Get a box today at your druggist's or shoe dealer's. Cost but a trifle.

JACOB EPSTEIN, SCULPTOR, TO EXHIBIT WORK IN U. S.

Will Present "Madonna and Child," Which Has Caused Much Comment.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A penniless youth who left New York 25 years ago with little but the skill in his fingers and brain is now the famous Jacob Epstein, noted sculptor. He is returning to New York to open an exhibition of his work.

Among the pieces he is taking to America is the "Madonna and Child," which has aroused discussion in England among the few who have been permitted to see it. Epstein took as his subject an Indian Princess and her boy, the mother with the thick lips of the Indian, and with her abnormally large feet planted wide apart, the boy standing between them.

Epstein says he worked nine months to create it and declares, "I have never had such feverish enthusiasm for a work."

The sculptor went to Paris on leaving New York and studied art. Fifteen years ago he settled in London, to become the most talked-of artist since Rodin.

GOVERNMENT PLANS MANY NEW BUILDINGS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The Government's countrywide public building program, designed to supply much-needed facilities for the rapidly growing postal service and other Federal activities, is expected to come before Congress again early in the December session.

Commencement of the building program was halted by Congress' failure, at the last session, to appropriate money to carry out the work. Authorization had been given, however, for buildings to cost $100,000,000, and everything is in readiness to go ahead with construction in more than 100 cities when funds are provided.

May Have to Rent.

The authorization voted by the last Congress will provide for less than half of the complete building program worked out by officials. Their plans now call for expenditure of another $100,000,000 or more to meet the space requirements of the various Government agencies concerned.

The postal service is so urgently in need of facilities in some cities that if Congress does not make funds available without delay, officials of the department will be compelled to rent additional space.

A type of building has been developed which has been found to serve every need of the service at a minimum of expense, and the Postmaster-General is empowered under present laws to lease such structures when required. A number have been acquired in that way.

Three Sizes Planned.

Plans for three sizes of standardized postal service buildings have been drawn. Officials, under the leasing arrangement, select a site in the midst of a city area thickly populated with users of the mails. Specifications are then circulated among builders and bids are invited. Private capital purchases the site and constructs the building. The department then takes it under lease.

BRITISH WAR RECORDS DESCRIBE DAYS OF '76

University of Michigan to Receive Manuscripts Covering Revolutionary History.

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 21.—A collection of manuscripts tracing in official records of the day the British story of the war of the American Revolution will be placed permanently in the W. L. Clements library on the campus of the University of Michigan.

They are the papers of Lord George Germain, British Secretary of State for the colonies during the War of the Revolution, and they were purchased by Clements, a regent of the university, from Mrs. Stopford-Sackville, present owner of the Germain home in Northamptonshire.

The papers constitute the virtual record of the British War Office during the revolution. Half the manuscripts are reports and letters written by Burgoyne, Cornwallis, Clinton, Howe and lesser officials in America to their chief, Lord Germain, and his replies to them.

Give Views of British.

The manuscripts form an almost complete picture of the official British army mind at the time of the Revolution; of its conception of the colonies, and of the advice given to the all-powerful man in the British War Office, directing a conflict 3000 miles away.

Judged by present political standards, the British officials differed with each other with an amazing frankness, and differed, too, in their opinion of their colonial adversaries, universally termed "rebels."

That Germain in particular and Britain in general received from army officers a wrong impression of the spirit of the colonies is said to be proved by many letters.

Papers on Way to U. S.

The papers are on the way to the United Statesc, where they will be catalogued and made a part of a notable collection of Americana housed in the Clements library.

On the shelves and in the vaults of the library now repose the manuscripts of Sir Henry Clinton, the records of the British headquarters in America during the Revolution; the papers of Lord Shelbourne, British Prime Minister who conducted negotiations ending the Revolution; and the manuscripts of Nathaniel Greene, the second General in importance on the American side.

Germain Agreed With King.

Germain was called by Horace Walpole "the gayest man in Ireland, with the exception of his father."

His selection by George III as Secretary of State for the colonies was because he was the only man in public life in England who agreed fully with the King's theory of the suppression of the colonies by force, present day historians agree.

A story is told that Germain's fondness for gayety had an important bearing on the war for independence. Union of the forces of Burgoyne and Howe had been recommended, and one Saturday the orders to Burgoyne had been written, but none were prepared for Howe. Germain left the office for the weekend and forgot the orders on his return.

Burgoyne marched south to the surrender of Saratoga, while Howe sailed south from New York and was in the Brandywine campaign when he should have been at Albany.

MUCH WORRIED ABOUT HERSELF

Did Not Want to Eat and Just Dragged Around, Says St. Louis Woman. Greatly Benefited by Cardui.

Mrs. Minnie Lindhorst, who resides at 7126 Vermont Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., says: Cardui has helped me wonderfully. I had been going down-hill for quite awhile. My strength was gradually giving away. I finally had to go to bed, and was unable to get up, for weeks.

"I was very much worried about myself. Someone recommended Cardui to me.

"After taking Cardui a short while, I felt much stronger. I was able to get up a little while each day. I continued taking Cardui, as a tonic, for I was satisfied with the way I was improving. It was not long before I was feeling in good health again. I was back doing my housework, and able to accomplish more than I had been able to do in months. I was stronger, and had more endurance.

"I have told several of my friends about it, because I want them to have the benefit of my experience. Before taking Cardui, my appetite was poor; I was not hungry. I did not ever want to eat. I dragged around, until I got so weak I had to go to bed. Now I am feeling fine. I am hungry at meal time and I have gained in weight."

Teach the Child Right Posture

IF YOUR face is as beautiful as all out of doors, and you walk around with your neck tucked in, you might just as well be ugly as home-made sin, and get through with it. A pretty face stuck above an ungraceful body is as useless as a fire-plug in the Sahara Desert. I'd lots rather be ugly and carry myself well, than to be pretty and look "tucked in" around the neck and shoulders.

Lots of times the reason people slouch along when they walk is because when they're children they get picked on so much to "hold your shoulders up," or thumped in the back and told to "hold up straight." They get so tired of hearing about it, and even though they do jerk up at the time, they will slump back just as soon as they're out of sight.

The way to train your child to hold up straight is to make a game of it. Play, "Let's see who can be the straightest, you or I." And it will do you good yourself to be reminded to hold up straight as well.

Children learn so much faster when they like what they're learning. They'll try their best to master anything that seems hard, if it is appealing. But if you nag at a child, and never explain or reason with it, you are just wasting your time.

I'll tell you a game that is wonderful for making a child stand correctly. Get a few children in to play with your child, and play balancing a book on their heads. First make them stand perfectly still, see that they expand their lungs and hold their chests up and shoulders back, then put the book on their heads. Tell them to walk around the room and not let the book drop off. Do this to each child in the room, and see which can keep the book on their heads the longest. You might have a little prize for the one who keeps the book balanced the longest.

If you will do this often enough, the attitude will become natural to your child, and it will walk perfectly erect. If you catch her stooping again, never say "Hold up your shoulders." Keep playing all the time about those shoulders. Hold your fingers up and say, "Look out, your book is about to fall!" The child will laugh, think you're a precious mama, and the idea is planted in its little brain that it must walk all the time as though it had a book on its head.

A Girl Who Cuts a Wide Swath

Miss Helen Bernaby Is the Champion Feminine Scythe-Swinger of the United States, and Last Year She Defeated All the Men Mowers of Her State.

Boston.

HELEN BERNABY, champion woman scythe-swinger of the United States, and until lately champion mower of New Hampshire, even over the men, was born in San Francisco, has lived in New York City and prefers life on her father's 125-acre farm in North Danville, an obscure hamlet in New Hampshire. A year ago this 19-year-old girl outstripped the most expert hand-mowers of New Hampshire at Durham. Needless to say, all the other experts were men.

When her male competitors last year saw this robust sample of femininity get ready to compete with them they congratulated her upon her courage, secretly hoped that she wouldn't flub the point of her scythe so many times as to appear ridiculous, then they looked on in utter amazement when she went out and distanced every one of them.

This year it was different. A 65-year-old veteran, whose gnarled hands have been trained in the shuffling swing of a scythe nearly three times as long as Helen Bernaby's total years, redeemed the pride of masculine New Hampshire by defeating Helen. Walter Stickney of Hollis was the winner. A. Edward Strand of Pembroke was second and Edwin Flanders, a 30-year-olds farmer from Warner, was third. Then came Miss Bernaby, leading 15 other men competitors.

Last year the competition attracted a few hundred folk, mostly farmers and their families. This year more than 3000 attended.

Miss Bernaby lost solely on time, the judges decided after it was all over. They declared that she was second only to Stickney in the neatness of her work. To show that farmer girls know how to lose, as well as how to win, she stepped up to the 65-year-old winner and warmly congratulated him. "It is all in a day," she said with a smile.

Then, without waiting about, she set out for her father's farm to finish some real outdoor work and to study at night in preparation for her term this winter at New Hampshire State University at Durham.

Miss Bernaby became proficient in the use of a scythe when she began as a little girl to help her father cut green feed each day for the cows. Five minutes a day did it. When she found that her "five minutes' mowing each day" put her on front pages and in the movies she said simply: "I hope it will make other girls see that there is something in staying on the farm. I love it. I don't care for the movies and I don't dance much. There is lots of fun in the country."

When she was attending Samborn Seminary, Helen's day was divided as folows: Up at 4:30 a. m., cows milked by 5, breakfast over and ready to hitch one of the three farm horses for the three-mile drive to school at 6:15; 5:30 p. m., reach home again, 6:30 finish chores, 9:30 to bed after finishing studies.

Suitors? Yes, Helen has had a score or more, most of them by the correspondence route, as a result of her exploits with the scythe.

Milk Facts And Fancies

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

MILK may or may not be an excellent food.

Milk, which in this country means cow's milk, was intended by nature for calves and not for babies, or for more mature human beings.

When the calf sucks milk from the mother cow, the milk goes into the first stomach of the calf. There it encounters an acid which converts the casein into a very solid material. Presently, the calf, being a ruminant, lies down, brings up the quid of casein, chews it, and swallows it into its digestive stomach.

The same process takes place in the baby's stomach, only the baby, not being a ruminant, can't bring up its quid, chew it, and thus break up the solid chunk.

So, to make milk a decent food for both babies and grownups, it is generally mingled with other foods or the stomach is alkalinized by a little bicarbonate of soda, so that the solid chunks of cheese will not form.

To get rid of this consolidating tendency of milk, whole powdered milk is used, which has the advantage of being sterile. It is made up with water as required.

Various milk beverages for popular consumption are derived for really the same purposes. Thus, milk shakes are a welcome change from plain milk and are popular with children. They provide a raw use for abandoned cocktail shakers. Flavoring is put in first. This may be chocolate or coffee syrup and their juices, preserved berries, fruit syrup, etc.

The milk, which should be very cold, is next added, with two tablespoonfuls of crushed ice, if the purity of the ice is certain. The whole is shaken until it becomes frothy. If there is no cocktail shaker, two tumblers should be used, and the mixture poured rapidly from one to the other.

To make an eggnog, separate an egg, beat the white stiff and the yolk light with two teaspoonfuls of sugar and a trace of salt or nutmeg. Pour two-thirds of a cup of milk onto the yolk and add the white. The milk may be hot or cold.

Evaporated milk is fresh milk with half the water evaporated. It should be watered to its original consistency.

Condensed milk has nearly all its water driven off and is concentrated with its own volume of cane sugar. It is safe and useful for healthy infants; for others it should not be used except under a doctor. It is most valuable for making cocoa, milk pudding, etc.

Malted milk is milk evaporated at a very low temperature so that the vitamins are retained and mixed with a certain amount of malt extract. It is made by adding two or three tablespoonfuls to a cup of hot water with a trace of salt. Fresh milk or sugar is unnecessary. It is an excellent baby food, and is very good for children and for grown-ups who have to put on weight. It is really a predigested milk and so may be taken into the system very rapidly and for this reason it can be digested.

ROMANCE MARRED BY MOTHER-IN-LAW

By WINIFRED BLACK.

WINIFRED BLACK

EVERYBODY said she was making a mistake when she married him. She was a teacher, and she was a young, pretty teacher at that.

Blue eyes, yellow hair, pink cheeks—just like a girl in an old-fashioned book. She went West for a vacation and on the train she met a handsome young fellow who was not a teacher at all. In fact, he had never had a teacher himself.

His mother was a well-educated woman and his father was a well-educated man, but somehow they didn't seem to care much about their chidren. When the father died and the mother married again the young fellow ahd to get out and get a living and he left school at 14 or so.

He is an Italian and he has all the graces and charm of the Latins—he can dance and he can sing, and, dear me, how he could make love! He fell in love with the pretty school teacher and before you could say "For goodness' sake!" they were married.

All their friends said: "Oh, dear!" and "My, my!" and "What a mistake!"

It isn't a mistake at all. They've been married three years, and they're as happy as a prince and a princess in a fairy tale.

The school teacher has taught her husband good English and good manners—he doesn't eat with his knife any more, and he stands up when a woman comes into the room—and he has taught his little wife economy and how to make a good dinner out of nearly nothing, and how to dance like a wave on the shore, and how to laugh, and, yes, shocking, how to make love!

They're laughing and loving their way through life, or they were until a few months ago. And now they're in trouble—serious trouble.

Mother wants to come and live with them. They send mother a good allowance every month, but she says it isn't enough, and she and her daughter want to come and live with son and his wife. They have a nice little apartment of their own, and a little flivver coupe and everything, and son and his wife haven't bought a car yet. They can't, because they need the money to send to mother, and she complains and she weeps and she doesn't see why they can't all live together, and poor little teacher is so happy and so contented with her devoted, happy husband.

Do you know what I'd do if I were in their place? I'd just write mother-in-law a nice, kind, friendly letter and I'd tell her that she has her home and she'd better stay in it.

I'd tell her my husband's life and mine belonged to my husband and me, and we could not permit anybody, no matter how much we loved them, to come between us, and that would be that—with me.

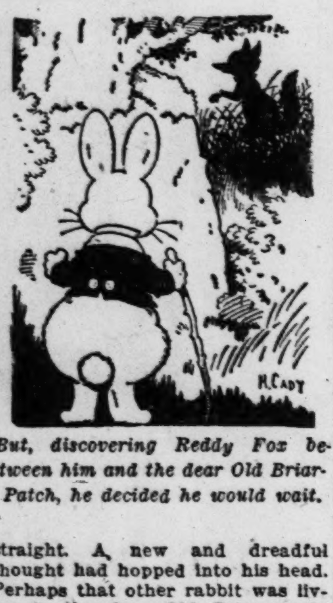
Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Decides to Go Back.

Suspicion plants within the mind
Distrust and doubts of every kind.
—Old Mother Nature.



But, discovering Reddy Fox between him and the dear Old Briar-Patch, he decided he would wait.

PETER RABBIT was badly upset. He couldn't think of anything but the handsome young rabbit he had heard about and the fact that little Mrs. Peter down in the dear Old Briar-patch appeared to be getting along very nicely without himself. In short, Peter was jealous. He wouldn't have admitted it. Goodness, no! But jealous people never will admit they are jealous.

Peter looked disreputable. You see, he hadn't taken care of himself up there in the Old Pasture. He had spent so much of his time running about recklessly and trying to forget little Mrs. Peter that he had neglected his personal appearance. But, then, Peter never was one to spend a great deal of time on his personal appearance. Presently now Peter began to fix himself up. There were burrs in his coat. He bit those out. The fact is, without really admitting it to himself, Peter was thinking about going back to the dear Old Briar-patch.

It was true that little Mrs. Peter had told him when he left that he needn't come back, and Peter hadn't intended to go back. No sir, Peter hadn't intended to go back. He had said to himself that if Mrs. Peter wouldn't come with him he never intended to go back there. But now things were different. At that time he hadn't known that there was any handsome young rabbit about.

"The dear Old Briar-patch is rather big," said Peter, as he sat talking to himself. "I know Mrs. Peter's habits so well that I could stay in the dear Old Briar-patch and she not know anything about it. Yes, sir, I could keep out of her way. I believe I'll go down there and find out what is going on. I ought to be able to catch that fellow who's hanging around down there. If I do catch him he will be sorry he ever was born. Yes, he'll be sorry he ever was born. I don't remember Fuzzy at all."

Fuzzy, you know, is the name that Peter calls little Mrs. Peter, who was Miss Fuzzytail. He went on with his toilet and when he found one burr that wouldn't come out easily he bit at it just as if it were that other rabbit. My, you wouldn't have known Peter Rabbit. All his good nature was gone.

"I'll go back there at dusk tonight," decided Peter. "I'll take care to keep out of Fuzzy's sight and I'll just watch. It is going to be moonlight tonight and that fellow will be sure to visit the dear Old Briar-patch."

Peter suddenly sat up very straight. A new and dreadful thought had hopped into his head. Perhaps that other rabbit was living in the dear Old Briar-patch, not just visiting it. "He may be living right there all the time," thought he. "He may be using my private little paths that I took so much pains to make and sitting in my favorite form. He may think the Old Briar-patch belongs to him. I guess the sooner I get over there and teach him a few things the better. I would start this very instant if it were not broad daylight. Even at that, I am of more than half a mind to try it."

So worked up was Peter that he actually went down to the edge of the Old Pasture, but, discovering Reddy Fox between him and the dear Old Briar-patch, he decided he would wait. After all, if that stranger was over in the dear Old Briar-patch he would be there later. There really was no hurry.

Sweet Potato Pie.

Take one and a half cupfuls of mashed sweet potato and add to it two cupfuls of rich milk, half a cupful of light brown sugar, two well-beaten eggs, a level teaspoonful of salt, a level teaspoonful of ground ginger, a half teaspoonful each of cinnamon, and mixed spices. Mix well, and add the yolks of two more eggs. Pour into a pie plate lined with a good short crust and bake until the mixture is set. Then cover with a meringue made of the two whites beaten stiff with a tablespoonful of sifted powdered sugar. Sprinkle with granulated sugar and put in a moderate over to cook and brown the meringue.

LAUGHING AROUND THE WORLD

All the Scott Needed Was Information.

THE Canadian National Railroad, which makes a practice of opening new highways through the timbers and getting back into the mountains, broke a roadbed through a farming district and began to develop passenger traffic.

Among the settlers was a Scotchman who had been so long off the avenues of civilization that he had no knowledge of how to proceed when he hit the lavatory for his morning's shave. Somehow or other he got the water taps working, but when it came to the soap he looked around with an air of bewilderment.

"Is it free, or do you pay?"

"It don't cost a cent; help yourself."

"A weel, mon, this is a fair surprise to me, and I shall take advantake o' it immediately."

With that remark he drew a flask from his pocket, tossed off the remaining slug in its bottom, filled the empty receptacle with a pint of liquid soap and returned to his seat in the Pullman car uttering high recommendations for modern railway facilities.

Eager appetites tell you children need good butter

DELICIOUS, flavory butter! How children love it—on scores of delightful foods. And how unmistakably eager appetites tell you that little bodies need it.

Good, pure butter not only is high in food value. It is also rich in those forms of energy known as vitamins. Some of these vitamins powerfully affect child growth. Others are known to build strong bones and healthy bodies in children.

Blue Valley is rich in vitamins and other body building elements largely because of the exceptional experience and "know how" that go into its making.

Blue Valley years ago learned that, while fine, thoroughly pasteurized cream is necessary to a superlative butter, vastly more important is skilled technique and scientific procedure.

As a result, Blue Valley Research Laboratories were founded, with Professor Otto F. Hunziker as directing head, literally marking a new era in fine butter making.

But try Blue Valley; Note its matchless aroma, its marvelous uniformity, its wondrous flavor—a flavor that has won literally millions of women everywhere. Blue Valley Creamery Company, 2722-24 Pine St., St. Louis. Telephone JEfferson 2945.

Hungry tots love flavored cereals

HEALTHY little tots should be hungry little tots. But they don't always like oatmeal. Give them a surprise tomorrow morning. Try flavoring their oatmeal with a little Price's Vanilla. You'll be surprised to see how eagerly they eat it—down to the bottom of the dish.

We asked Caroline B. King, the famous cooking expert, to prepare a number of recipes for us, flavoring the cereals with Price's Vanilla and other Price Flavoring Extracts. Her book, "35 Appetite Helps for Mother," is now ready. It tells how to flavor practically all kinds of cereals to make them tasty, tempting, appetizing and wholesome. It is positively a revelation how Price's Vanilla—the original true, tropic flavor of rare excellence, strength and purity—transforms an ordinary, every-day dish into a delicious, tasty food. The book will be sent free on request. Address

AUCTION BRIDGE

By Milton C. Work.

ONE of the most important principles for the inexperienced bridge player to remember is that, when he is an adversary of the Declarer, he should give his partner all the information he can concerning the contents of his hand; and that he should do so as simply and accurately as possible. When playing the cards of the Closed Hand, Declarer will properly manage them in the most deceptive manner possible. It is not necessary to give his Dummy information, and is advisable to withhold it from his two adversaries; but when playing against the Declarer and sitting opposite a partner who is thirsting for knowledge, every suit should be played in the most informatory manner so as to tell the partner everything that can be communicated concerning the character of the hand. The Declarer, by seeing the Dummy and playing the 26 cards as one hand, unquestionably has an advantage; the adversaries should do their utmost to neutralize that advantage.

Most rudimentary and yet most important of all advice for a player who is facing an active partner is: Do not false-card. When playing second, third or fourth hand (i. e., when following suit to a trick) always play the lower or lowest of touching cards; and when leading the top of a suit (except with ace-king), always lead the higher or highest of touching cards. By following this rule, much valuable information can be given to a partner; by failing to observe it, much misinformation will be conveyed. Even when the touching cards are comparatively small, the lower or lowest should be played.

Suppose, for example, West should lead a suit of which East holds 10-9-8; the Dummy (North) having no card of value. It is true that East is expected to play "third hand high" (i. e., to do his utmost to win the trick); but the eight (the lowest of the touching cards) will fulfill the duty of the Third Hand as fully as the nine or ten and will give accurate information to the leader. Playing the nine would misinform as it would say, "Partner, I have not the eight"; playing the ten would deny the nine. It is the same with higher cards. Holding queen-jack of partner's suit, playing the jack; playing the queen would show that the Closed Hand held the jack. Misplays of this kind are only too common and frequently cause the leader to err by assuming that a missing card is held adversely when really it is in the hand of the partner.

To illustrate the advantages which may result from the proper handling of touching cards, suppose that against a no trump the leader (West) opens an A-Q-10-4-3-2 suit, and that he properly leads the four (his fourth best), that Dummy has 7-6, and Third Hand (East) 9-8. Regardless of whether East play the nine or the eight, South (Closed Hand) who has K-J-7, will win the trick with the jack. If the nine be played and won with the jack, West would mark South with K-8, and possibly with the 7. East may or may not have the 7; West cannot tell. The King certainly is held by South (if it had been held by East, it would have been played on the first trick), and can be captured if East lead through it, which he will do at the first opportunity if he have another card of the suit. If East play the eight, as he should, and South win with the jack, West will know that East has at least one more card (the nine) to lead through the K-7. West consequently would know that if East won a trick and led West's suit, the entire suit could be run.

When a lead from a king-suit is made by West, and East—with queen-jack—properly plays the jack, the taking of that jack by the adverse ace marks the location of the queen for west; but if East improperly played the queen, West could not locate the jack.

The only exceptions which should be made to the play of the lower of touching cards by an adversary of the Declarer, are justified when he feels sure that the play cannot upset the calculations of his partner and may deceive the Declarer. For example: Fourth Hand with K-Q over A-J-10 in Dummy, Declarer finessing the 10, may properly false-card by playing the king before the queen. This cannot deceive partner and may induce Declarer to finesse jack when he next leads the suit. But only when something may be gained and there is no danger of misleading the partner, should an adversary depart from the lead-high and play-low rule.

Cream of Cucumber Soup.

Three cups sliced cucumbers, one small onion, sliced thin; one pint thin white sauce; yolk of one egg; minced parsley; salt, pepper.

Select large cucumbers, peel and slice. Add onion and cover with boiling water, cook for five minutes and add one teaspoon salt and continue cooking until the cucumbers are soft. Rub the cucumbers and onion through sieve and add them to the white sauce, which should be hot. Add salt and white pepper or paprika, to develop the flavor. Add the beaten yolk. Mix well and sprinkle parsley over the top of each serving and serve while piping hot.

MARRED
THER-IN-LAW

FRED BLACK.

The school teacher has taught her husband good English and good manners—he doesn't eat with his knife any more, and he stands up when a woman comes into the room—and he has taught his little wife economy and how to make a good dinner out of nearly nothing, and how to dance like a wave on the shore, and how to laugh, and, yes, shocking, how to make love!

They're laughing and loving their way through life, or they were until a few months ago. And now they're in trouble—serious trouble.

Mother wants to come and live with them. They send mother a good allowance every month, but she says it isn't enough, and she and her daughter want to come and live with son and his wife. They have a nice little apartment of their own, and a little flivver coupe and everything, and son and his wife haven't bought a car yet. They can't, because they need the money to send to mother, and she complains and she weeps and she doesn't see why they can't all live together, and poor little teacher is so happy and so contented with her devoted, happy husband.

Do you know what I'd do if I were in their place? I'd just write mother-in-law a nice, kind, friendly letter and I'd tell her that she has her home and she'd better stay in it.

I'd tell her my husband's life and mine belonged to my husband and me, and we could not permit anybody, no matter how much we loved them, to come between us, and that would be that—with me.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By Milton C. Work.

ONE of the most important principles for the inexperienced bridge player to remember is that, when he is an adversary of the Declarer, he should give his partner all the information he can concerning the contents of his hand; and that he should do so as simply and accurately as possible. When playing the cards of the Closed Hand, Declarer will properly manage them in the most deceptive manner possible. It is not necessary to give his Dummy information, and is advisable to withhold it from his two adversaries; but when playing against the Declarer and sitting opposite a partner who is thirsting for knowledge, every suit should be played in the most informatory manner so as to tell the partner everything that can be communicated concerning the character of the hand. The Declarer, by seeing the Dummy and playing the 26 cards as one hand, unquestionably has an advantage; the adversaries should do their utmost to neutralize that advantage.

Most rudimentary and yet most important of all advice for a player who is facing an active partner is: Do not false-card. When playing second, third or fourth hand (i. e., when following suit to a trick) always play the lower or lowest of touching cards; and when leading the top of a suit (except with ace-king), always lead the higher or highest of touching cards. By following this rule, much valuable information can be given to a partner; by failing to observe it, much misinformation will be conveyed. Even when the touching cards are comparatively small, the lower or lowest should be played.

Suppose, for example, West should lead a suit of which East holds 10-9-8; the Dummy (North) having no card of value. It is true that East is expected to play "third hand high" (i. e., to do his utmost to win the trick); but the eight (the lowest of the touching cards) will fulfill the duty of the Third Hand as fully as the nine or ten and will give accurate information to the leader. Playing the nine would misinform as it would say, "Partner, I have not the eight"; playing the ten would deny the nine. It is the same with higher cards. Holding queen-jack of partner's suit, playing the jack; playing the queen would show that the Closed Hand held the jack. Misplays of this kind are only too common and frequently cause the leader to err by assuming that a missing card is held adversely when really it is in the hand of the partner.

To illustrate the advantages which may result from the proper handling of touching cards, suppose that against a no-trump the leader (West) opens an A-Q-10-4-3-2 suit, and that he properly leads the four (his fourth best), that Dummy has 7-6, and Third Hand (East) 9-8. Regardless of whether East play the nine or the eight, South (Closed Hand) who has K-J-7, will win the trick with the jack. If the nine be played and won with the jack, West would mark South with K-8, and possibly with the 7. East may or may not have the 7; West cannot tell. The King certainly is held by South (if it had been held by East, it would have been played on the first trick), and can be captured if East lead through it, which he will do at the first opportunity if he have another card of the suit. If East play the eight, as he should, and South win with the jack, West will know that East has at least one more card (the nine) to lead through the K-7. West consequently would know that if East won a trick and led West's suit, the entire suit could be run.

When a lead from a king-suit is made by West, and East—with queen-jack—properly plays the jack, the taking of that jack by the adverse ace marks the location of the queen for west; but if East improperly played the queen, West could not locate the jack.

The only exceptions which should be made to the play of the lower of touching cards by an adversary of the Declarer, are justified when he feels sure that the play cannot upset the calculations of his partner and may deceive the Declarer. For example: Fourth Hand with K-Q over A-J-10 in Dummy, Declarer finessing the 10, may properly false-card by playing the king before the queen. This cannot deceive partner and may induce Declarer to finesse jack when he next leads the suit. But only when something may be gained and there is no danger of misleading the partner, should an adversary depart from the lead-high and play-low rule.

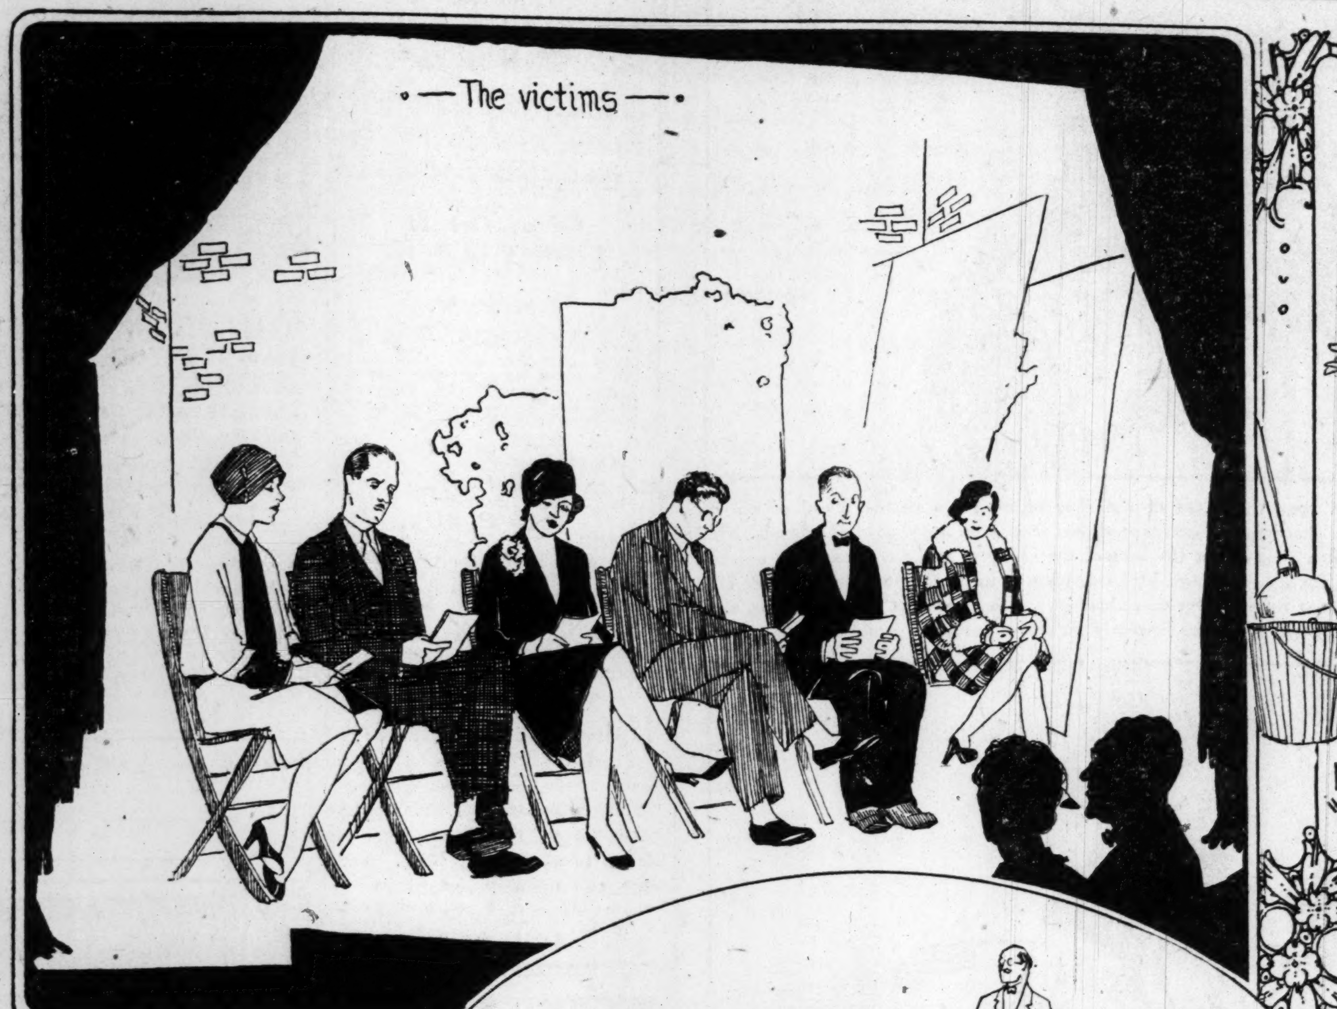
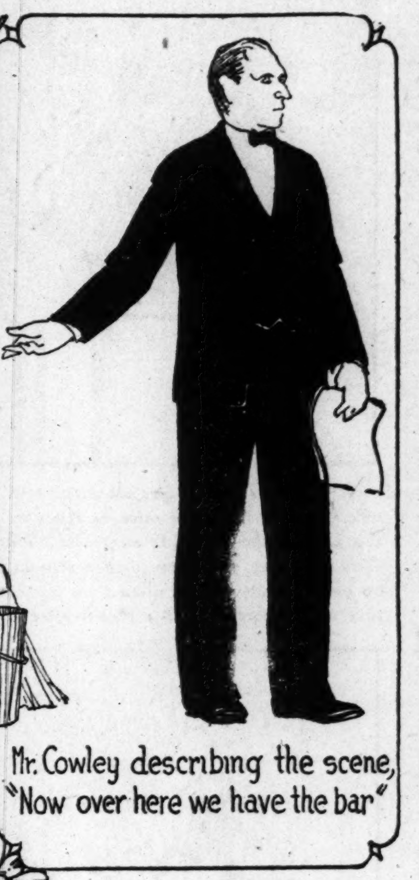
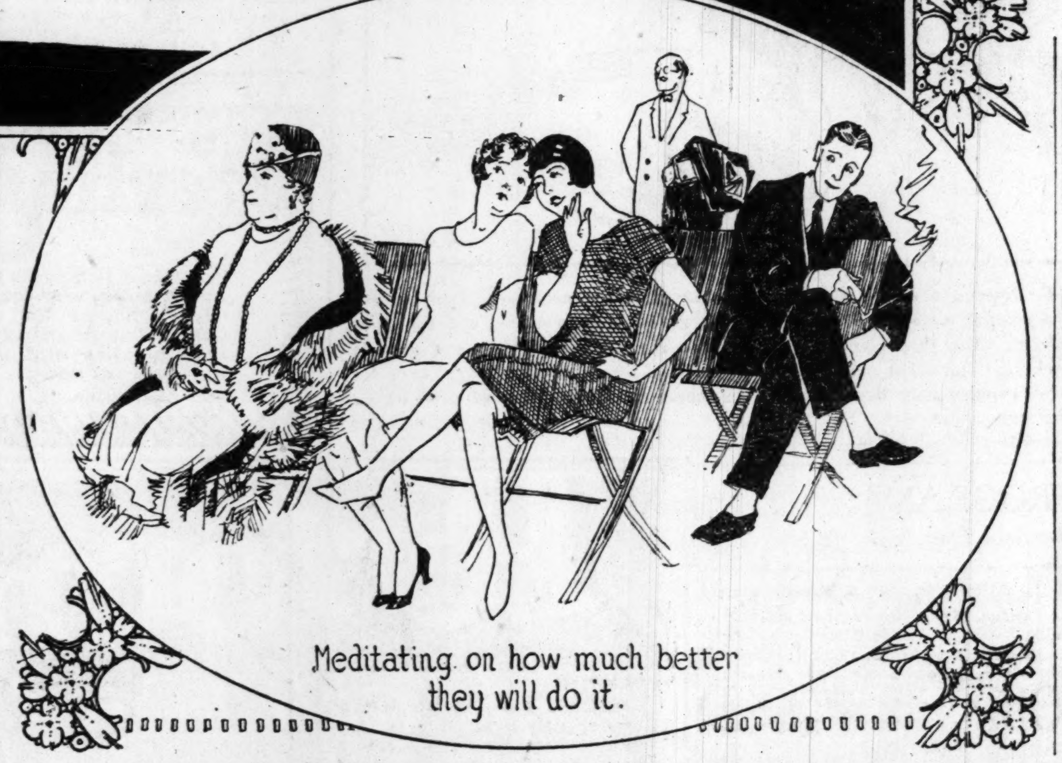
TRYING THEM OUT AT THE COMMUNITY THEATER





Mr. Cowley describing the scene, "Now over here we have the bar"



Meditating on how much better they will do it.

By ELOISE FRAZIER.

ALL Thespians hail! This greeting is addressed to all those who love to act, which will, of course, include anyone between the ages of 10 and 100. No longer need your abilities lie molding for want of an appreciative audience, for the combination of the Artist Guild Dramatic Club with the Players, resulting in a Community Theater called the Players' Guild, affords the public tryouts for all their plays and the sky is the limit. All you need is the desire to act.

The first tryout last Monday at the Artist Guild was open to the public and was attended by some 40 people ranging from the state of being a grandparent to the exciting age of 16, all anxious to "get a part." The play chosen for the organization's first production is "Outward Bound," the first act of which was read to the aspiring aggregation by Mr. F. W. Cowley, the director now in charge of all the plays. During the reading, each of us was to select the part we wished to attempt and when the time came we stepped upon the stage and that part was thrust into our hands.

BEFORE trying out, we were warned that rehearsals at least three hours in duration would take place every night for six weeks. Anyone not interested enough to work that much would be eliminated from the cast. The gathering gasped at the mention of work, but gathered itself together and steeled itself for anything which might follow. A few, however, were completely discouraged and tried to exit as quietly as possible, but the seats just weren't built for quiet exits, and as a result everyone craned around to watch their crushed departure.

Then the names of those trying out were called and the victims took their places on the stage, preparatory to reading the first act. The rest of the candidates remained out in the audience to meditate on how much better they were going to do it when came their turn. Everyone had cultivated a certain professional calm, which was very effective except when he or she received a script of the part. Isn't it queer how a paper in your hand will tremble like the proverbial leaf, even though you yourself are as calm and cool as orange ice?

THE tableau is arranged. In the audience we have groups of whispering, inly excited girls, and couples of husbands and wives, furnishing the morale for each other; then there are the men who sit singly and lounge in a nonchalant manner as if they just happened to drop in. The atmosphere is one of electric intensity. On the stage in the chairs, which are arranged in a semicircle, we, the aspirants for the various parts, are seated.

Mr. Cowley soothingly starts things off by informing us that he has coached and tried out thousands of people and everyone has come through safely, and that he knows just how we feel. (As if anyone could understand that sick feeling that is located somewhere about the middle of your build.)

You still your trembling hand (if possible), tuck your feet out of sight, and clear your clogged throat, which clearing does no good as you soon discover. How strange your voice sounds. Is that really you speaking?

THE director is saying something to you. "What?" "Oh—faster?" You start over again and though you intend to read the lines just as he told you, the fool things insist on coming out just as you read them before.

Finally you are dismissed and another "would be" takes the part. Your only course now is to sit down in some obscure corner and think about how rottenly you tried out, and how much better you could do it if you only had another chance. And, oh well, you just guess you wouldn't have much time for rehearsals anyway.

Toward the end of the evening several husbands arrived on the scene searching for their wives, parents came in looking for their offspring, and vice versa. In fact all the indications seem to be that, during the next six weeks, this theatrical movement will undoubtedly result in several smaller but more domestic movements within the families of persons cast, and that the word "rehearsal" will rapidly become a household byword.

Blonde Girls Outdo Brunettes In Swim

The blonde girl, who has suffered many an unchivalrous cut of late on the score of temperament and fickleness of purpose, won an impressive victory in the gruelling 21-mile Marathon swim at Toronto recently.

When the analysts got busy they discovered that the blonde girl entrants had won over the brunettes in a walk, so to speak.

It was a blonde girl who swam the farthest. It was a blonde girl who stayed in the icy water longest. Observers insisted that the blondes displayed more presence of mind than the brunettes and were, on the whole, calmer. The only brunette girl to win a prize ended her swim when she was frightened by an eel.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

WOMEN'S WORD.

SILKS and satins and laces frail, music that never tires, dancing feet 'til the stars grow pale, these are her heart's desires. Sheen of the sun on a bluebird's wings, joy of the seagull's flight, light and lovely and shining things, these are her heart's delight. Eyes that glow when her step draws near, arms that are opened wide, lips that murmur, "I love you, dear!" thus is she satisfied. . . .

Toiling at morning at noon, at eve, toiling through song-sweet days, smiling at toil lest another grieve, this is the part she plays. Comforting, cherishing, leading on ever to higher goals, visioning hope after hope seems gone, joyful in life's small doles; laughing with children and healing all little hearts, griefs and aches, bringing the light where no sunbeams fall, this is the world she makes.

Youth's Rule
in skin care to keep that schoolgirl complexion
By NORMA SHEARER

BEAUTIFUL complexions MAY be guarded easily if one will only learn this simple beauty rule.

Today thousands credit it with added charm and loveliness—with keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Yet of itself it is simple and economical, unlike most "rules" for skin care.

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Then rinse with warm water, and follow with a dash of cold.

Do this regularly, and especially at night, for one week. Note how much better your skin. Use powder and make-up all you wish. But never leave them on over night. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream.

That marks the modern idea in beauty culture — the proved formula for keeping "that schoolgirl complexion."

But be sure you get the real Palmolive. A soap made solely for the purpose; to guard your skin. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Its results are proved by countless schoolgirl complexions everywhere.

Get Palmolive now. Use no other on your face. Experimenting with unproved soaps is a folly. Good complexions are too priceless for that. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE © CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

Suspicion attaches in turn to Miss St. Clair, Pfyfe and Leacock. Vance eliminates Miss St. Clair, and when Pfyfe's testimony tends to incriminate Leacock, Markham is about to arrest the latter when Vance intervenes. Major Benson brings Miss Hoffman to Markham's office.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY.

• • •

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"About a week ago—I think it was Wednesday—Mr. Pfyfe called on Mr. Alvin Benson in his private office. I was in the next room, where my typewriter is located.

"There's only a glass partition between the two rooms, and when anyone talks loudly in Mr. Benson's office I can hear them. In about five minutes Mr. Pfyfe and Mr. Benson began to quarrel. I thought it was funny, for they were such good friends; but I didn't pay much attention to it, and went on with my typing.

"Their voices got very loud, though, and I caught several words. Major Benson asked me this morning what the words were; so I suppose you want to know, too. Well, they kept referring to a note; and once or twice a check was mentioned. Several times I caught the word 'father-in-law,' and once Mr. Benson said 'nothing doing.'

"Then Mr. Benson called me in and told me to get him an envelope marked 'Pfyfe-Personal' out of his private drawer in the safe. I got it for him, but right after that our bookkeeper wanted me for something, so I didn't hear any more.

"About 15 minutes later, when Mr. Pfyfe had gone, Mr. Benson called me to put the envelope back. And he told me that if Mr. Pfyfe ever called again, I wasn't, under any circumstances, to let him into the private office unless he himself was there. He also told me that I wasn't to give the envelope to anybody—not even on a written order • • • And that is all, Mr. Markham."

During her recital I had been as much interested in Vance's actions as in what she had been saying.

When first she had entered the room, his casual glance had quickly changed to one of attentive animation, and he had studied her closely. When Markham had placed the chair for her, he had risen and reached for a book lying on the table near her; and, in doing so, he had leaned unnecessarily close to her in order to inspect—or so it appeared to me—the side of her head. And during her story he had continued his observation, at times bending slightly to the right or left to better his view of her.

Unaccountable as his actions had seemed, I knew that some serious consideration had prompted the scrutiny.

When she finished speaking Maj. Benson reached in his pocket, and tossed a long manilla envelope on the desk before Markham.

"Here it is," he said. "I got Miss Hoffman to bring it to me the moment she told me her story."

"You'd better look at it," the Major advised. "That envelope may very possibly have an important bearing on the case."

Markham removed the elastic band, and spread the contents of the envelope before him. They consisted of three items—a canceled check for $10,000 made out to Leander Pfyfe and signed by Alvin Benson; a note for $10,000 to Alvin Benson signed by Pfyfe, and a brief confession, also signed by Pfyfe, saying the check was a forgery.

The check was dated March 20 of the current year. The confession and the note were dated two days later. The note—which was for 90 days—fell due on Friday, June 21, only three days off.

For fully five minutes Markham studied these documents in silence. Their sudden introduction into the case seemed to mystify him. Nor had any of the perplexity left his face when he finally put them back in the envelope.

He questioned the girl carefully, and had her repeat certain parts of her story. But nothing more could be learned from her; and at length he turned to the Major.

"I'll keep this envelope a while, if you'll let me. I don't see its significance at present, but I'd like to think it over."

"A la fin!" he murmured. "'All things journey: sun and moon, morning, noon and afternoon, night and all her stars.' Videlicet: we begin to make progress."

"What the devil are you driving at?" The new complication of Pfyfe's pecadilloes had left Markham irritable.

"Didn't care especially for the deceased Benson. And she fairly detests the aromatic Leander. He has prob'bly told her he was misunderstood by Mrs. Pfyfe, and invited her to dinner."

"Well, she's pretty enough," commented Markham indifferently. "Benson, too, may have made advances—which is why she disliked him."

"Oh, absolutely." Vance mused a moment. "Pretty—yes; but misleadin'. She's an ambitious gel, and capable, too—knows her business. She's no ball of fluff. She has a solid, honest streak in her—a bit of Teutonic blood, I'd say."

He paused meditatively. "Y' know, Markham, I have a suspicion you will hear from little Miss Katinka again."

"Crystal-gazing?" eh?" mumbled Markham.

"Oh, dear no!" Vance was looking lazily out of the window. "But I did enter the silence, so to speak, and indulged in a bit of craniological contemplation."

"I thought I noticed you ogling the girl," said Markham. "But since her hair was bobbed and she had her hat on, how could you analyze the bumps—if that's the phrase you phrenologists use."

"Forget not Goldsmith's preacher," Vance admonished. "Truth from his lips prevailed, and those who came to scoff remained et cetera. . . . To begin with, I'm no phrenologist. But I believe in epochal, racial and heridit'ry variations in skulls. In that respect I'm merely an old-fashioned Darwinian.

"Every child knows that the skull of the Piltdown man differs from that of the Cromagnard; and even a lawyer could distinguish an Aryan head from a Ural-Altaic head, or a Maylaic from a Negrillo. And, if one is versed at all in the Mendelian theory, heredit'ry cranial similarities can be detected.

"But all this erudition is beyond you, I fear. Suffice it to say that, despite the young woman's hat and hair, I could see the contour of her head and the bone structure in her face; and I even caught a glimpse of her ear."

"Indirectly — yes," admitted Vance. Then, after a pause: "I say, in view of Miss Hoffman's revelation, do not Col. Ostrander's comments of yesterday begin to take on a phosph'rescent aspect?"

"Markham—I put the question academically — doesn't Pfyfe's forged check, with its accompanying confession and its shortly-due note, constitute a rather strong motive for doing away with Benson?"

"You think Pfyfe guilty—is that it?"

"Well, here's the touchin' situation: Pfyfe obviously signed Benson's name to a check, told him about it, and got the surprise of his life when his dear old pal asked him for a 90-day note to cover the amount, and also for a written confession to hold over him to insure payment. . . .

"Now, consider the subs'quent facts: First, Pfyfe called on Benson a week ago and had a quarrel in which the check was mentioned—Damon was prob'bly pleading with Pythias to extend the note, and was vulgarly informed that there was 'nothing doing.'

"Secondly, Benson was shot two days later, less than a week before the note fell due.

"Thirdly, Pfyfe was at Benson's house the hour of the shooting, and not only lied to you about his whereabouts, but bribed a garage owner to keep silent about his car.

"Fourthly, his explanation, when caught, of his unrewarded search for Haig and Haig was, to say the least, a bit thick. And don't forget that the original tale of his lonely quest for nature's solitudes in the Catskills—with his mysterious stop-over in New York to confer a farewell benediction upon some anonymous person—was not all that one could have hoped for in the line of plausibility.

"Fifthly, he is an impulsive gambler, given to taking chances; and his experiences in South Africa would certainly have familiarized him with firearms.

"Sixthly, he was rather eager to involve Leacock, and did a bit of caddish tale-bearing to that end, even informing you that he saw the Captain on the spot at the fatal moment.

Seventhly—but why bore you? Have I not supplied you with all the factors you hold so dear—what are they now?—motive, time, place, opportunity, conduct? All that's wanting is the criminal agent. But then, the Captain's gun is at the bottom of the East River; so you're not very much better off in his case, what?"

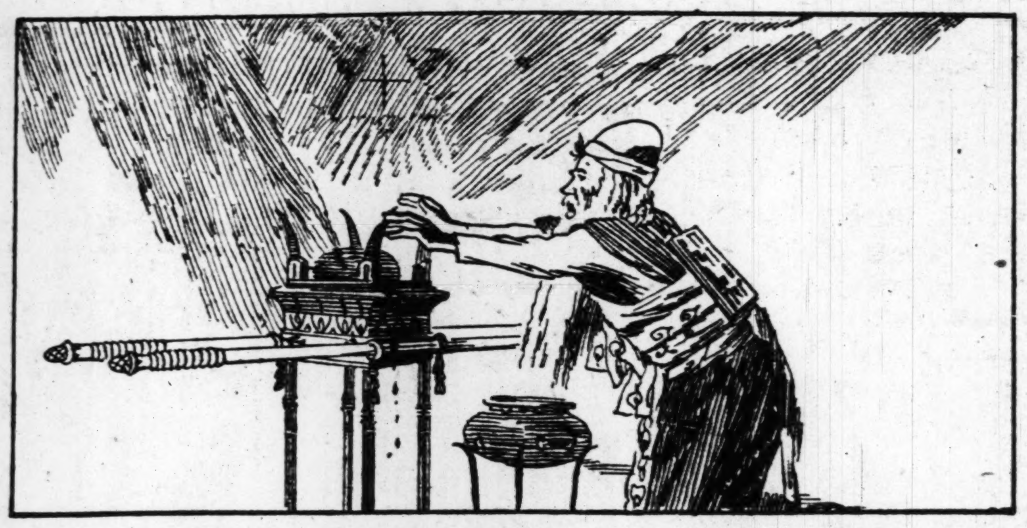
The Greatest Story in the World—By Kor

The Bible in Pictures



And Aaron shall make an atonement upon the horns of the altar of incense with the blood of the sin offering of atonements: once in the year throughout your generations: it is most holy unto the Lord. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, When thou takest the sum of the children of Israel after their number, then shall they give every man a ransom for his soul unto the Lord, when thou numberest them; that there be no plague among them, when thou numberest them. This they shall give, every one that passeth among them that are numbered, half a shekel after the shekel of the sanctuary (a shekel is twenty gerahs:) an half shekel shall be the offering of the Lord. Every one that passeth among them that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an offering unto the Lord. The rich shall not give more; and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when they give an offering unto the Lord, to make an atonement for your souls. And thou shalt take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Israel before the Lord, to make an atonement for your souls.

Honor Woman Mayor With Flower Boxes

Flowers growing in boxes on the sidewalks in front of business houses in Humboldt, Kan., keep fresh the memory of Miss H. Louise Fussman's administration as Mayor.

Miss Fussman inaugurated a city beautification program when she became Mayor. It was her idea to plant flowers wherever they would grow. Business men welcomed the idea.

The Speaker of the House

What radio needs today—take it from Major J. Andrew White, at the left—is some device to enable a shivering broadcaster to continue giving his play-by-play description of a football game and eat a hotdog at the same time.

*

Remember Don Amazo? The strange bird who used to make a violin tell you, last year, about his adventures in the farthest corner of the earth? He's coming back, beginning Sunday, October 23rd, 9:15 p. m., KYW. Weekly thereafter.

The radio announcer was transmitting a play-by-play account of the World Series game. At an exciting moment he yelled out:

"He swang at it!"

THOMAS EDISON INTERVIEWED OVER 41 STATIONS

One of those occasional events which make radio history—Thomas A. Edison to be interviewed over a nation-wide network in observance of 48th anniversary of the invention of the electric light. Will be heard by more people than have ever listened to any interview in the history of the world. Maybe they'll ask him some of the famous "Edison Intelligence Test" questions! Tonight, October 21st, KSD and 40 other stations.

Famous Irish tenor to sing for a cup of coffee—Lambert Murphy, during Maxwell House hour, Wednesday night, October [illegible], at 8 o'clock. KYW, Chicago.

Every night—dance music galore. Here's a trick I've just installed at home: Two speakers instead of one, extension cord taking second into another room. You're never far from the source of the music. And, coming from two different directions at once, it's more like a big scattered orchestra, or like Lopez turned into twins.

Lost purses and money are restored almost daily through POST-DISPATCH wants. "Most persons are honest" and return articles they find if the loss is advertised. Call MAin 1111 for an Expert Adtaker.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

COINS.—Coins valued at one to twenty-five cents have been asked about by the following writers: Olivia, Wm. Klein, Daily Reader, L. D., and Brown Eyes.

COMPTON.—Expenses of a trip to Honolulu will be furnished by the Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, or by any of the railroads which have lines running West.

WORRIED.—To trace date of article about a person who wanted to be adopted we shall need fuller information. If this appeared in the Personal Column you may trace it through the advertising department by making a personal call there.

BUDDY.—The coins you list are rare but none valued at over 25 cents except the half dollar, which has no premium value. Such coins might be wanted by those who wish to complete a collection. See classified section of telephone directory under "Coins."

NEWSBOY'S MOTHER.—If your picture signed by Paul de Longpre is an original painting it may command a good price. On Nov. 24, 1924, at an auction of the Anderson Galleries, N. Y. C., de Longpre's "Roses and Lilacs" sold for $120 and his "Carnations" sold for $50. Write the Anderson Galleries about including your property in some of their auctions. See the classified section of the telephone directory under "Art Galleries" for local galleries where the picture might be exhibited.

Mrs. G. W. E.—Florence Barclay, English novelist, author of the Upas Tree and other novels, passed away at Limpsfield Court, Surrey, England, March 10, 1921. She was born in 1862. Her husband was the Rev. Charles W. Barclay, so it seems probable that she was of a Protestant faith, which is the best knowledge we have as to her religion. You may find the names of all books by Francis B. Calhoun, or by any author, by applying at the information desk, public library. Also try library files of music, for the words of the songs wanted, if music stores cannot furnish them.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

FRENCHIE.—No license would be necessary for the occupations you mention, conducted in your own home.

BIBLE READER.—The police will not allow you to tell fortunes for money in the city. You cannot get a license for it.

C. F. H.—The judgment inquired about would be a lien on any real estate in that county, owned by either you or your wife.

COUNTRY READER.—It is true, as you ask, that the crime inquired about, committed three years ago, is barred from prosecution by the statute of limitation.

J. W. C. AND CHILDREN.—Write the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Independence, Mo., for information about a divorce obtained there. In Missouri one can remarry immediately after a divorce has been obtained.

REGULAR READER.—You can claim the jewelry found by you if the owner does not appear and if you comply with the provisions of Section 7287-7292, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1919, which you can read at the public library. If the amount involved is much, consult a lawyer.

D. P.—Relative to the shares you can write to the Secretary of State, Phoenix, Ariz., and find out if the company is still in existence. If the stock has any value there would have to be administration on your wife's estate before the stock could be transferred.

JUSTICE.—Answering your first question: there is no law regulating this; if the landlord will not put a stop to it all you can do is move. The landlady has no right to go through your personal property but probably you could not have her prosecuted. The limitations period for a slander suit is two years. If the property is owned jointly by the persons in question it could not be reached under a judgment against one of them. As to delivering a notice to move in person, or leaving it in the hall, if the landlord can prove that the tenant actually received the notice, that is enough.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

C. A. B.—The taking of two of the five-grain tablets of caroid and bile salts three times daily after meals should help to relieve the condition you mention.

BUSY READER.—An exercise for reducing the abdomen is: in a standing position clasp the hands over the abdomen, contract the muscles of the abdomen and bend at the hips six times, keeping the muscles well contracted throughout the bending, and rest by taking three deep breaths between the exercises. Practice this night and morning for 20 or 30 minutes, or until fatigue is felt.

MY TROUBLES.—Your optician is familiar with such cases as yours and doubtless knows better than we could advise. If not satisfied he is right, consult an oculist, one who specializes in such cases. For whiteheads, open with a needle, express the contents by squeezing, apply hot fomentations for 10 or 15 minutes, and then apply, after drying, the following: boracic acid, two drachms; alcohol, two drachms; rosewater, four oz.; mix and apply night and morning with gentle friction. Rings under the eyes will disappear with proper diet, systematic, outdoor exercise and correcting constipation. Delayed menstruation may result from any devitalizing circumstance. The age for informing a daughter on the subjects you refer to, is the age of puberty, 12 to 14 years of age. The symptoms you ask about are the same in animals as in the human being.

B. J. M.—The limited space allowed in this column does not permit telling all that the specific disease inquired about may do to the body. Briefly, it is capable, if neglected, of impairing the functional activity of every organ in the body, or even accomplishing the destruction of the same. It is not infectious, that is, not communicable through the medium of the air, but it is contagious, as by personal contact, kissing, etc., and by use of the same articles of tableware, drinking cups, etc. Two years is an average time to perfect a cure, but sometimes even longer, during which time such a case should be under the treatment and supervision of a competent physician.

LOSES $41,000 IN SWINDLE AFTER HE HAD BEEN WARNED

REFUSED TO HEED ADVICE AT BANK

Police Shadow Man to save Him, but He Evades Them, and They Find Him Again, Too Late.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 22.—William E. Ebert, a consulting engineer of 7111 Waterman avenue, St. Louis, was swindled here today out of $41,000 in cash by two men who represented to him that by this investment he would make a quick profit of $20,000 on the New York stock market.

So confident was Ebert that the men with whom he was dealing were honorable that he ignored a warning of a local bank to be cautious and not go through with the deal without first bringing his associates to the bank. He did not waver at this warning, and not until the men had gone with his money did he become convinced that he had been duped.

Chief of Police Underwood last night received information from underworld sources that Ebert was to be swindled, and notified the Ridgely-Farmers' Bank here, through which the money from a St. Louis bank was to be paid today to Ebert. When Ebert called for the money he was warned by the banker that swindlers had been active in Springfield and that he ought to bring his friends to the bank.

Ebert Refused to Be Advised.

Ebert would not discuss the nature of the deal, and asserted that he was a business man and could not be easily defrauded. "It is a private deal," was all that he would say, "and I am not privileged to discuss its nature with anyone."

Chief Underwood had gone so far as to have two detectives shadow Ebert in the hope of catching the swindlers, but he evaded them. They found him later on the railroad station platform and induced him to go to Police Headquarters. There he made a statement to Chief Underwood.

In this he said he met a man named Miller in a Chicago railroad station last October who said he was preparing to invest in St. Louis real estate. Ebert gave the man his card, and "Miller" later came to St. Louis and offered to buy Ebert's Waterman avenue home for $20,000, if Ebert would take Springfield real estate as part payment.

This called for a visit of Ebert to Springfield, where he was shown property that he agreed to accept, and so the deal stood when "Miller," as if by chance, met a man named "Haines" in the hotel at Springfield, to whom Ebert was introduced. "Haines" professed to be a member of the "Exchange Club, exclusive for bankers and brokers," but was about to be discharged by his firm. If he had $70,000, he told "Miller" and Ebert he could make $90,000 quick on a stock deal, through his membership in the "Exchange Club."

Ebert was impressed with this prospect and soon was induced to help out, in consideration of a substantial profit on what he would advance. He needed time and so came to St. Louis and drew $15,000 from his bank and borrowed all he could, $26,000, which he transferred to the Springfield bank by draft to his account there.

Promised Profit of $20,000.

Upon meeting "Miller" and "Haines" today, he told Chief Underwood, they assured him they would use his $41,000 and give him a profit of $20,000 in a few days. But it was necessary for them to be off at once, they told him, and he accompanied them to the railroad station and saw them off on a train for Chicago.

Beyond the names "Miller" and "Haines" that is all Ebert knows of the men, and when this was pointed out to him, together with other like swindles in which the same scheme was used, Ebert then became convinced that he had been duped and boarded a train for St. Louis.
